18,000 WATCH OKLAHOMA TIE G. W. U., 7 TO 7

Cherry Catches Pass Tossed by Dunlap to Deadlock Game.

FENLON IS LEADER OF COLONIAL DRIVE

Sooners Held on 1-Yard Line; Whistle Halts Late Rally of Local Eleven.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

George Washington University and Oklahoma football teams yesterday served 18,000 Washington fans a holiday dish heaped high with thrills and garnished with thrills, and there was ample reason for thanksgiving by both sides when the battle at Griffith Stadium ended in a 7-7 deadlock.

The prayers on the lips of the unpoetically named Sooners should have been a bit more fervent perhaps than the thanksgiving of the Colonials, for even as the game ended George Washington was seriously bent on a game-winning touchdown in a last-period counter attack that was stilled only by the inexorable ticking-off of the last seconds of the timer's watch.

But George Washington saw its 7-0 lead of the first half vanish in the third quarter on the wings of the forward passing attack launched by the sharp-shooting Bob Dunlap, of Oklahoma, and this same Dunlap, who kicked the game-tying goal as calmly as he flung his lethal passes, was a menace to the Colonials' hopes as long as the game had not yet run its course.

Fred Cherry Is Cohero.

George Washington's sorrow at the untimeliness of the final whistle was tempered in no small degree by the realization that no longer must Dunlap be feared. Nor could Fred Cherry, elongated end who caught a 16-yard pass from Dunlap and ran 4 yards across the goal line wreak any more disaster to G. W.

Oklahoma had its Dunlap and George Washington had its Johnny Fenlon, and the 18,000 who thronged Griffith Stadium in the Capital's greatest football holiday of the season sat in on an inspiring performance by Fenlon in his farewell to George Washington football.

Great as Dunlap was, Fenlon was greater. For this little 165-pound package of energy almost single-handedly blazed the way to the touchdown that loomed first as the all-important winning margin and later as the important effort that was to net George Washington a tie.

Fenlon Dominates Attack.

While Dunlap passed with the accuracy of a marksman and booted the ball for lengthy distances that averaged 50 yards, Fenlon passed, too, in clever fashion and dominated the running attack of both teams with sensational gallops into the line and out of it, and around the ends, lugging back punts and kick-offs for precious yardage.

Fenlon it was who touched off the spark to the parade to a touchdown in the second period when he mothered one of Dunlap's punts to his

Dangling Aviatrix Saved From Death

Flying Companion Rights Plane in Tailspin Headed for House.

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Dangling in midair by one foot caught in a strap, Miss Annette Gibson, well-known aviatrix, was saved from death today when her flying companion, Hugh Copeland, brought their plane out of a tailspin just as it was about to plunge into a house.

The two had gone aloft with Miss Gibson at the controls to capture a large balloon released by a department store in an advertising stunt. She made five futile dives but hit the balloon on the sixth try.

It tangled in the left wing and the plane went into a spin, hurling Miss Gibson over the side. Her foot caught in the safety strap on her seat, however, and she was able to pull herself back as Copeland, who seized the controls, leveled the plane out just over the heads of horrified spectators. They landed safely at Roosevelt Field.

Actress Wins as Walker Loses at Monte Carlo

Monte Carlo, Nov. 24 (U.P.).—James J. Walker, former mayor of New York, broke his "early to bed" resolution tonight and played at the Casino gaming tables with Betty Compton, slim, attractive musical comedy star.

Betty won handsomely at chemin de fer, making up for Walker's quick loss of 1,000 francs with only four spins of the roulette wheel.

A. N. Miller, Realtor, Badly Injured in Fall

Vertebra Is Fractured When Thrown From Horse on Farm.

A. N. MILLER.

A serious spinal injury was suffered by Allison N. Miller, 41, prominent Washington realtor and builder, yesterday when he was thrown from a horse. He was riding with his father-in-law, E. J. Roth.

The accident occurred on Mr. Miller's farm near Spring Valley. He was taking a morning ride when his horse pitched him to the ground. Mr. Roth summoned aid and Mr. Miller was removed to Emergency Hospital. There, Dr. G. W. Leadbetter diagnosed his injury as a fractured vertebra.

Although Dr. Leadbetter said the real estate man's injury was of a very serious nature, he declared that he would recover completely. He will be confined at the hospital eight weeks or more.

Mr. Miller, member of the real estate and building firm of W. C. and estate and building firm of W. C. & A. N. Miller, lives at 4336 Cathedral avenue. He is married and has three children, Allison N., jr., Edward J. and Suzanne.

He is a native of Washington and has been prominent in real estate and business circles for many years with his brother, William C. Miller. He is president of the Washington Securities Co. and a director of the Washington Brick & Terra Cotta Co.

HITLER AGAIN LOSES CHANCE AS PREMIER

Hindenburg Withdraws Offer to Nazi Leader and Calls in Rivals.

Berlin, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—President von Hindenburg, who offered last week to make Adolf Hitler chancellor of Germany if he could guarantee the support of the Reichstag, withdrew that offer today and called in leaders of the other parties to consider another candidate.

Thus Hitler goes back to the sidelines for the moment, but Hermann Wilhelm Goering, one of his important associates in the National Socialist party, said this evening that no matter who gets the job the Nazis will oppose him so bitterly that he will not hold office long.

The president's original offer to Hitler, limited by a series of conditions, was almost impossible at the very start for the Nazi leader to accept. It would have been inconsistent with his record of opposition to parliamentary government if he had taken the appointment only on condition of parliamentary support.

He told the president last night that he could not control the Reichstag, but he renewed his proposal that Von Hindenburg make him the head of a "presidial" cabinet, to rule without consulting the Parliament.

The president's refusal today made it plain that he has not sufficient confidence in Hitler to place him at the head of a government to rule solely with the presidential authority.

Now there must be found a man who has the confidence not only of the president but of the Reichstag. The politicians say there is no such man, and the only way out of this situation, it is pretty generally agreed, is by the formation of another "presidial" cabinet.

Col. von Papen, who resigned in the face of a hostile Reichstag, may be recalled or the chancellorship may be intrusted to some one who will pledge himself to follow out Von Papen's program at home and abroad.

BONUS MARCH FOES ASK AID OF RITCHIE

Waters Wants Governor to Warn Maryland Veterans Against Capital Invasion.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 24.—W. W. Waters, who commanded the bonus expeditionary forces in Washington last summer, has written to Gov. Ritchie from Miami, Fla., asking him to use his influence to dissuade participation by Maryland veterans in the proposed "second bonus march on Washington."

Mr. Waters, who held sway over the B. E. F. under the title of colonel, met with Gov. Ritchie a few days after the veteran army was evicted from the Capital, and it was on Gov. Ritchie's advice that a proposed B. E. F. settlement in Maryland was abandoned and Mr. Waters issued orders for the contingent to disperse.

"As the leader of the veterans in Washington last summer," said Mr. Waters' letter to the governor, "I want to add my earnest protest against this movement (the proposal to organize another veteran march on the Capital).

"Another march would be pointless, futile and highly dangerous to society, especially as the one at present being agitated is headed by two of the most active of American Communists; in fact, two who were early refused admittance to the ranks of the B. E. F. These men, Samuel Stember and Emmanuel Levin, should

3 Bank Theft Suspects Taken After Second Try

Akron, Ohio, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Three men alleged to have robbed a Marionville, Pa., bank of $7,500 in a daring holdup three weeks ago were captured today after an unsuccessful attempt to rob a savings and loan office at Uniontown, Ohio, Detective Chief E. J. McDonnell said tonight.

The trio, McDonnell said, held Frank B. Johnson, cashier of the Pennsylvania bank, a prisoner with members of his family all night while they waited for the lock on the bank's vault to open November 3. He said one of the three men confessed.

Champion Pekingese Starts Post Toy and Doll Fund

Ding-How of Hydegree Gets Scotch Pet to Loosen Up; Boys and Girls of Junior Clubs Also Welcome Chance to Spread Christmas Cheer.

Ding-How of Hydegree, mascot of The Junior Post and editor of the Pets' Corner in that leading juvenile publication, a Pekinese boasting 10 champions in his family line, was the first to respond to the 1932 Post Toy and Doll Fund appeal.

Ding-How of Hydegree, who has the distinction of being the only dog in the world conducting a regular week'-column in a newspaper, turns aside from the tempting odors of turkey yesterday to be interviewed when told of the new endeavor of The Washington Post to bring a merry Christmas to every needy child in Washington.

"Of course, I will do my bit," barked Ding-How. "Here's a dime. Will that help? Perhaps some of the pets who write to the Pets Corner will match my gift or their kind owners will do so for them. Just as the Scotch believe 'many mickles make a muckle,' so many dimes will make dollars. Pets are much interested in the merry Christmas plan. For they like to play, too, with the toys that come to the children. Many of these cheerless homes that will be helped by The Post Toy and Doll Fund have pets in them, too. Of course no home can be really unhappy where there is a pet. But Santa Clause must not pass it by or both the children and the pets will be broken-hearted on a day when all children and pets should be rejoicing."

Ding-How excused himself for a minute to investigate the turkey situation, then pattered back to talk to The Junior Post editor.

"I'll call on all the readers of the Pets' Corner to help," he volunteered. "Furthermore every Saturday beginning with December 3, I will appear in person at the library of The Washington Post and help the Santa Claus Lady received the fund offerings. Bring your gifts then and I will personally thank the donors. My office

6 IN SEATTLE MURDERED BY MAD FILIPINO

WEAPONS ARE MADE FROM NATIVE BOLO

Police Overpower Laborer in Terrific Struggle; Lust for Blood Blamed.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Maddened and lusting for blood, a Filipino armed with knives ran amuck in the streets here today, killing six persons and wounding 15 more before police answering riot calls ran down and captured him. Overtaken just as he stabbed a Japanese, three patrolmen ended the slasher's trail of slaughter after a hand-to-hand battle.

The Filipino was beaten down and two knives—which appeared to have been fashioned from a bolo, a native knife—were taken from him.

Heavily manacled, the Filipino was taken to jail where he gave the name of Julian Marcelino, 30, and said he was a laborer.

Six Victims of Attack.

Four fellow Filipinos and two white men fell, fatally wounded, under his murderous onslaught. They were:

W. J. Morris, 60, a grocery store proprietor, who was killed outside his shop.

Frank Johnson, 65, a bystander, slain on the sidewalk.

Bernardino Bonita, Filipino, about 25.

Jimmy Ginimez, Filipino, about 15.

William Tanador, Filipino, 28, who died a few minutes after being rushed to the City Hospital.

After helping overpower the slayer, Patrolman Gorden Jensen, whose sleeve had been slashed by the swinging blade, said:

"He fought like a mad wolf. He had more than human strength."

First Warning of Slaughter.

A terrified voice from a hotel gave the first warning of the slaughter, in a call to police headquarters. The person who called said a terrible fight was underway in the district.

The mad killer had just slashed down I. Kitamura, 35, when Patrolman Jensen, off duty and returning from a football game, passed in his automobile. Leaping from his car, he closed with the Filipino, who swung the blade viciously.

Arriving on the scene, Patrolmen William Renolds and Charles Seavers leaped upon the struggling man, and the three officers overpowered him.

Those slain, physicians said, had been slashed viciously just over the heart, apparently with perfect accuracy.

Although his course down the street was hurried, he had also taken his time as he trotted from victim to victim, witnesses said. He aimed deliberately at the deadly spot on their chests.

Greer, Once D. C. Star, Dies at Game

Was Refereeing Football Contest in Philadelphia; Well Known Here.

Philadelphia, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—John J. (Jack) Greer, former all-around athlete at Georgetown and Catholic Universities, fell dead today while refereeing a football game between Upper Darby and Haverford High Schools.

Several thousand spectators, among them his wife and 18-year-old son, Jack, jr., saw him fall soon after carrying the ball from one end of the Upper Darby High School Athletic Field to the other for the start of the second quarter.

Greer, who was 43, was district manager for a school book company, and coached high school teams in this vicinity.

Born in Washington, D. C., Greer formerly was an instructor in sciences at Georgetown and Catholic Universities, where as a student he played both baseball and football.

The body will be taken Saturday to Falls Church, Va., where he will be buried.

Greer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Greer, of 116 Twelfth street northeast, last night left here for Philadelphia. Greer was graduated from Eastern High School, where he starred in sports.

WHITE HOUSE LEADS THANKS FESTIVITIES

Weather Bears Sparkle of Wine and Good Will Pervades Day.

Brilliant church services, bountiful dinners, weather with the sparkle of wine and a general atmosphere of harmony and good will marked the passing of Thanksgiving Day in Washington.

The White House was the scene of a typical American family gathering last night, with the President and Mrs. Hoover and close friends partaking of turkey, cranberry sauce and other traditional Thanksgiving dishes. The turkey, gift to Mr. Hoover from an admiring friend, weighed 22 pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover attended services at the Foundry M. E. Church in the morning. President Hoover arose early, as usual, and played medicine ball, breakfasting afterwards with Mrs. Hoover. He worked alone in the tranquillity of the Lincoln study until time to attend the service. The afternoon was spent in leisure at the White House.

Other high officials dined with relatives and friends. Vice President Curtis had a quiet dinner with his daughter, Mrs. C. P. George at his hotel. Vice President-elect John N. Garner and Mrs. Garner devoted part of the day to work.

Some members of the cabinet remained in the city while others visited out of town. The day was a sad one for Postmaster General Brown, who left the city to attend the funeral of Joseph Henry Bagley, a life-long friend, in Grand Rapids, Mich., today.

Secretary of State Stimson was on his way for several days of duck shooting in the South, accompanied by Mrs. Stimson and his military aid, Capt. Eugene Regnier. The party will return Monday.

Services at Foundry Church were conducted by the Rev. Edwin H. Hughes, resident Methodist bishop of Washington, assisted by Bishop William F. McDowell, retired; the Rev. James Shearer Montgomery, pastor of Metropolitan Memorial Church; the Atlantic Shipping Lines Discuss Increased Rates

London, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Sixteen lines of the Atlantic Shipping Conference met in the greatest secrecy today to discuss an increase in rates and other problems. Officials generally were noncommittal, but there was an unconfirmed report that an agreement to raise passenger rates had been reached, although one line was holding out against it.

There remain "technical points to clear up," it was said. The Canadian Pacific reportedly was seeking new classifications of ships. The conference was expected to conclude tomorrow.

Wife of Calles Is Kept Alive With Hypodermics

Mexico City, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Senora Leonora Llorente Calles, wife of former President Plutarco Elias Calles, was kept alive today with hypodermic injections.

President Abelardo L. Rodriguez and members of the cabinet called on Gen. Calles this afternoon. All official government functions have been canceled. Senora Calles is suffering from a brain tumor.

300 Per Cent Duty Put On Potatoes by Irish

Dublin, Irish Free State, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The government today announced duties, effective tonight, of about 300 per cent on potatoes from Britain and Northern Ireland. This is the latest development on the tariff war between Britain and the Free State. New tariffs also were laid on cut flowers.

STUNT FLIER LEAPS 6 FLOORS TO DEATH

Ivan R. Gates, Former Auto Racer, New York Suicide; Wife Fails to Save Him.

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Ivan R. Gates, who thrilled thousands as an automobile racer and later as an airplane stunt pilot, plunged to his death from a window of his sixth-floor apartment in the Chelsea district today.

His wife, who seized his legs in an effort to restrain his leap, was almost carried out the window with him. She clung to him for 15 minutes, crying for help, and then collapsed in a faint.

Gates, who amassed a fortune estimated by Elmer H. Holmes, head of a Long Island airport, at several million dollars in manufacturing airplanes, in the stock markets and other ventures, was said by Holmes to have suffered reverses.

Gates, who was born in Rockford, Mich., about 43 years ago, was known as the flying circus "king." He was credited with having staged some 2,000 air meets in 43 States.

In 1928 he sought to recoup his

MASSACRE CHARGED TO JAPAN BY CHINA

2,700 Peasants Killed on Suspicion of Assisting Insurgents, Claim.

Shanghai, Friday, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—A Chinese foreign office communique published here today charged that 2,700 Chinese peasants were massacred recently in northern Manchuria by Japanese troops.

The mass killing was done by machine guns, the communique said.

Inhabitants of the villages of Pingtingshan, Chienchingpae and Litsekou, 10 to 16 miles northeast of Fushun, were assembled in a ditch west of Pingtingshan while Japanese soldiers searched the villages for Chinese volunteers, the announcement said. It was explained that the villagers were suspected of cooperating with and harboring the volunteers.

The Japanese promised a reward if the villagers were found to be innocent, the foreign office asserted, and then placed more than ten machine guns 70 yards from the assemblage, ordering all the captives to kneel with their backs to the guns.

Some of the villagers realized the Body of Friend May Lure Floyd, Outlaw, Into Trap

Oklahoma Officers Expect Him to View Corpse of Lieutenant, Slain While Robbing Bank to Shield Chief's Removal of Wife From Hospital.

Earlsburg, Okla., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—State operatives spread a trap here today for Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, elusive Oklahoma desperado, after receiving information he had visited the home of his slain lieutenant, George Birdwell.

Recalling that Birdwell defied the law two years ago to pay his last respects at the bier of his dead father, officers looked to sentiment to bait their trap as reports came that Floyd intended to view the body of Birdwell at a funeral home here.

Birdwell, described by officers as more dangerous than Floyd, was slain yesterday as he robbed the bank of the tiny Negro village of Boley. His Negro companion, Charles Glass, of Earlsboro, was slain, and his white aid, C. C. Patterson, of Kiowa, wanted in several counties, was gravely wounded.

D. J. Turner, white-haired Negro president of the bank, was shot and killed by Birdwell after sounding an alarm. Birdwell in turn was shot down by H. C. McCormick, assistant cashier, and Negro vigilantes did the rest.

Gov. Murray today conveyed his congratulations to McCormick "for keeping your head in the face of danger," and his condolences to the family of Turner.

Belief that Birdwell may have undertaken the Boley robbery in an effort to divert attention from Floyd was expressed when it was learned that Floyd's wife was removed mysteriously from a Tulsa hospital last night. Mrs. Floyd, mother of a 6-year-old son, Jackie, was operated on recently for appendicitis.

Their home is in North Tulsa, where Floyd some months ago nearly was trapped, but it was believed Mrs. Floyd has been taken to her father's farm home near Bixby. It was impossible to verify the report.

The reward on Birdwell's head was approximately $1,000, while about $5,000 rests on Floyd's "dead or alive."

POLICE DEFEAT RADICALS' DASH TO SEE HOOVER

NEW YORK DOCTOR PUT UNDER ARREST

Physician's Girl Aid Also Grabbed When Hunger March Plot Fails.

A bright blue police motorcycle yesterday afternoon proved the final bar to a desperate last-minute drive by a group of hunger marchers in a taxicab to gain entrance to the White House Grounds, where they sought to present a petition to President Hoover for alleviation of purported starvation conditions.

The taxicab bore Dr. Emil Conason, 32, of New York City, and had whirled toward the Executive Mansion just ahead of a delegation of six "child misery" protestants, none over 12 years old, who had been designated by 60 other children in an improvised meeting hall across from Griffith Stadium, to bear the petition to the President.

Accompanied by motorcycle policemen, the taxicab bearing Dr. Conason shot through two red lights at a fast clip in an attempt to elude the policemen. Arriving in front of the Executive Mansion, the driver, Harry Mack Lowe, colored, was instructed to keep right on moving.

Success in Sight.

Instead, the cab whirled at the west Pennsylvania avenue entrance to the White House Grounds and shot toward the open gate. For a moment it appeared as if success would crown the break for the portal.

Then a nimble-witted and unidentified motorcycle patrolman rode his motor into the path of the cab, just as it was about to go through the portal.

The taxi slithered to an abrupt halt. Immediately a dozen husky policemen, part of the strong cordon that surrounded the White House, set upon the machine and pushed it back to the north side of Pennsylvania avenue.

At this moment Dr. Conason alighted and shouted:

"I want to see the President. I want to present a petition to him."

Surrounded by District, park and White House police, the black-goateed New York physician repeatedly shouted this cry. Then Capt. Patrick Carroll, of the park police, informed him the President "wasn't seeing anybody today."

Refuses to Leave.

Dr. Conason then shouted to the throng of policemen and reporters surrounding him: "Am I under arrest?"

Told that he was not in custody, he attempted to shove toward the White House again and was then unceremoniously bundled toward the patrol box, protesting vigorously

Official Germany Sees Debts Indirect Concern

Berlin, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Official Germany regards current negotiations for reconsideration of the war debts as a matter which does not directly concern this country.

There has been no official comment, but the tendency seems to be to agree with the British opinion that the debts situation requires further explanation to the United States.

WINE ISSUE ENTERS PLANS TO GET BEER

Drive to Link Beverages in Legislation in Prospect at Short Session.

(Associated Press.)

A new problem appeared yesterday in Democratic plans to legalize beer in the short session of Congress in demands that legislation modifying the Volstead act also permit the sale of light wines.

Meanwhile, some brewers prepared to seek both barrel and bottle distribution of beer. Replies to inquiries from several indicated they are not united on any definite proposal except that the permissible alcoholic content be increased.

Plans for the formation of a bloc to insist upon the legislation of light wines already are in the making. They were forecast by Representative Hawley, of Oregon, ranking Republican on the ways and means committee, after it had decided to open hearings on a beer bill December 7.

In San Francisco, Representative Welch (Republican), California, said representatives from the wine-producing and consuming States including California, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Missouri probably would make up the bloc.

Proponents Assured Equal Hearing.

Chairman Collier of the House ways and means committee said the wine proponents would be given an equal hearing with beer advocates.

In answer to an inquiry on beer distribution, August A. Busch, of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., St. Louis, said that "Congress should not attempt to regulate the distribution of beer in event the Volstead act is amended, inasmuch as any act passed by Congress on the subject can relate only to nonintoxicating beer under the Constitution." He added:

"Regulation of sale (of beer) is a State function, and if (State) police powers can impose and enforce proper regulation much more effectively than the Federal Government, the acts of Congress should be limited to the defining of the percentage of alcohol which may be permissible, to impose and collect a tax on the product and to determine what tariff rates should apply on imported beers."

Edward Lansberg, president of the Blatz Brewing Co., in Milwaukee, said, if the Volstead act is modified, beer should be sold "only in bottles at hotels, clubs, restaurants, lunchrooms, dining cars, &c., for consumption with meals, and in grocery, department, drug and other retail stores by bottle or case for home consumption."

William L. Goetz, president of the M. K. Goetz Brewing Co., in Chicago, recommended 2.75 per cent beer by weight, to be distributed as near beer through "the ordinary channels" and "without sales restrictions which usually are made to surround the sale of intoxicating liquor." He said 2.75 per cent beer was nonintoxicating in effect.

Beer to Be Put First.

"This method of distribution in bottles and by draught will insure a sufficient volume of beer for a tax base on which a large revenue can be secured without a prohibitively high rate of tax, enabling the brewer to retail his product at a price within the reach of all," he said.

Meanwhile, Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill said they would not seek adoption of a resolution to repeal the eighteenth amendment at the short session until after action on beer legislation. The vote for beer, they contend, will be a large factor in determining whether they will press for a repeal resolution.

Scouts' Walnuts Will Be Planted

200 Bushels Gathered by Winchester Boys to Be Distributed.

Winchester, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Approximately 200 bushels of walnuts, gathered this season by Winchester Boy Scouts to aid in Federal reforestation, will be sent to Washington soon for reshipment to many parts of the United States for planting.

The entire lot of 200 bushels will be piled around the flagstaff at the George Washington Office Park here tomorrow afternoon for formal dedication ceremonies.

Colin H. Livingston, of Washington, first national Boy Scout president; C. H. Benson, New York, national director of rural scouting; C. A. Reed, of the Bureau of Plant Industry, and Mrs. Alice W. Hostetler, director of the national nut tree planting project, of Washington, will atttend the ceremony.

Roumania Continues Fight for Debt Relief

Bucharest, Roumania, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Premier Juliu Maniu told Parliament today that despite the recent supreme court ruling the government was continuing its advocacy of the agrarian debts conversion law so far as small landowners are concerned. The law, which cuts certain agrarian debts 50 per cent, was declared unconstitutional by the court.

Small landowners, the premier said, now are enjoying a moratorium of 18 months, and the government hopes to make the debts law conform to the constitution before that moratorium expires. Plans are being made for a similar law affecting city landowners.

Youths Hurt by Caboose Expected to Recover

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 24.—Hope was entertained this evening for the recovery of James and William Marsh, sons of a Webster Springs railroad executive, who figured in an unusual accident last night near the Webster County seat. Their auto was struck at a Western Maryland Railroad crossing a mile out of that town by a runaway caboose, which broke loose from a mine train and plunged wildly down a 4-mile slope. Their car was demolished and both were badly hurt.

They were rushed in an ambulance to a Clarksburg hospital. James Marsh, 23, is an employe of the Pardee Curtin Lumber Co., and William, 16, his brother, is a senior in the Webster Springs High School. They are sons of Oscar W. Marsh of Webster Springs, general manager of the West Virginia Midland Railroad.

Austria Will Pay Interest Due on Bond Issue Dec. 1

Two-thirds of Payment to Be Made From Reserve, Created by Loan Contract, Guaranteed by Powers When Securities Were Sold.

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Coincident with the new interest now being fanned around government debt obligations, it was announced today that the semiannual interest payment, due on December 1, on the $121,590,000 guaranteed Austrian government international loan of 1923 would be paid.

But two-thirds of this payment, it was explained, would be from reserve, set up under the loan contract to take care of especial contingencies. The Austrian government, it was added had failed because of foreign exchange transfer difficulties to make its four monthly installments, from July 1 to October 31, inclusive, in compliance with the loan agreement. It had deposited the two monthly installments previous to July 1 with the loan's trustees.

In consequence, although the Austrian government failed to maintain its contract with respect to its loan service deposits in advance of the semiannual interest date, the bonds will not go into default. Nor was there any intimation that any future default was considered probable.

The trustees for the loan announced that they had entered a demand with the Austrian government for the reconstitution of the reserve fund in its entirety. The demand bears the moral backing of several nations, which guaranteed the bonds when they were floated nine years ago and are obligated to make good on interest and principal payments in case Austria should fail.

The guarantors were Great Britain, France and Czechoslovakia, each to the extent of 24½ per cent of the total issue; Italy, 20½ per cent; Belgium and Sweden, 2 per cent, and Denmark and Holland, 1 per cent. The United States Government was not a guarantor.

Of the original issue, approximately $25,000,000 of the bonds were sold in this country. Approximately one-fifth of the issue has since been retired.

The first intimation that Austria was failing to meet its monthly interest installments appeared early last August, when the trustees for the loan announced that they had not "received the installment due July 1, 1932—nor have they received any information indicating that the monthly installment due on August 1, 1932, would be met."

Committee Chairmen's Letter Calls for Definition of "Intoxicating."

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, chairman of the Woman's National Committee for Education Against Alcohol, yesterday made public a letter in which she asked George Wickersham, of New York, whether one-half of one per cent was not the "only enforceable" definition of intoxicating liquor.

The letter to the former chairman of President Hoover's commission on law observance and enforcement, said:

"I noted with interest that you were quoted in the press as saying that somewhere between 1 per cent and 20 per cent a court might find a point where action by Congress (in defining what constitutes an intoxicant) might be held permissible. * * *

A lawyer recently asked her to support 4 per cent beer, Mrs. Tilton said, explaining that "while some would be intoxicated by less amounts and others could carry much more, 4 per cent strikes an average."

"It seemed to me that such an average could hardly fail to fill our courts with drivers whose susceptibility to alcohol ran below the average," Mrs. Tilton said, asking:

"Doesn't it begin to look as if the only enforceable definition is that which has been used through the years, one-half of one per cent?"

Italian Press Silent On U. S. Debts Stand

Rome, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini has said nothing for public consumption regarding this country's attitude on the debts problem, and his silence is reflected in publication by the newspapers without editorial comment of the recent declarations by President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt.

There was, however, one outstanding exception to the general rule of journalistic silence. In a signed editorial in Il Corriere Della Sera, of Milan, Alberto de Stefani, former minister of finance, who has been participating in the Fascist grand council conferences on the debt question, asserted that Italy can not pay war debts except with the money she receives as reparations.

Bolivian Officer Reports Success Over Paraguay

Laz Paz, Bolivia, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—A high officer arriving today from the Fort Munoz front in the Chaco said that military dominance there was gradually being taken from the Paraguayan forces by the troops of Bolivia.

"Our condition was delicate, even serious, in October," he said. "Today it is good, even excellent. In the neighborhood of Forts Saavedra, Murgia, Aguarica and Cuatrovientos, Paraguay has been hammering fruitlessly for 40 days. Our losses have been much less than theirs because of our excellent entrenchments, and our offensive has been comprised chiefly of counterattacks."

Labor Convention Halts To Observe Holiday

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The traditional conservatism of the American Federation of Labor faced severe attacks today as delegates to the annual convention observed Thanksgiving Day before whittling out a policy for the coming year.

With two days of committee deliberation over, proposals submitted to the convention are expected soon to come pouring back on the floor for action. Of widest interest is the plan of the federation's executive council itself for unemployment insurance financed only by labor's employers.

HOOVER DEBT NOTE STUDIED BY HERRIOT

French Premier May Stake Life of Cabinet on Payment Vote.

Paris, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Comment on the debts situation was, withheld by the government today, pending study of President Hoover's recent statement of his policy.

In the Chamber of Deputies lobbies there was a belief that if Premier Herriot asks an appropriation to cover the $20,000,000 payment due next month, as it now seems likely he will, he will make the issue a matter of confidence and risk defeat in the Chamber.

If he should be overthrown, it was thought President Lebrun probably would ask him to remain at the helm, forming a new cabinet.

In official quarters the reaction to the American note, in reply to France's request for a review of the debt situation, was one of disappointment. It was said the form future negotiations would take, even if the December interest were paid, was not made clear.

Herriot Refuses Comment.

Premier Herriot refused to discuss the question, but those close to him said the policy of consultation with England would be continued before any decision was made.

The American note followed the lines of President Hoover's Washington statement. The text probably will not be made public before tomorrow.

In official quarters it was said the situation was difficult because of the French budget deficit; because government bonds are going down and because of decreased income tax payments. It was recognized, however, that the American budget also presented difficulties.

Some members of the Chamber of Deputies advocated a resolution opposing further payments, and this question may be brought up before the foreign affairs committee on Wednesday.

Haye Quotes Laval.

One of the supporters of this policy is Deputy Henry Haye, who accompanied former Premier Laval to Washington when M. Laval had his conference with President Hoover.

"I remember," said M. Haye, "a conversation between Ogden Mills and M. Laval at Washington in which M. Laval said that if Germany did not pay not a penny would be paid America."

Le Temps said that although the door was left open to future negotiations the situation did not inspire confidence. L'Information asserted that when the world was showing some signs of restoration the American attitude was threatening to produce chaotic conditions again and was threatening all currencies, including the dollar.

Honduras Announces All Copan Region Is Rewon

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The government announced today that it had recovered the entire Copan region west of this city with the exception of the town of Santa Rosa, still in the hands of rebellious Liberal party forces, who launched an antigovernment movement more than a week ago. Fifteen hundred federal troops were marching on Santa Rosa.

The newspaper El Cronista said that part of Augusto Sandino's Nicaraguan insurgent forces had crossed into Honduran territory, occupying the town of Danli just north of the border.

Towns Lose Saints' Names.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The government has just published a decree providing new names for about 200 towns, villages and ranches named after Christian saints or objects of religious veneration. The State and City of Vera Cruz were excepted. Vera Cruz means "True Cross."

U. S. FOCUSES EYES ON MID-DECEMBER

Government Is Awaiting Day for Payment or Default on Debts.

(Associated Press.)

In a holiday respite from the war debt developments, the next action of this Government last night apparently awaited that much-discussed day, December 15, and the payment then or failure to pay of obligations due from foreign debtors.

The chances of any congressional action toward a suspension of these installments—regardless of what additional facts Great Britain presents—definitely were eliminated by a virtual unanimity of opinion from Democrats and Republicans alike that Europe must choose between payment and default.

This sentiment was crystallized publicly through official conferences, topped by Tuesday meeting between President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt, Mr. Hoover's statement that nothing had been presented to justify postponement and Gov. Roosevelt's expression leaving the December payment question entirely with the administration.

With a like positiveness, President Hoover's suggestion for a special agency to examine war debts was vetoed promptly by congressional leaders of both parties and Mr. Roosevelt. Traveling toward Warm Springs, Ga., where he arrived yesterday for a two-week stay, the President-elect termed "existing agencies * * * of diplomatic intercourse" sufficient for handling debt matters.

So officials here awaited the approach of the payment day, expecting to collect, but none the less measuring the possible effects of default.

Though President Hoover's suggestion that debt payments might be made in properly guaranteed foreign currencies won approval from some members of Congress, it was not regarded as likely of receiving Congress' attention before December 15.

Reports from England indicated that country would pay the $95,550,000 due next month, presenting meanwhile reasons believed to justify prolonging the Hoover moratorium. France was expected to follow Britain's example and pay $19,261,000 in interest, though parliamentary complications were presenting themselves.

Mrs. Owen to Explain Work to New Members

Hays, Kans., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Miss Kathryn O'Loughlin, the first woman to be elected to the national House of Representatives from Kansas, has disclosed Mrs Ruth Bryan Owen, member of Congress from Florida, has offered to show her "how things are done" in Washington.

Accordingly, Miss O'Loughlin, who like Mrs. Owen is a Democrat, will visit Congress after the Christmas holidays and will be introduced to some of its members by the daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan. Mrs. Owen spoke in Kansas in the interests of the Democratic ticket in the recent campaign.

Live Stock Exhibit Ready in Chicago

Judging Contest Today Is First on Program; 14,000 Cattle on Hand.

Chicago, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The props were virtually completed today for agriculture's multiringed circus, the International Live Stock Exposition, and every cattle train discharged an assembly of headliners.

In the barns adjoining the arena at the Union Stock Yards—the big top—exhibitors worked meticulously over their charges. The servants of man turned the tables. They received every attention due those born to the purple. Everything down to a marcel. Almost all of the 14,000 cattle, horses, sheep and swine were in their stalls, ready for the show to go on.

The exposition opens officially Saturday, but due to the large number of entries, one event, the noncollegiate judging contest, will take place tomorrow. Each State is represented by a three-man team. To the winning delegation will go the Chicago Association of Commerce agricultural awards, totaling $1,000.

Garner to Accompany Georgia Fishing Party

Swainsboro, Ga., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Vice President-elect Garner, like President-elect Roosevelt, is going to enjoy a vacation in Georgia.

William M. McMillan announced today that Garner, Senator Joe Robinson, of Arkansas; Senator Walter F. George and Senator-elect Richard B. Russell, jr., would be in a fishing party here within the next two weeks. The party will enjoy fishing in McKinney's Pond, about 16 miles from Swainsboro.

Luray's Fiscal Status Is Declared Best Ever

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Nov. 24.—According to a report of Mayor Harry M. Strickler the town of Luray is in better financial shape than ever before. The report shows that within the past year the town has paid off $5,000 in water bonds, has spent $1,125 in the construction of sidewalks, $1,619 in building streets, $1,233 in laying water pipes, made a contribution of $1,100 toward a fire engine, discharged a debt of $1,350 for an auxiliary water system during last year's drought, has bought a $400 refuse truck and is employing an all-time man in sweeping and cleaning streets.

During the year the council has paid off a debt of $3,000 inherited from a former council.

U. S. Aid for Colleges Is Urged by Hutchins

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Federal relief for public institutions of higher learning was urged tonight by Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, in an address before the Virginia Education Association.

The situation in State-supported universities, he said, "is now so critical that unless there is some change in the attitude or condition of our people there is indeed little hope for that higher learning which is in them."

American Situation Bears on Debt Cut

O'Neal Points Out Hoover Moratorium Did Not Help U. S. Trade.

Chicago, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—As a vice chairman of the committee for the consideration of intergovernmental debts, Edward A. O'Neal today declared this country's internal debt situation should be considered if there were to be any review of the war debts question.

O'Neal is president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. His views were expressed in a letter to Alfred P. Sloan, jr., of New York, chairman of the debt committee. The farm leader questioned the feasibility of scaling down debts owed by foreign countries unless those nations at the same time gave assurance that they would purchase certain quantities of American goods.

"The moratorium on the payment of European debts to us, so generously granted by the President and the Congress," O'Neal wrote, "has not during the past year succeeded in stimulating this trade (between America and her debtors), and I am wondering if a permanent reduction in these debts would have any different effect from that which we have observed during the past year."

DELEGATES TO QUIZ LYTTON ON REPORT

Chairman De Valera Brings End to Debate Over Objection of Matsuoka.

Geneva, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish Free State, had the last word today in the dispute between China and Japan over Manchuria.

As chairman of the League of Nations Council he put an end to the debate in which Yosuke Matsuoka and Dr. Wellington Koo have engaged for the last three days. Then he announced that Lord Lytton, chairman of the commission which investigated the Manchurian problem for the league, would submit to questioning on the commission's report tomorrow.

This was over Matsuoka's strenuous objection. He contended that the commission's work ended with the submission of its report several weeks ago and that its chairman should not be permitted now to modify that report or to comment on the debate of this week.

"Japan always has been and still is one of the most loyal supporters of the league," he said. "She hopes to remain a loyal supporter if she does not find it incompatible with her own existence and with her policy of maintaining peace in the Far East."

This was perhaps the most significant statement during his brief colloquy today with Dr. Koo. He made it in reply to an assertion by the Chinese spokesman that "Japan is treating the league covenant, the Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty with contempt."

After renewing his objection to testimony by the Lytton commissioners, the Japanese representative warned the council that if the commissioners are questioned he will demand the right to examine them himself and he may take a month to do it.

Norman H. Davis, American delegate to the disarmament conference, discussed arms problems today with Tsuneo Matsudaira, of Japan; Joseph Paul-Boncour, of France, and Sir John Simon, of Great Britain. Mr. Davis said: "Things are getting on. We are making all the progress we can expect. By tomorrow we should see some headway."

He declined to enter into details but indicated the chances for a four-power arms meeting, with the United States observing, had improved.

U. S. Tariff Reduction Urged at Cuban Parley

Havana, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Speakers at a luncheon attended by 400 representatives of more than 50 Cuban-American organizations today advocated lower United States tariffs to increase the trade between the two countries.

The American Ambassador, Harry F. Guggenheim, said that the period of lamentation about hard times was over and that he was "looking forward to achievements," but he expressed the opinion that "certain fundamental problems in Cuba must first be solved before permanent improvement can be consummated."

U. S. Experts Selected For World Health Study

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Dr. John R. Murlin, director of the department of vital economics at the University of Rochester, and Dr. Kenneth D. Blackfan, professor of pediatrics at Harvard University, will represent the United States at an international public health conference in Berlin, Germany, early in December, it was learned here today.

Dr. Murlin accepted an invitation of the United States Public Health Service to attend the conference, which has been called by the health committee of the League of Nations to consider methods of studying the effects of the economic depression on health.

BRITAIN STILL HOLDS DEBTS RELIEF HOPE

Does Not Regard Refusal of Hoover as Final Reply to Plea for Revision.

London, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—British official quarters refused tonight to take President Hoover's "no" as the final answer to Britain's plea for an extension of the moratorium on war debts.

The cabinet ministers, a high authority said, declined to contemplate the possibility of the American Government's "delivering a shattering blow to the confidence that has grown out of the Lausanne decisions by demanding immediate resumption of war debt payments."

A committee of the cabinet will meet tomorrow morning to study America's answer to the British note asking for suspension of the December 15 payment. Additional data to support Britain's request for a reconsideration of the debt is being gathered for incorporation into a note which will be forwarded to Washington as quickly as possible. This note may be drafted at tomorrow's meeting.

As yet there has been no indication when the American note will be published. The government may hold it for several days.

There were few in England who doubted tonight that if further representations to Washington fail to bring an extension of the Hoover moratorium, this country will make the payment due next month.

One of the newspapers came out today with a banner line across page one that it had learned that the British government will not pay the $95,550,000 in interest and principal due in December. The story was immediately denied in a responsible quarter.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, upon whom most of the burden in this matter falls, declined to say just when he will be able to make a definite statement.

Asked in the House of Commons if he had considered whether there would be any evil effect on British credit if the payment were made in gold, he replied that "all relevant matters will be taken into consideration."

Meanwhile, Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer ten years ago when England was preparing to fund the American debts, urged that the government not even consider default, but pay in gold from the Bank of England the amount due next month.

Great Britain can buy what she needs from countries which have gone off the gold standard and are now on the sterling standard, he said.

By insisting upon payment at this time, he declared, the United States is only delaying the world's economic recovery and blocking the advance toward cooperative effort for recovery.

He advocated an increase in the British currency to offset gold payment to the United States.

be scrupulously avoided by all loyal American veterans, and I can not be too emphatic in warning those who believe in law and order and common decency to refrain from joining this proposed march."

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Mayor J. Fulmer Bright decreed today that "hunger marchers," who may stop in Richmond en route to Washington, will not be permitted to assemble in the parks or the city auditorium for public meetings.

Such meetings, he said, might lead to disorder. No effort will be made, however, to oppose the holding of meetings in private halls, the mayor said.

Application for a permit was made by A. Tompkin, organizer and president of the Richmond unemployed council. Mr. Tompkin said the organization is composed of about 300 members, a large majority of them Negroes.

Davenport, Iowa, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Fifty "hunger marchers" in three trucks and two automobiles left at 8:30 a. m. today for Peoria, Ill., the next stop on the route to Washington. Fifteen men joined the party in Davenport.

The travelers were given free supper at the Civic Hotel for unemployed men on their arrival from Des Moines late yesterday. The delegation proceeded without waiting for breakfast offered them by relief agencies.

The group was made up of ten persons who left Sioux City, Iowa, early in the week and additions recruited en route.

Their avowed purpose in going to Washington was to petition President Hoover and the coming session of Congress to enact legislation giving relief to the unemployed.

Dr. Edmund E. Day Back From Geneva

Member of World Parley on Economics Returns With U. S. Officials.

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Dr. Edmund E. Day, director for social science of the Rockefeller Foundation, returned on the liner Manhattan today from Geneva, where as one of two representatives of the United States he attended the meeting of the preparatory commission of experts of the world monetary and economic conference. The other United States representative, Prof. John M. Williams, of Harvard University, returned earlier.

Dr. Day was accompanied by Frederick Dewhurst and Louis Domeratzky, of the Department of Commerce; Herbert Feis, economic adviser of the State Department, and James C. Dunn, chief of the Division of International Conferences of the State Department.

"The preliminary conferences," Dr. Day said, "were held to explore the field of subjects which will come up at the economic conference which will be held in London. There was no attempt to arrive at any definite conclusions at this time."

Saving of Billion Is Aim of Blanton

Says Classification Act's Repeal Necessary to "Avoid Bankruptcy."

Abilene, Tex., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Representative Thomas L. Blanton, member of the appropriations committee of the House of Representatives, said today as he left for Washington committee hearings that his ambition was to cut expenses of government at least a billion dollars.

"We are going to cut to the bone," he said. "The Democratic landslide means to conscientious Democrats a grave responsibility that weighs heavily. We must make our pledges good if Democrats are to retain the confidence of the people.

"The classification act of 1923, which took from Congress the control of salaries of Government employes and permits a board composed of such employes to raise salaries, must be repealed. Under it $1,500 clerks have been designated 'assistant chiefs' and their salaries raised to $6,000, $7,000, $8,000, $9,000 and even $10,000 a year. It will bankrupt the Nation unless repealed."

Garner Will Break Social Precedent Next Four Years

(Associated Press.)

The Vice President-elect, Speaker John N. Garner, says he is going to break social precedents right and left in the Capital during the next four years.

The Speaker and Mrs. Garner have agreed to decline all social invitations except the official events at the White House, where, as Vice President, his presence is required.

They started putting their agreement into effect yesterday. They declined more than a score of invitations of friends to eat Thanksgiving turkey and instead had a quiet dinner at their hotel.

During the last session of Congress, Mr. and Mrs. Garner attended but one formal affair and that was the annual dinner given for the Speaker by the President at the White House. They went to two formal affairs, both at the homes of life-long friends and attended a meeting of the Texas Society.

In declining the invitations, Speaker Garner told his friends:

"If I should go to one, I would have to go to all. Mrs. Garner and I have made it a fast rule not to accept any social invitations. We prefer carrying on the practice of 'early to bed and early to rise' we began years ago."

ROOSEVELT ENJOYS HOLIDAY IN GEORGIA

President-Elect Meets Old Friends and Dines at Warm Springs.

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt ate his Thanksgiving turkey tonight in the genial, friendly atmosphere of the institution that he helped so much to found, surrounded by the smiling faces of patients, who looked up to him from the handicap of wheel chairs and leg irons.

And in the end he made them a short talk, assuring them that he expected to be in Warm Springs each November for the next four years and at such "other times of the year as the legislative branch will let me."

"The spirit of Warm Springs is just as forward looking as it was in those early days," the President-elect said. "We have determined to get rid of and get over those physical handicaps that after all don't amount to a hill of beans. I think that we have demonstrated something of this to the people of the country."

Sketches Resort's Growth.

The President-elect sketched briefly the growth of the institution since 1925, when he began his first active work toward the development of the hospital that was set up among the pines for the treatment of infantile paralysis.

The dinner, the founders' day dinner of the institution, came at the end of several hours of rest in his cottage on the hill top above the hospital grounds, which some time ago was named the "Little White House." He went directly there from the train that brought him here shortly before noon from Washington.

After the dinner, Mr. Roosevelt went into the lobby of the Meriwether Inn for an informal reception in which he shook hands and chatted with a procession of patients, tots in wheel chairs, some carried in the arms of nurses, and young men and women similarly afflicted, some supported by crutches and braces, others trundling past in chairs

All Problems Forgotten.

International debt problems and the other technical questions that the President-elect will face after he takes over the duties of the Nation's Chief Executive on March 4 were forgotten while Mr. Roosevelt gave himself to a review of the work of the Warm Springs Foundation during the last year. Meanwhile among advisers of the President-elect, the view was expressed that his statement on war debts yesterday, following upon his conference with President Hoover and congressional leaders, had done two things.

ROOSEVELT IS ASKED TO STUDY RED DATA

American Alliance, Opposing Soviet Recognition, Seeks Early Interview.

(Associated Press.)

President-elect Roosevelt was asked yesterday by the American Alliance, an organization opposing communism, to confer "with certain reliable authorities on the subject of the proposed official recognition of Soviet Russia," before reaching a decision.

The letter was addressed to Mr. Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga., by William Tyler Page, vice president of the organization and former clerk of the House of Representatives.

It said "this uggestion is inspired by statements in the public press to the effect that you are considering favorably such recognition."

"While not giving full credence to these statements," it continued, "and believing confidently that your mind is receptive to information on the subject, we trust that before coming to a definite conclusion you will confer with each of the following well-known persons whose study of the subject has resulted in their opposition to the recognition of Soviet Russia."

The list included the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University; Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and Representative Hamilton Fish (Republican), New York, who headed the special congressional committee that investigated Communist activities in the United States.

It was after this committee reported that the American Alliance was organized.

The letter also directed Mr. Roosevelt's attention to this report and described the question of Soviet recognition as "one of the most important and vital problems of your administration."

WHITE HOUSE LEADS IN TYPICAL THANKS

Rev. B. M. Meeks, district superintendent of M. E. Churches and the Rev. Frederick B. Harris, pastor, Foundry Church.

Washington Cathedral and St. Patrick's Church were the scene of the largest services. Nearly 1,000 persons attended the services in the newly completed great choir of the cathedral, while diplomats of Latin-American countries were present at the pan-American mass at St. Patrick's.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, preached at the cathedral, while the Rev. Dr. Lawrence J. Shehan delivered the sermon at St. Patrick's.

Hold Union Services.

Churches of Mount Pleasant, Northeast and Southeast Washington held union services. Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church celebrated its 130th anniversary. Cavalry Baptist and First Congregational Church united in services. Special Thanksgiving services were held at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church and Rock Creek Episcopal Church.

Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, was the speaker at a union service of Hebrew congregations last night at B'nai Israel Congregation. Rabbis of the city took part in the service.

Hundreds of those without means to purchase dinners were fed at the Salvation Army, the Volunteers of America, the Central Union Mission and the Gospel Mission. Many baskets of food were sent to poverty-stricken homes by missions.

Inmates of only one penal institution in the Washington area had turkey. This was Lorton Reformatory. Prisoners at the District Jail and Occoquan Workhouse had roast pork. The balance of the menu at all three institutions consisted of cranberry sauce, sweet potatoes, cole slaw, apples and pumpkin pie. Those in local police precincts received the usual daily fare.

An appeal for aid for the unfortunate was issued by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War and chairman of the Welfare and Relief Mobilization. In his appeal, Mr. Baker made reminder that conditions throughout the country today are mild compared to those experienced by Pilgrim Fathers on the bleak shores of New England more than 300 years ago.

Mellon Praises U. S. On Meeting of Crisis

London, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon, speaking today at the Thanksgiving dinner of the American Society, gave thanks because the people of the United States "have accepted the inevitable and have adhered to the orderly processes of government" under conditions which in other nations might have produced "violence and upheaval."

American residents of London, assembled at a West End hotel for the annual function, also heard Stanley Bruce, former Australian premier and minister without portfolio in the present Australian government, plead for an extension of the intergovernmental debt moratorium until a permanent war debt settlement could be arranged.

Before he was 18 years old, Gates, already an automobile enthusiast, went to California, where Barney Oldfield was gaining a reputation as a racer, and began his own career as a racing driver.

When the Wright brothers flew their first plane, Gates's attention turned to the air and in 1911 he had built his own plane.

During the World War Gates trained many of the foreign pilots who came to this country for instruction and later he trained American pilots in Texas and California.

DOLLARS-FOR-VOTES INQUIRY CONCLUDED

Nelson Leaves for Capital After Hearing Story in Tennessee.

Jonesboro, Tenn., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Representative J. E. Nelson (Republican) Maine, today completed an investigation into the congressional election in the First Tennessee District after hearing stories of dollars for ballots and boys and girls under age getting the dollars.

Representative Nelson left for Washington late in the day to present his findings to the special House elections committee.

He conducted the inquiry after the committee received complaints from O. B. Lovette, defeated for Congress by B. Carroll Reece, former holder of the seat. Both are Republicans.

Nelson carried with him testimony that in mountainous Claiborne County boys and girls voted for a dollar apiece, that ballots of able-bodied men and women were marked for them by election officers, and that bogus poll tax receipts were printed and used in both Claiborne and Washington Counties.

He also had the testimony of two Claiborne County bankers that they obtained $2,500 in $1 bills before the election for W. I. Davis, campaign manager for Reece in that county.

Lovette presented further testimony that 2,000 fraudulent poll tax receipts were printed before the August primary and attempted to show money was used to buy votes.

George Dugger, attorney for Reece, said he wanted to give an example of the "other side," and presented Frank Baker, of Sevierville, who testified "Arthur Ingle offered me $200 to use in Lovette's behalf in Sevier County but I refused to take it."

"Ingle told me he had $4,000 to use for Lovette in Sevier County and showed me a large roll of bills," Baker said.

Spanish Prayed at Mission As Thankful Pilgrims Knelt

New Mexico, No Longer Land of Mystery in 1620, Soon Added Present-Day Color With Thanksgiving Mass Still Being Heard.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—While the Pilgrim Fathers knelt on the shores of the Atlantic Coast and offered thanks for a safe voyage across the Atlantic, a hardy band of Spanish colonists and soldiers in a then far-off land to the west heard early mass in the old San Miguel Mission church on the morning of November 24, 1620.

Totally unaware of what was occuring hundreds of miles to the east of them, this small group of colonists who had taken New Mexico in the name of Philip II, of Spain, arose before sunrise and went to the mission—which was completed in 1607, the year Capt. John Smith settled at Jamestown.

Since 1529 the Spanish had been coming up from Mexico to explore this new land, encouraged by the reports by one Fra Marcos de Niza, who told of the seven cities of Cibola, where wealth was said to have appeared in great abundance. In August, 1540, Francisco Vasquez Coronado, explorer and soldier, reached what is now believed to be the Zuni Indian Pueblo in western New Mexico. Inscriptions made on rocks by his soldiers may be seen to this day at El Moro National Monument in the western part of the State.

By 1580 the Spaniards had found mines which produced gold, but they never found the fabulous cities of Cibola, although Coronado wandered nearly to what is now Dodge City, Kans., before he gave up his search.

In 1595, Don Juan de Onate, descendant of the Spanish explorer Cortez, obtained permission from the King of Spain and left Mexico City with 400 people of which 130 were colonists. By 1599 his little band had reached what is now Taos, N. Mex., and in 1605 he settled at Santa Fe and built the Mission Church.

The early fathers of the church always accompanied the explorers and colonists—and in some cases were explorers themselves—and the cross was to be found in New Mexico from its first discovery on.

New Mexico was now no longer a land of mystery, it was a reality and Spanish and Anglo culture soon added the color which one still finds to this day. Early mass is still heard on Thanksgiving Day morning and the old mission still stands a monument to the courage of the small bands who settled the Southwest.

CRUCHAGA IS NAMED TO CHILEAN CABINET

Due to Be Right-Hand Man to President Alessandri During Crisis.

(Associated Press.)

Appointment of Ambassador Miguel Cruchaga Tocornal to be Chilean minister of foreign relations will send one of Latin America's outstanding conciliators to a place near his government's helm at the most critical period in its recent history.

Information reaching Washington is that Cruchaga has been selected to be a right-hand man to President Arturo Alessandri in a cabinet formed of representatives of the leading parties of Chile where a series of governments have succeeded each other in rapid succession since the socialist revolution of Carlos Davila.

In selecting Cruchaga, Alessandri has named a diplomat generaly conceded a high place in the confidence of the United States, which recognized Chile after conversations with Cruchaga upon his return from Mexico. Throughout the time the United States was withholding Chilean recognition its officials continued to deal with Cruchaga under the pretext that he still was officially ambassador of the overthrown Montero government.

Close associates link Cruchaga with the cause of settlement of the Chaco dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia by arbitration. He is understood to have worked quietly to this end during the year of negotiations here, although he has no official connection with the commission of neutrals. The negotiations still are going on.

Cruchaga is characterized by friends as sympathetic to the work of the Pan-American Union, in which he is influential. Early this year he helped Ambassador de Lima of Brazil obtain postponement of the seventh Pan-American conference until December, 1933, after various countries had indicated a desire for postponement because of the economic situation.

Cruchaga is expected to resign his post as neutral member of the Panama-American Claims Commission, which has just begun consideration of the $3,000,000 claims pending between the two countries, and sail for Santiago within a few days.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Members of the family considered the work inferior to a statue by another sculptor.

ECUADOR UPRISING CONSPIRACY BARED

Troops Are Mobilized and Several of Leaders Are Arrested.

Quito, Ecuador, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The government ordered mobilization of troops at Ambato today to reinforce the garrison at the capital, following upon disclosure of an anti-administration plot attributed to the conservative party.

An official announcement said that several men had been arrested for conspiring to proclaim a dictatorship. The government learned of the plans, it was explained, from soldiers who traded information for bribes.

The men arrested, the government communique said, included Carlos Alarcon Mena, Amabale Rivera, Commander Tomas Yepez and Luis Roman. According to the official announcement, important documents were found in the possession of Alarcon Mena, notably a list of those who were to have power in the rebel regime.

All those under arrest participated in the rebellion of last August. Police said they were watching convents in the hope of recovering military supplies that disappeared during the sanguinary August uprising.

It was reported that Col. Luis Larrea Alba, former President of Ecuador, and Luis Antonio Pena Herrera, who was Ecuador's charge d'affaires in Italy, were imprisoned at Rio Bamoa, where they had fled from Quito.

Col. Larrea Alba has been involved in previous conspiracies by the government authorities, and he had given his pledge of honor not to leave Quito.

Officials said tonight the entire country was quiet.

RELIGIOUS TREND STEADIES NATIONS

Thanksgiving Day Adds to Spiritual Force, Is Belief of Bishop.

"Thanksgiving Day has steadied the religious character of the nations as no other spiritual force, save that of the Christian Church," said Bishop John W. Hamilton, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Emeritus Chancellor of American University, preaching yesterday at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church at a union service.

"The Christian Century" was Bishop Hamilton's subject, his text being drawn from the twenty-eighth verse, third chapter of Galatians, "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female, for ye are all one in Christ Jesus." Bishop Hamilton said, in part:

"The nineteenth century was the first Christian century since Jesus died. No claim is made that it was under the complete control of the Christ King. But the Gospel ministry had so served upon its early evolution beginnings and had so firmly held on with its first grasp as to lay prophetic claim to its ultimate triumph. Its grip was upon its intellectual, spiritual, ecclesiastical, industrial and social elements as to exclude other denominational powers.

"The call to thanksgiving and prayer by George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, respectively, have been the outstanding prayer marks in the official life of the National Governments.

"When I read in the paper the morning after the election the telegrams of President Hoover in California to the President-elect inviting him to join him in the White House at Washington to try to find some common ground on which to proceed toward the lessening of the troubles existing in the country that no one man or group of men had created, I could not refrain from tears in thanking God that there were still among us good men in high places.

"Is it not possible that this day of Thanksgiving and prayer shall evoke from the minds and hearts of strong men and women noble emotions and prayers that shall go a long way in making a better world over all this country and in foreign countries as well?"

BOND IS INCREASED IN DEATH OF OLIVER

Son of Former Fairfax Judge Now Held Under $5,000; Charge Is in Doubt.

Fairfax County officials announced last night that Lewis Ritchie, 21-year-old son of T. C. Ritchie, former juvenile court judge at Fairfax, had been charged with felonious homicide and his bond increased from $1,000 to $5,000 following the death of former State Senator Walter Tansill Oliver, 60, Fairfax, from injuries received in an altercation with Ritchie Tuesday night.

After the altercation Ritchie called Fairfax County authorities and gave himself up. He told them that Oliver had come to the Ritchie home in an angry mood and started berating members of the family and also threatened him with a walking stick. Ritchie admitted he struck Oliver with his fist, but said he was horrified when he fell backward, striking his head on the pavement. There were no witnesses to the alleged altercation.

The animosity between the two families was the outgrowth of the arrest in Baltimore last Monday of Oliver's son, Lewis B. Oliver, in connection with an alleged attack on his estranged wife, the former Barbara Ritchie. Bad feeling is said to have existed since their marriage about a year ago.

Funeral services for Oliver will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the family residence in Fairfax. Interment, with Masonic rites, will be in the family plot at Kenmore, Fairfax County, where he was born.

The active pallbearers will be Frank W. Huddleson, John C. Mackall, Dr. F. M. Brooks, Leon L. Freeman, Harry V. Leigh, James U. Kincheloe.

Honorary pallbearers will be former Governors Westmoreland Davis and Harry Flood Byrd; former members of Congress Charles C. Carlin and R. Walton Moore; Attorney General John R. Saunders, Assistant Attorney General Collins Denny, jr., Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Parr, Charles H. Callahan, Past Grand Master of Masons in Virginia; James M. Deal, Bruce McIntosh, Cecil Connor, Carl Noting, E. E. Garrett, Aubrey G. Weaver, Edmund H. Allen, N. B. Early and Walter G. Mapp, and Judge George L. Virginia Slayer's Parole Is Revoked

Man Who Killed Former Dry Agent Is Retaken After Threats.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Linwood Bottom, paroled last Christmas Eve after serving nearly seven years of a twenty-year sentence for murder, was ordered back to the State penitentiary today by Gov. Pollard.

The executive action was taken after information that Bottom had been arrested in Chesterfield County early this morning on a charge of being under the influence of liquor and threatening to kill a young woman resident of the county.

Bottom was placed in the custody of Maj. R. M. Youell, penitentiary superintendent, tonight to begin serving the rest of his prison term.

Commenting on the revocation of Bottom's parole, Gov. Pollard said: "I am not sorry I gave Linwood Bottom a chance, but I am grieved that he has failed to rehabilitate himself."

Bottom was paroled last December 24, the seventh anniversary of the afternoon in 1925 when he terrified Christmas shoppers at a dowtown street intersection by shooting seven bullets into Howard D. Brown, former dry agent who was dismissed from the State force because of certain alleged irregularities. On February 28 of the following year Bottom was sentenced to twenty years imprisonment.

ASYLUM ATTENDANT ACCUSED IN MURDER

U. S. Jury Told Patient Died as Result of Brutal Beating.

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—A pathologist's testimony, describing the bruised body and broken ribs of Charles K. Dickinson, patient at the U. S. Veterans Hospital here, was presented today to a Federal Court jury trying Austin Leroy Brown, a former attendant, on a charge of having beaten the patient to death.

The testimony followed that of two other attendants that Brown beat and kicked Dickinson, described as a violent patient, so severely a few days before he died that they protested.

"That's enough. Let him alone, for God's sake. You'll kill him," Aaron E. Ott, an attendant, said he told Brown as the latter trampled Dickinson on the floor after choking him.

Dr. L. C. Elledge, pathologist at the hospital, who performed a post-mortem examination on Dickinson, said he found severe bruises on both sides of Dickinson's body, extending into the chest and abdomen, nineteen breaks in sixteen ribs, a lung puncture by the jagged end of a broken rib, and general peritonitis in the abdomen.

He said Dickinson's death probably was caused directly by pneumonia resulting from the lung wound.

District Attorney W. W. Sheppard said he would prove Brown beat Dickinson "maliciously and viciously" without necessity or provocation, while Walter Pierce, of defense counsel, said he would show Brown only took measures "necessary to restrain a wild man."

Dickinson was described both by Ott and by Walter Epps, a fellow attendant, as a man who bore the reputation of a "most violent and dangerous man."

World Fair Pays Own Way

Chicago Show Next Year to Be First International Exposition Requiring No Tax Support; Millions Raised From Private Sources.

(Editor's note—Architecturally, the 1933 world's fair will be a far cry from the Columbian Exposition of 1893. One was classic, re-creating the past; the other modern, anticipating the future. The contrast extends to the financial structures, as this article, the second in a series of three, shows.)

Chicago, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The financial structure of the Century of Progress differs basically from that of its predecessor in 1893. It is the first international exposition to be privately financed, unsupported by taxes.

Whereas the organization, promotion and operation of the Columbian Exposition was a matter of city, State, Federal and international concern, and effected through subsidies from public treasuries, the Century of Progress is virtually autonomous.

The Century of Progress was organized as an Illinois corporation, non-profit making and with no capital stock. It derived its revenue from several main sources.

First, a World's Fair Legion was formed. The public was invited to purchase $5 certificates, exchangeable for ten admissions to the exposition. Thus, $634,000 was raised.

Second, membership in the fair's association were sold at fees of from $50 to $1,000. This brought in $272,000.

Third, $10,000,000 in gold notes were issued, secured by the requirement that 40 per cent of all gate receipts be deposited with the board of trustees and by the guarantee of a group of individuals and corporations. Each guarantor agreed to obligate himself to the amount of this guarantee. From these private pledges, the Century of Progress secured $13,000,000. The remaining 60 per cent of the gate receipts will be available for the payment of operating expenses of the exposition.

Another source of revenue is through sale of exhibit space, of which $4,000,000 worth has already been sold or contracted for. Contracts for concessions has brought $3,000,000 and the fair receives a percentage of the concessionaires' profits. The Federal Government has appropriated $1,000,000 for participation and separate States smaller amounts.

Public treasuries and private pocketbooks financed the 1893 exposition. And it was profitable, for the first time in the history of world's fairs. Its total receipts were $34,648,261—far above all construction and operating expenses.

The old fair was officially opened when President Cleveland pushed a golden button.

The Century of Progress will get a celestial send-off. On June 1, a beam of light from the star Arcturus will open the exposition.

Arcturus is approximately 40 light years away from Chicago—40 times the distance light travels in one year, and light has a running schedule of 186,300 miles a second.

Fair officials plan to impinge that beam of light, which started on its earthward journey about the time of the 1893 fair, upon a photo-electric cell, which in turn will transmit its power to instruments that will open the doors to the science exhibits.

(Tomorrow's concluding article will show the contrast in presentation of exhibits. It's the difference between a lantern slide and a stage performance.)

Biblical Text Signboards Will Disappear in Virginia

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Motorists in Virginia and nearby States no longer find themselves confronted at dangerous curves with heavily lettered warnings that "Death is on your track," or the chilling query, "Where will you be in eternity?"

These, together with similar injunctions and biblical texts once were familiar sights in this part of the country as a result of the activities of Ashby W. Hardy, of this city, who either made the signs at home and nailed them to trees and fences along the roadsides or painted them directly on rocks jutting up at conveniently prominent places.

Virginia now has an antibillboard law, under which the State Highway Department has removed all signs except official and directional markers within the rights of way. This year the State took over most of the secondary roads, previously included in county highway systems, thus extending application of the billboard law, and if any of Mr. Hardy's signs now remain they are on little-traveled side roads.

Asked about his activities, which previously extended into North Carolina, the District of Columbia and even as far as Massachusetts, Mr. Hardy said that the condition of his health had forced him to give up the "work." He had no assistance, either physical or financial, in the project in which he utilized such materials as tin roofing and boards, as well as natural rock formations.

VICE PROBERS QUIT WITH MONEY GONE

Committee of 14 Tried to Purify New York for 27 Years.

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Unable to raise sufficient funds to carry on, the Committee of Fourteen announced today it had been forced to suspend activities after a 27-year campaign against commercialized vice in New York City.

Dr. James Pedersen notified the 37 members of the general committee that "inability to raise our modest budget is forcing to the wall an organization which has served New York City since 1905 and a program which has maintained an outstanding place in the never-ending struggle of organized society against commercialized vice."

A report written recently by Prof. Raymond Moley, economic adviser to President-elect Roosevelt, was listed by William H. Baldwin, treasurer, as one of the three causes "of our present financial predicament."

Although Prof. Moley devoted considerable space to criticizing the organization's basic policy, its performance and personnel, Baldwin said the professor "has never visited our office, has never examined our records, has never talked with our general secretary."

"Because of his association with the Seabury investigation," Baldwin continued, "Prof. Moley's opinion of the committee necessarily has carried weight among those New Yorkers who are our important potential contributors. In the light of his public report, it is interesting to speculate as to what he has said in private discussions. At any rate, I, as treasurer, know the results."

Prof. Moley's report dealt with the investigation conducted by Samuel Seabury into the magistrate courts. Baldwin, describing it "rather tragic irony," listed this investigation as another factor in the committee's financial plight.

"Unfortunately," he said, "there arose a public hysteria over the 'framing' of innocent women, and the impression developed in some quarters that the Committee of Fourteen either was a party to such methods, or at least was derelict in not having exposed them sooner."

In his annual report to Secretary Hurley, of the War Department, Leach said that on June 30 last, the Virginia Guard numbered 3,870 officers and enlisted men. The authorized strength was 4,000. The shortage of officers was 26 and of enlisted men 96.

Brownsville, Tex., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Two Florida men gave thanks today—for the depression. E. W. Huggins and O. L. Whitley were arrested as automobile thieves escaped from the Florida Penitentiary. Florida officers, notified, replied: "No transportation funds available." The men, turned loose, caught a fast freight northbound.

POLICE CHECKMATE RADICAL ATTEMPT TO SEE PRESIDENT

meanwhile. As Dr. Conason was hustled away, the taxicab bearing the six children, one of whom was a Chinese girl and another a Negro boy, pulled up. Miss Gertrude Haessler, 38, of New York, leaped out.

Miss Haessler's protestations at the arrest of Dr. Conason brought about her detention. As she moved toward a patrol box away from the White House grounds, Miss Haessler, whose auburn hair made her a distinctive figure in the crowd, struggled to free herself.

Finally several policemen lifted the red-haired demonstrator bodily, as if she were so much wheat in a sack, and carried her to the patrol box.

Though the area about the White House was kept clear of most traffic and pedestrians, large crowds of Thanksgiving Day promenaders gathered on the north side of Lafayette Park to watch the rout of the hunger marchers at police hands.

Children Released.

The six children were taken in tow by a group of policewomen and taken to the receiving home. Later in the evening they were released in custody of leaders of the movement they represent which was said to be sponsored by the Young Pioneers of America.

Dr. Conason, Miss Haessler and the taxicab driver, Lowe, were taken to the Third Precinct where charges of disorderly conduct were placed against the former pair. Lowe was charged with passing a red light and speeding.

Collateral of $25 was posted by Dr. Conason for his appearance in Police Court tomorrow morning, but late last night Miss Haessler was still in custody of the Police Department. She declared she was a social worker who accompanied the children here for welfare purposes.

Worried About Charges.

An almost motherly concern for the children who were taken to the receiving home was exhibited by Miss Haessler while she was under arrest. She repeatedly entreated police not to part her from the children. Finally she was somewhat pacified when a motherly appearing woman, who gave her name as Pauline Gitsneck, agreed to accompany the children.

With the exception of a tow-headed lass of about 11 years old, the children appeared unmoved by any of the proceedings they witnessed. They stolidly refused to talk to reporters who sought to question them.

Names of the childish delegation were given as Lila Lee, Chinese, 11; of Baltimore; Grace Chiaramida, 11, of Lawrence, Mass.; Bernard Sales, 10, of New York City; Alice Mack, 11, of Philadelphia; Gertrude Morgan, 16, New York City, and Bernard Brooks, Negro, 10, of Baltimore.

Though turkey was not their lot for the day, no starvation conditions affected the child hunger marchers yesterday. A nourishing meal of salmon salad, vegetable soup, bread, milk and cocoa was provided by their sponsors at the meeting hall at 2040 Georgia avenue northwest.

The marchers came by automobiles from Baltimore yesterday morning and went first to Plasterer's Hall, 1024 New Jersey avenue northwest, where they were scheduled to hold their convention. A last-minute hitch developed in the nature of a lack of funds to pay for the hall.

Arrangements were completed for the use of the hall at 2040 Georgia avenue and the childish delegates—each said to represent 100 starving children—repaired to the new meeting place.

The thousands passing the hall across from Griffith Stadium stared curiously at the batteries of photographers and reporters that waited outside for the march on the White House to began. About a score of uniformed police and detectives in mufti also were scattered around the scene.

The main body of the children started for the White House with the expectation of witnessing the petition presentation, but they were disappointedly diverted by police. They grouped at Eighteenth and G streets northwest and later were escorted back to their gathering place by police. A light supper was served them last night.

Criticism Is Bitter.

A statement from the joint committee national hunger march last night bitterly criticized police action yesterday in circumventing the attempt to get to the White House.

"The 3,000 hunger marchers due in Washingon December 5 will be a powerful demonstration for the realization of the children's demands."

The statement followed a meeting at Plasterers' Hall, 1024 New Jersey avenue northwest, of the child protestants. During the meeting a youthful interlocutor led a number of children through descriptions of unemployment and conditions arising therefrom.

Dr. Conason addressed the meeting and discussed food conditions affecting juveniles. He charged that widespread malnutrition exists among the children of the working classes.

How Coughs and Colds Yield to Creosote

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

COL. ROBERT OLDS DIES OF APOPLEXY

Former Kellogg Assistant Expires of Stroke at Paris Home.

The career of Robert E. Olds, internationally-known lawyer who was Assistant Secretary and Undersecretary of State from 1925 to 1928, ended abruptly yesterday in Paris where he died of apoplexy at the age of 57. The funeral will be held today in Paris, but it has not been decided whether he will be buried there or in this country.

Col. Olds had left his apartment, it was said in Associated Press dispatches, to walk a short distance to his office yesterday morning. While only a few steps from his home, however, he became ill. He managed to stumble back to his door and was helped inside, but died before a doctor arrived. He is survived only by his widow, the former Miss Rose Wilhelmina Nabersberg, of St. Paul, Minn.

Col. Olds was born in Duluth, Minn., and practiced law in St. Paul where he met Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State. In 1925, when Mr. Kellogg came to the State Department, Col. Olds was European commissioner in charge of Red Cross work. At Mr. Kellogg's solicitation, Col. Olds returned to this country as Assistant Secretary. In 1927 he became Undersecretary. He was chief adviser to Secretary Kellogg during this time and handled much of the legal work which had formerly fallen on the shoulders of the Secretary himself.

On Reparations Board.

After leaving the State Department, Col. Olds was made a member of the Reparations Commission under the Treaty of Versailles. In 1931, almost exactly a year ago, he was appointed a member of the permanent Court of Arbitration at the Hague.

Col Olds graduated in law at Harvard with high honors, and immediately started to practice in St. Paul. He remained there for seventeen years, during which time he became a member of the law firm of Davis, Kellogg & Severence, and a partner of Secretary Kellogg. Shortly after the outbreak of the World War he was called upon to go to France as counselor of the American Red Cross Commission. In 1919 he became European commissioner, remaining in this post until 1925.

During the early years of the war he was a member for North America in the commission appointed by the Twelfth International Conference at Geneva to report a plan for world reorganization of the Red Cross. He was also the American member of the arbitration tribunal considering British-American claims under the treaty of 1910. Later he served as president of the board of trustees of the American Library in Paris.

Active in Paris Affairs.

Col. Olds was active in Parasian civic affairs, particularly those relating to Americans. He was one of the governors of the American Hospital and a member of the council of the International Chamber of Commerce. He also was vice president of the American Memorial Day Association of Paris.

During 1927 and 1928 Col. Olds was a member of the central committee and the executive committee of the American Red Cross, and he was also a trustee of the Carnegie Endowment for Interpational Peace. He was a member of the New York State Bar Association, the Bar Association of the City of New York, Phi Beta Kappa, Delta Upsilon, the Metropolitan Club here, the Century and Broad Street Clubs in New York and the Cercle Interallie and Cercle de la Renaissance of Paris.

St. Paul, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The death of Robert E. Olds in Paris today was "a deep personal loss to me," said former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg today. Mr. Olds was Undersecretary of State when Mr. Kellogg was a member of President Coolidge's Cabinet.

"His knowledge and advice was of invaluable assistance to me during my term of office as Secretary of State," said Mr. Kellogg. "He had the highest ideal of public service, and his death is a deep personal loss to me. He was a very able and high-minded man, who had great knowledge and experience in foreign affairs.

"I have known him intimately since he was in Harvard College. I was terribly shocked to hear of his death."

ARLINGTON STARTS ANNUAL SEAL SALE

6,000 Christmas Stamps Mailed in Drive Against Tuberculosis.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Cla. 569. Clarendon, Va.

With more than 6,000 seals in the mails, the annual tuberculosis Christmas seal sale was started in Arlington County yesterday, under direction of Mrs. Myrtle Melnick, county chairman.

Mrs. R. N. Davies, public health nurse, said: "It should be looked upon as a great privilege to purchase and use the tuberculosis seals. I heartily indorse the use of the funds in the county being directed toward the undernourished child."

Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, declared he knew of no greater work being done in Arlington County than that which is made possible from the funds derived from the sale of the seals.

"Illness is the greatest cause of depression, and there is no disease that has any greater bearing on poverty than tuberculosis. I appeal to the citizens of the county to purchase their seals from the organization in the county, in order that the money they spend may be used to relieve suffering within the county," he said.

Citizens of Arlington County, observed Thanksgiving Day yesterday with union church services in several communities. In the afternoon and evening there were reunions at many homes.

The day in general was one of the quietest in many years. From the office of Sheriff Howard B. Fields came reports that there had been no disorder of any kind reported nor any arrests up to a late hour last night.

More than 40 families in Arlington County were made happy yesterday by baskets filled with Thanksgiving dinner which were distributed under the direction of Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, superintendent of public welfare in the county.

In addition to these contributions to the needy in the county, baskets also were distributed by the churches and county schools.

There will be a special meeting of the Democratic campaign committee, of which County Chairman William L. Bragg is the chairman, to complete plans for the victory banquet, to be given the night of December 1, in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon. The meeting will be held in the headquarters in the Rees Building at Clarendon.

Following this meeting, Mrs. Catherine M. Rogers, president of the Arlington County Democratic Woman's Club, announces a meeting of the house committee of the headquarters will be held.

Clarendon Business and Professional Men's Association will be perfected with the election of officers tonight. The meeting will be held in the offices of Samuel Cohen at Clarendon.

Ellicott Praises Christmas Seals

Antitubercular Tokens Are Being Distributed in Montgomery.

Montgomery County residents are receiving Christmas seals from the Maryland Tuberculosis Association for support of the antituberculosis campaign in Maryland. The stamps are for use on Christmas packages and mail.

In support of the seal campaign, Dr. V. L. Ellicott, Montgomery County health officer, yesterday issued a statement in which he explained the benefits received by the county from the tuberculosis fund, principally in the conducting of clinics in the county in cooperation with the health department to discover developed cases and in the care of undernourished children, who have been exposed to the disease in the preventorium at Claiborne, Md.

Two children from the county have been treated at the preventorium this year and the gratifying results obtained was the subject of an enthusiastic paragraph by the doctor. He said that there is a need for more clinics in the county to discover a large number of cases which are believed to exist without the knowledge of the sufferers themselves and in order to care for the increasing demands on the clinics.

CAPTURED FARMER FACES SANITY TEST

Barrage of Tear Gas Did Not Bother Kentuckian, He Tells Deputies.

Newport, Ky., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The battling farmer of Ross, whose trusty shotgun held at bay a half dozen peace officers who sought to arrest him, probably will be given a sanity hearing, county authorities said tonight.

Meanwhile Fred Menzimeier, the 72-year-old farmer who defied for six hours yesterday the tear gas that filled his many-roomed stone house atop a hill and machine gun bullets that peppered against its walls, faced only the original charge of shooting to kill a neighbor, which caused the siege.

Deputies said the tear gas within the house was enough to have set an army to weeping. But Menzimeier, whose case will be submitted tomorrow to County Judge Conrad G. Matz, said after his capture by a ruse the tear gas "didn't bother me at all."

He was captured by deputies who pounced on him when a neighbor, John Leopold, induced him to leave his house on the pretext of wishing to buy some corn. Previously Menzimeier had wounded one officer with birdshot, broke the rib of another in a tussle and caused a neighbor to fall and dislocate his shoulder when he fled to escape the farmer's bullets.

Women With Degrees Paid Better in Business Life

United States Office of Education Finds Middle Salary of All College Women in Survey to Be $1,655 Yearly.

(Associated Press.)

Among college-trained women engaged in gainful occupation, those with executive business positions receive the highest salaries.

That and the fact that women possessing degrees show a marked advantage in earning power over those who withdrew from college before graduation are disclosed in a study of the activities of 6,600 graduates from land grant colleges.

Data collected by the United States Office of Education was compiled by the Institute of Women's Professional Relations, North Carolina College for Women.

The median, or middle, salary for all college women included in the survey was $1,655 a year. The median wage for those in executive positions in business was $2,078; for teaching, $1,540; for women trained in home economics, in occupations other than teaching, $1,992.

For those in fine arts and related fields, the middle salary was $1,746; for those in all types of professional work it was $1,691, and for those in all types of business, $1,533.

The survey indicated that teaching is the most popular occupation of women college graduates. Many also choose vocations in libraries, health work and in various branches of home economics.

It also disclosed that more land grant college women than those from other types of colleges are married. Of all gainfully employed covered in the survey, nearly 20 per cent were married, about 14 per cent of the teachers and approximately 28 per cent of those in all other occupations were wedded.

Married teachers earn an average salary less than that of single teachers, married women being engaged mainly in elementary teaching. Sixty-one per cent of all married women graduates had children, while more teachers had become mothers than women in all other occupations.

The abandonment by women of college courses was ascribed chiefly to finances, health and change of mind, most occurring during the first or second college year. More than half who withdrew from college were reported to be married and without gainful employment.

Marlboro Suspect Held After Chase

Six Charges Placed Against Man in Liquor Case; Nine Shots Fired.

Six charges were placed against Marion Ray, of Marlboro, Md., after he was arrested early yesterday by Prince Georges County police at the conclusion of a 5-mile chase during which nine shots were fired by police.

Policeman E. A. Turner, who made the arrest, said Ray did not stop until after one of the policeman's bullets had pierced a tire on his car. Ray was charged with possession of three half-gallons of liquor, reckless driving, failing to keep to the right, speeding, having inadequate brakes and breaking glass on the highway. The chase started at Hill's Bridge and ended on the back road to Croome from Marlboro.

Jack Jaspin, of 910 M street northwest, also was arrested early yesterday by Policeman G. William Gray, who said Jaspin had five cases of alleged whisky in his car. Jaspin was picked up on the Livingston road near Oxon Hill, Md.

Officials Barred From Dueling.

Denver, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Newly elected Colorado State officials, scanning the constitution to learn their rights and duties, have learned they can not fight duels. Neither are they permitted to act as seconds or carry challenges. It's an old provision, but Attorney General Clarence L. Ireland said today it is still good.

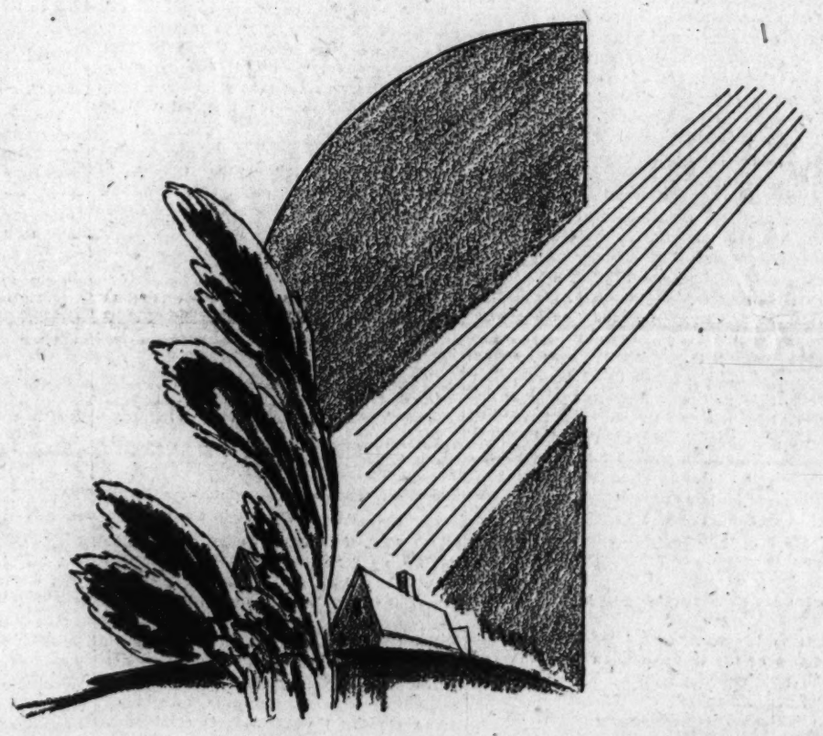
Modernize with Gas FOR A CONVENIENT WINTER
AS CLEAN AS JUNE SUNSHINE
—and as COMFORTABLE


Put automatic gas heat in your home and—presto!—you have a third less housework to do.
Gas heat neither brings dirt into the house nor creates it. The fuel is delivered, quietly and unseen, by a pipe. And then every bit of it is used to produce heat—there is no residue to be cleaned up, no dust nor vapor to seep through the house.
After you put in gas heat you won't have to dust as often; floors and woodwork will need less washing; and you'll save practically all those frequent bills for cleaning curtains and rugs. You'll have more time for the children, more time for rest and recreation. And whatever the weather outdoors, your home will be always at just the degree of warmth you select.
Clean, comfortable, care-free gas heat. Why be without it? Call your heating contractor or Gas Company, and remember—a third less housework.

THE NEXT STEPS.

Comment in London and Paris reveals that the British and French governments still cling to the hope that President Hoover will extend the debt moratorium. The notes of those governments asking for postponement of the December payments seemed to take it for granted that Mr. Hoover could extend the moratorium if he wished to do so.

The President's statement of Wednesday ought to have convinced the debtor governments that he would not grant a moratorium, even if he could. The moratorium of June, 1931, was made conditional upon the approval of Congress. This was very reluctantly given, accompanied by a resolution which Mr. Hoover properly construed to be a notice that another moratorium proposal would be disapproved. Leaders in Congress have just advised the President that the attitude of Congress has not changed.

The debtor governments must meet the payments on Dec. 15 or default. The President virtually invited Great Britain to make its payment in pounds sterling, to be transferred from time to time by agreement, and to be accompanied by a guarantee that the amount paid in sterling should be equivalent to the amount due in gold. It is expected that the British government will take advantage of this suggestion, in the hope that a rise in sterling will diminish the number of pounds to be paid.

A renewal of the request for reconsideration of the entire debt is to be made by the British government. The note about to be delivered will recite the reasons why the debtor asks for reconsideration. No doubt the United States will be requested to consider the Lausanne and Stresa agreements as affording evidence of Europe's desire to remove obstacles to economic recovery. The Lausanne arrangement will come to naught unless the United States agrees to make debt concessions.

Premier Herriot is between two fires as a result of the American refusal to postpone the December payment of $20,000,000 due from France. The Chamber of Deputies has already declared that France will not pay more than is received from Germany. The premier must obtain a reversal of this attitude in order to gain authority to make the payment next month. He is also confronted with the alternative of winning America's consent to reconsider the debts or scrapping the conditional agreement which he made at Lausanne. With that agreement nullified, France would be compelled to plead with her allies to renew the attempt to collect German reparations according to the schedules in the Young plan. The allies do not believe that Germany can or will pay. Prime Minister MacDonald succeeded in bringing about the Lausanne agreement only after a desperate struggle with M. Herriot. It may develop that unduly optimistic assurances were given by Mr. MacDonald that President Hoover would move toward cancellation of the debts if Germany's creditors would abate reparations. An outburst in the Chamber of Deputies, perhaps resulting in the downfall of the Herriot government, may be looked for. Nevertheless, France is bound to pay the December installment.

President-elect Roosevelt disagrees with Mr. Hoover's plan to create an agency empowered to reconsider the debt question and to participate in the world economic conference and the disarmament conference, in order to "take the strongest possible coordinated steps" toward solution of international difficulties. The President-elect considers the usual diplomatic channels sufficient for the exchange of views with foreign governments. Therefore, considering the temper of Congress, it does not seem probable that the agency suggested by President Hoover will be created. The appointment of separate delegations to the two conferences, and diplomatic conversations regarding reconsideration of the debts, with no decisive action during this administration, are now in prospect.

MEETING THE MARCHERS.

The much-advertised children's hunger march yesterday dwindled down to a scuffle between a New York agitator and the police, with the agitator winning publicity that might be envied by those who hope to be attached to the Moscow salary roll.

There are indications that the influx of hunger marchers next month will be very different from yesterday's showing. The marchers are already stirring up trouble in several cities on their way to Washington. Their numbers may reach several thousand. Governors and mayors are trying to dissuade them from going forward, but food and transportation seem to be forthcoming from individuals and communities which do not realize their error in furthering the march.

The District authorities and the Government are not revealing their plans for dealing with the incoming horde. The experience of last summer warns the authorities not to permit leaders to stir up trouble. The marchers will disintegrate if they are not led. Judicious squelching of every leader as he comes to the fore ought to prevent the marchers from becoming a mass menace. Fortunately the head of the Police Department is now a practical officer and not a visionary.

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

One of the troubles of the railroads, disclosed by the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission covering last year's operations, is that for every dollar the roads receive from passengers they spend $1.10 on the service. The total passenger traffic income for 1931 fell to $829,000,000, but this traffic cost the roads more than $918,000,000. In 1930 passenger income amounted to $1,067,000,000 against expenses of $1,080,000,000.

Freight business makes a better showing. Revenue last year amounting to $3,360,000,000 was earned by an expenditure of $2,305,000,000; or, in other words, a dollar in freight receipts was secured at a cost of 68 cents. During the year the Class I railroads of the country received a total of $105,423,000 from the United States Government for transportation of the mails, a decrease of $6,000,000 from the previous year. Express revenues aggregated nearly $83,000,000 for 1931. Among the incidental sources of revenue are $23,000,000 assignable to dining and buffet service, and hotel and restaurant service, $2,500,000.

These figures show the effects not only of the depression, but the growing inroads of motorized transportation upon railway receipts. The great bulk of the nation's freight is still and must continue to be carried by rail, but the railroads have lost much in profitable short-haul and broken-lot freight. But the freight loss is comparatively small in comparison with the loss of passenger business due to the universal use of automobiles for both short and long journeys. It is impossible to calculate the number of railway passengers there would be today if some 20,000,000 motor cars were not carrying their owners to all parts of the country. The hope of the situation lies in the intelligent examination of all phases of the transportation problem that are now under way, both by official and independent agencies.

LOWER FARM INCOME.

Estimates by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics place the gross income from farm production in 1932 at $5,240,000,000. Compared with the gross farm income of $11,950,000,000 in 1929, this is a shrinkage of nearly 56 per cent. These figures suggest the urgent need and, at the same time, the extreme difficulty of raising the purchasing power of the farmer.

It is interesting to note that the decline in farm income is precisely the same as the estimated shrinkage in the national income between 1929 and 1932. In this case the drop was from $85,200,000,000 to $35,700,000,000, or 56 per cent. If the depression on the farm seems to be more abysmal than the depression elsewhere, it is perhaps due to the fact that the agricultural depression was under way long before the collapse of industrial prosperity three years ago.

In both cases it is well to remember that the standard of living has not fallen to the same extent as the monetary income. Wages, farm prices, industrial profits and other sources of income have shrunk, but prices have gone down also. The 44 per cent of the 1929 income that is left will buy a great deal more than it would have done three years ago.

Even though the farmer is suffering from chronic hard times, his present plight is probably not as acute as that of many industrial communities. On the farm there is usually plenty to eat, and shelter is not lacking. Farmers who raise their own foodstuffs may still be thankful for their independence, in spite of low prices for produce that is sent to market.

The decline of farm income contains a germ of thought for those groups who are seeking the restoration of prosperity. The loss of purchasing power by the farmer amounts to twice as much as the total American export trade. Farmers have been forced to curtail their expenditures for fertilizer, farm machinery, building materials, automobiles, radios and thousands of other manufactured goods. If their purchasing power can be restored, they will provide a far better market than may be found abroad. The same is true of the 11,000,000 workingmen who are now without jobs. When the national income has fallen by $47,000,000,000 it sounds foolish to talk of restoring prosperity by expanding a $2,000,000,000 export trade. This is especially true with respect to the farmer. Two great American export crops—cotton and wheat—are worth this year only 30 per cent of their 1929 value. Large quantities have been sold abroad, but prices have been pitifully low.

The solution for this loss of income is not yet in sight, but indications are that whatever it may be it lies chiefly within the United States and not in foreign markets.

NATIONAL LOTTERIES.

It was recently suggested in the French Chamber of Deputies that a national lottery be established as a means of raising money to offset the deficit in the budget. This source of revenue was also discussed in Paris in 1925, when France was seeking a way out of her financial difficulties after the rapid decline of the franc threatened the nation with bankruptcy. Then, as now, the French press strongly opposed the move.

Those who have lived in countries where lotteries are permitted know that they are a decided menace to the welfare of society. The fine hospital which is supported by the lottery in Panama furnishes a striking contrast between its benevolence to the poor and its bad effect upon the public by the widespread sale of tickets. In most Latin-American countries, where lotteries usually exist, there is found a chart connecting animals and objects with numbers, so that the superstitious may associate dreams and various occurrences with the numbers of lottery tickets.

A poor man who dreams of a cat will often risk every cent he has and can borrow upon the magic number corresponding to his feline vision. This frenzy of trying to get something for nothing has many unfortunate effects that are by no means limited to those who are poor and believe in omens. Aside from the demoralization of gambling, the lottery is a fertile field of graft and corruption. In many countries where the institution flourishes the post of director of lotteries is one of the prize political appointments. In revolutionary uprisings the lottery agencies are recognized as a quick source of funds and are among the first places ravaged by mobs.

French newspapers point out that in order to hold popular favor only a small percentage of the receipts can be retained from lottery collections. Government receipts would be meager, as most of the money must be distributed as prizes, and even this lures the poor to gamble away the money they require for necessities. From the almost universal press opposition to the lottery as a means of revenue there is little doubt that the proposal will be defeated.

European countries were experts in American psychology when they borrowed the money, but America has learned something of European psychology since.

Joe Tumulty may have concluded that it's just as well for Gov. Roosevelt not to take over Mr. Hoover's troubles before March 4.

When Bolivia and Paraguay have exhausted their resources and their manpower they may have the courage to declare war.

BEER AND THE FUTURE

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

"O wind, if Congress comes, can beer be far behind?" So the elements are apostrophized by thirsty thousands who began to smack their lips last June when prohibition was forced off the rostrum at both the political conventions. Some hopeful souls have even predicted that the boys would be out of the speakeasies by Christmas, but here many wishes were surely the fathers of many glowing thoughts. It is significant, however, to see the public turning its attention to the picture of beer in the not too distant future, and wondering what changes would be wrought by the legal return of the "bucket of suds."

It is the belief of some observers that the actual physical aspect of the Nation will be revised by the alteration in the drinking habits of the populace. One amateur psychologist even went so far as to insist that American women would never vote for the return of legalized beer because its tempting presence would make the problem of reducing so much more difficult. Perhaps the billowing lines of yesteryear will come back into style along with the generous stein, and anxious girls will peer into the faces of scales to see if they have gained the desired five pounds a week.

If the appearance of feminine America should change in this fashion, one foreign element might be at least partially responsible. The Munich correspondent of the New York Times reports that the proprietors of the leading hofbrau houses in the Bavarian capital are casting an anxious eye on their prize waitresses, wondering if they will be lured to America in the event of a renaissance of beer drinking. It is pointed out that waitresses with certain requirements will be sought, principally with the ability to wield twelve steins overflowing with lager in each hand. The Munich damsels have long been famed for their prowess along these lines, as well as for their robust and ample proportions, so that an influx of Bavarian talent into this country would add a Valkyrian element to the national picture.

If beer comes back, too, can we expect a musical revolution in these United States? Will the old German band return with its cheerful brayings to the street corners of our cities, and will the patrons in restaurants blow, as they do in Munich, the froth from their glasses to the rhythm of Strauss melodies? Will the sale of cheese and of various succulent sausages go up in skyrocket fashion? And most important of all, would this be a good time to get in cheap on some dependable pretzel factory stock, or have the artisans forgotten how to make the proper twists and twirls in these past years of neglect?

What a Nose Bag! —Detroit News.

POST HASTE

European nations think President Hoover began to talk turkey a day ahead of time.

Alfonso still declines to sign an abdication of the throne. American lame ducks don't have to sign anything on March 4, either.

Democrats are not going to begin beer hearings until the third day after Congress meets. This delay will cause much criticism.

Former Mayor Walker avoids Riviera night life although suffering from insomnia. He seems to be wasting an ideal combination.

If any child is hungry on the despicable "misery" march the organizers should be put on bread and water for six months.

Yesterday's experience should encourage the faithful Chest workers to feel that it is always possible to come back for a second helping.

The negligible Communist vote is proof that minute minorities get more consideration than they merit.

A good idea that, to let European nations ship over their depreciated currency for war debt payments instead of buying gold. Sight of it would help Americans to appreciate their sound dollar.

The President-elect indicates that he is opposed to an extra session unless the present Congress fails to enact legislation which can not possibly be finished.

If Hitler can be sufficiently denatured and the chancellorship modified so as to get them together it won't help the Nazi cause much.

A lot of us are sick of the debt talk, and as Congress is indisposed let's drop it for a while.

Does Italy offer to pay because Mussolini loves Uncle Sam more, or because he enjoys his neighbors' blushes?

If Warm Springs is equipped to increase the temperature of the pool gradually it will be fine preparation for the Governor's plunge into hot water in Washington.

LONGEST AIRLINE.

The world's longest scheduled commercial airline is not in the United States, England, Russia, Germany or France, says the Pathfinder. The long-distance airline stretches from Amsterdam, Holland, to Batavia, Java, in the Indian Ocean. The weekly planes of the Netherlands-Java line cover a total distance of 9,500 miles. No less than 65 American airplane engines furnish the power for the weekly planes crossing Sumatra, the Straits Settlements, the Kingdom of Siam, all of India south of the Himalayas, Persia, Mesopotamia and Central Europe.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

COURAGE.

Not all the heroes rise to fame
Or fortune or the world's acclaim.
Sometimes the truest courage finds
Lodgment in humble hearts and minds,
And is to God made manifest
In ways by mortals seldom guessed.

Loss battered him from day to day
And took his robes of pride away.
Misfortune filched him of his gold;
For debt he saw his trinkets sold,
But face front to the world he stood,
Braving his cares as best he could.

Thanksgiving came. His loved ones knew
The anguish he had struggled through.
They'd seen what he'd refused to speak—
The lines of care upon his cheek—
And marveled, each one in his place,
To hear him speak this simple grace:

"Dear Lord, our thanks today we give
That still in harmony we live,
That love is ours and strength to bear
Whatever day may bring of care."
Being young, they seemed to think it odd
He hadn't lost his faith in God.

If You Share the Loot of Bandits, You Must Share Their Fear

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A FEW years ago people were told that the defeat of Germany would end warfare and make life secure.

Later they were told that high wages, quantity production and ever-increasing consumption had made an end of poverty and ushered in a new era of endless prosperity.

More recently they have been told that a change of national leaders and national policies would solve their problems and give them economic security.

One after another the prophecies fail, as all such promises must fail.

The only change that will bring peace and security to the world is a change in the hearts of men.

There can be no peace or security or justice for the weak while the strong are dominated by greed and selfishness.

The few will have too much and the many will have too little so long as men tolerate the dog-eat-dog rule of the jungle—so long as money is the one measure of success and money-getting the chief end of man.

It is man's inhuman cruelty to man that makes the millions suffer. It is man's heartless indifference and scorn and contempt that causes the many to live in want and squalor and ignorance while the few possess unused abundance.

You read that this or that community must appeal for Federal aid because it has done all it can for its destitute.

That isn't true. Not one city, town or hamlet has done its best. In every town in America there is abundant wealth. For every jobless and hungry man there are ten who have plenty and to spare. Nowhere will you find a rich man who has denied himself comforts in order that others may have necessities. Nor will you find a wage earner who has shared half and half as with a brother.

Selfishness makes our woe. We are like men in a burning theater, each fighting to save himself regardless of those trampled underfoot. Our one concern is to get and hold.

There is one solution for all our problems, and only one. It is the commandment of Jesus, "Love one another."

Men may have brotherhood, with security and abundance for all; or they may have cutthroat rivalry, with injustice, cruelty, misery and famine. But they can't adopt one method and win the rewards of the other.

While we praise and honor wolves, there will be no security for sheep. While money remains our god, we shall do the will of no other.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Tax Revolt Coming.
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Business, confronted with sagging income, has cut expenses. The average citizen in the same predicament, has lowered his overhead and sacrificed nonessentials. But in Government the budget is still being balanced by increasing the load on the man who foots the tax bill.

The next few weeks will show whether the public spenders can break away from habits and traditions long enough to balance budgets by cutting expenses. Chicago offers one example of the result of wrong thinking by the squandermaniacs Chicago has $1,500,000,000 worth of real estate which has been forfeited by owners who can not pay taxes. Florida, with so many tax-forfeited farms that a State homestead law is being considered, offers another example. Tax delinquencies all over the country now can be totaled only in sums stated in ten figures. Unless the legislators, Federal, State and local, awaken to the fact that their job is to cut expenses rather than boost taxes they will soon be facing the biggest tax revolt in American history.

The St. Lawrence Canal.
Christian Science Monitor.

In the recent hearing on the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes Canal project its opponents have presented a formidable array of facts against ratification of the United States-Canadian treaty negotiated last summer. A final judgment on the case can not be reached, of course, until the counter-arguments are all in, but at least enough has been heard to indicate that the contest will be severe, and that in the short session of Congress the treaty is not likely to go through because of uncertainty over its potential benefits.

The hearings already held by a special Senate subcommittee show that a serious conflict of economic interest is involved in the proposal. Opponents represent most of the important Atlantic ports, which stand to lose in the event of a great development of the St. Lawrence and Montreal.

Southern Democrats.
New York Times.

Though the South will have almost 100 fewer Democrats in the next House than have been elected from the North, East and West, it appears that it will have twice as many candidates for the important offices.

The reason why there are so many candidates from the South is plain. Its delegations form the backbone of the House Democracy. In good and bad Democratic years they are the party's irreducible minimum, and the same men are sent back year after year. This establishes their "seniority," sacred in the halls of Congress. But in the Seventy-third House there will have to be at least equal recognition of the numerical ascendancy of non-Southern members. These, if their lines could hold firm, have it in their power to control the House caucus and dictate terms.

Urges Repeal Amendment.
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The short session of Congress will convene December 5. Its first act should be to pass a joint resolution authorizing the States to vote upon repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Two-thirds of the members of Congress must unite to pass such a resolution. They must, according to the Constitution, also specify the way in which the States should vote upon repeal. The Democratic national platform prescribed the convention method. Its purpose was to take the subject out of the Legislatures, which have innumerable things to think of and act upon, and dispose of the matter in a convention called for a specific purpose.

Debts and Arms.
Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The United States, if it is wise, will link reduction of war debts with disarmament just as strongly as Europe links war debts with reparations.

Look Like Taxpayers.
Chicago News.

Congressmen are getting stoop-shouldered searching for something else to tax.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

America's Debtors Exacted From Germany 60 Per Cent More Than Payments to U. S. A.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is one side of the allied debt situation that has not been emphasized. Under the treaty of Versailles the allied governments destroyed Germany's army and navy, stripped her of her colonies, a part of her domain, of her merchant fleet, and imposed on Germany a fine ten times as great as the adjusted debt owed by the allies to the United States. Germany insisted that some definite limit be set on the amount which she had to pay. After prolonged research into Germany's ability to pay, the sum was finally set at $400,000,000 per annum, which was 60 per cent more than the payments to be made to the United States; $100,000,000 of this excess to be retained by France and $50,000,000 to be retained by Great Britain.

The French still contend that Germany could and would have continued to pay, but for the fact that we gave her an excuse to stop paying by declaring the Hoover moratorium. These allied governments imposed this colossal fine on Germany alone, and believed she could pay it, yet these same governments combined, constituting the greater part of Europe, contend that they can not repay one-half of the money the American Government loaned to them out of the pockets of its taxpayers.

No honest government or people would make such a proposition, and no sane government or people would consider it.

WILLIAM F. WILMOTH.

Poison Doctrine of Government as Dispenser of Prosperity Brought Republican Defeat.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In its most disastrous defeat the Republican party reaps the bitter harvest from political seeds of poison sown by both parties. Both parties have allowed Russian doctrine to supplant American doctrine. Russian doctrine holds the chief function of government is to create and distribute material prosperity and to develop moral conduct by the use of despotic power. American doctrine holds the chief function of government is to provide just laws for the protection of individual liberty and equal opportunity so that a free people may themselves create material prosperity and develop their own moral conduct.

Imbued with this poisonous doctrine of the Orient, the Republican party rode high and long as material prosperity lasted. When, however, material prosperity had vanished and moral conduct, under the "noble experiment," had sunk to its lowest depths, it was too late for President Hoover to throw up the bulwark of American principles against the whirlwind of false doctrine implanted in the minds of the people. President Hoover's splendid campaign has been compared to Lincoln's. Why did it not meet with like success? Lincoln addressed clear minds of patriots fired by American principles. Hoover addressed confused minds of self-seekers, dulled by the odors from the Oriental industrial poppy. The Democratic party will just as certainly have to answer for its rosy promises, exuding the luring perfumes of this Oriental poison. ALFRED D. RADLEY.

Debtors and College Professors Weeping Tears of Great Price. $11,000,000,000 Worth.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Our international debtors now propose to "gang" us. As individuals they separately wept away from 25 to 75 per cent of their obligations, after which they branded us as the Shylocks of the world because we did not wipe out the entire account.

Our college professors, having nothing to lose except their theories, joined the debtors at the wailing wall. From the volume and anguish of the mingled wails for Europe it was hard to distinguish professor from debtor.

The college professor and politician, who never paid a $100 income tax in any given year, once more furbish their theories and speeches and prepare to shed another batch of tears of great price—this time $11,000,000,000 worth. Successful weeping of this volume will merely saddle a debt of $550 upon the back of every family in the United States, thus giving all of us something tangible to weep real tears about. With this money Europe will be in position to double their armed forces and to insult any and all nations, ourselves included.

Thinks Newton D. Baker Should Be Made Secretary of National Defense.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with interest the letter of W. W. Bowen, of Shenandoah Junction, W. Va., regarding the suggestion of Newton D. Baker as Secretary of State.

In these days of necessary economy and possible reorganization of the United States Government it would seem that the logical post for Mr. Baker in the President's Cabinet should be that of Secretary of National Defense, when the Army, Navy and air forces are consolidated in the interest of real economy and efficiency.

Newton D. Baker made an efficient Secretary of War during the World War. He is well versed in all of these matters and has a brilliant record of accomplishment.

Let us hope that this constructive work will be made an accomplished fact in the coming administration.

EFFICIENCY.

CHAMP PEKE OPENS TOY AND DOLL FUND

hours for this purpose will be from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., each Saturday.

"So match my dime, everybody. Of course if you 'raise me' I shall not object, but at least send in a dime. How proud I will be to have thousands of dimes received by The Post Toy and Doll Fund, matching the bright, shiny one I gave today. Just write your name and address and the words, 'Matching Ding-How' on a card and mail it to The Post Toy and Doll Fund, Washington Post. The Santa Claus Lady will see that it reaches the right spot."

As The Post representative was turning away, "Bow, wow, wow," sounded outside Ding-How's home. It was Sandy Gordon, Judge Peyton Gordon's beautiful Orkney terrier, coming to call on Ding-How. The Pets Corner Editor quickly told him of the Post Toy and Doll Fund and Sandy said: "Yes, indeed, I'll match you, Ding-How, as a Thanksgiving offering for getting out of the hospital. I was there for a week. While I was kindly treated it was not like home." In a few minutes Sandy had gotten another matcher for Ding-How's dime in Cal, the fox terrier owned by Mark Sullivan, well-known Washington correspondent.

Washington generally was delighted to learn of The Post Toy and Doll Fund, it was learned from a number of calls received at The Post yesterday, with promises of donations and asking for further information.

Junior Editor Donates.

The Junior Post editor contributed a dollar gift with the welcome promise of asking the thousands of boys and girls who belong to The Junior Post clubs to send in pennies, nickels and dimes for the fund.

"That will make it grow!" she exclaimed. "In these clubs are boys and girls who have been taught how to make other children happy. They have had their attention called to the knightly spirit of service to others and to share their own delights with other children.

"I feel sure that none of my boys and girls, and there are more than 10,000 of them in the clubs, could be happy with their Christmas toys if they knew other children in the city had none. I am glad you are making it possible for people to give in small amounts. Few of us are rich in a monetary sense this year, but all can help in some way. You can count on The Post boys and girls to help the Toy Fund."

Gifts Listed Tomorrow.

Tomorrow's paper will begin to list the gifts that had been reported by the time the issue goes to press.

Already many a cold little hand has slipped a letter to Santa Claus into some mail box with childhood's perfect faith in the good saint of childhood. Is that child going to lose that priceless faith on Christmas morning as he searches vainly for the desired toy.

Every contribution to The Post's Toy Fund will ensure some child a happy Christmas. The distribution will be made through the child's own parents or guardian, thus bringing joy to them as well.

The Post Toy and Doll Fund will remain open until Christmas Eve. But do not wait that long to make your gift. Send it in today. Then you will have done your Christmas good turn early and enjoy the holiday all the more.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

PRESIDENT HOOVER will address the Nation this afternoon (WRC, 3:30 o'clock), officially opening the Christmas Seal campaign of the National Tuberculosis and Health Association. He will be introduced by Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, president of the Washington chapter of the association.

"Woman's part in the present emergency" as the First Lady of the Land sees it, will be the subject of a talk given by Mrs. Herbert Hoover from the White House over WRC on Sunday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock.

Newcomers on the air out of Washington are Snooks and his Memphis Ramblers, who will broadcast from the Silver Slipper supper club three times a week via WRC.

Their days are Monday, Wednesday and Saturday on a sort of sliding scale that brings them on between 10:30 and 11 on Mondays, from 11:30 to 12 on Wednesdays and at 12 to 12:30 on Saturdays.

Snooks comes to Washington direct from the Paramount Grill in New York. He and his Memphis Ramblers were on the Columbia hook-up all of last year and they have made recordings for Victor for the last eight years.

Lion Feuchtwanger, German author who arrived for his first visit in this country last week, will be heard over WJSV at 4:15 p. m. He will talk on the subject, "When Will Man Progress?" Feuchtwanger's latest novel, "Josephus," has just been published.

AL JOLSON will respond to the popular demand that he sing more of the songs that have been identified with his stage and screen successes when he broadcasts his second Chevrolet program (WRC, 10 o'clock) tonight. He will include "Toot, Toot, Tootsie, Goodbye," "The Spaniard that Blighted My Life" and "Dirty Hands, Dirty Face." One new number, "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?" will be included. The program will originate in the studios of KFI, Los Angeles.

"Peer Gynt," the most imaginative of Henrik Ibsen's works, will be presented by a notable cast of radio actors headed by William S. Rainey, at 11 a. m., over WRC. The production will be directed by Vernon Radcliffe. Cesare Sodero and his concert orchestra will furnish a special musical background.

Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, football coach at Leland Stanford University, and largely responsible for the development of modern football, will be interviewed by Christy Walsh during the all-America Football Show (WJSV, 9 p. m.).

MRS. JOHN W. BENNETT, the wife of the superintendent of the Central Union Mission, will tell of the work of the Children's Emergency Home over the "Among Women" period of the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs, at 11 a. m. on WMAL.

The Sino-Japanese imbroglio, which this week again reached page one when Tokyo rejected the Lytton report on Manchuria, will be dramatized during the "March of Time" over WJSV at 8:30 p. m.

"West of Manaos," a three-act drama of love in the jungle, with June Meredith, Don Ameche and Cliff Soubier, will be the First Nighter presentation (WJZ, 9 p. m.).

Until recently, C. B. S. employes could not understand why clerks at a soda fountain near the New York studio always made it a point to secure a copy of the studio production schedule. The explanation came when one of the announcers entered the establishment and ordered a ham sandwich and a piece of mince pie.

"I'll give you the sandwich now," answered the clerk, scanning the schedule, "but you'd better save the pie till later—you've got a program in ten minutes."

Arthur Tracy's version of the "Song of the Volga Boatmen" and Nat Shilkret's arrangement of Jaernefelt's "Praeludium" will be presented during the broadcast of "Music That Satisfies" (WJSV, 10 p. m.).

THEY do these things at the N. B. C. microphone: James Wallington leans on one foot and bends over the "mike" in a confidential manner . . . Walter O'Keefe alternately fidgets with the desk "mike" and his necktie . . . Lanny Ross smiles at his unseen audience and sways to and fro before the "mike" . . . Charles Winninger, the lovable Uncle Henry of the Maxwell House Show Boat, peeks over his glasses . . . Bring-'em-Back-Alive Frank Buck in pin stripe trousers, nervously watches the control engineer . . . Audrey Marsh keeps her eye on Don Voorhees' waving pencil . . . Theo Alban, who has been singing "Lucky Days Are Here Again" for more than three years on the Lucky Strike programs, wags his head in time with the music.

A new symphonic hour will be inaugurated over WOL for one hour, beginning at 8 o'clock tonight, with the following program of recordings:

"Romeo et Juliet" (Tschaikowsky), "Spanish Dance" (De Falla), "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Wedding March" (Mendelssohn) and entr'acte from "Rosamunde" (Schubert).

HOWARD CLANEY, possessor of one of the N. B. C.'s best-known voices, admits he was scared stiff when he made his debut as an announcer over Station WJZ in 1927.

He had won an announcer's job by reading from a scene from "Peter Ibbetson," a play in which he had starred on Broadway.

"The late Gerald Stopp heard the audition," says Claney, "and he said he thought the station could take a chance on me. My first program was a drama—an O. Henry story. In rehearsal I looked at the microphone and felt a little contempt for it.

"But when the time for the broadcast arrived, I began to shake like a leaf and I thought I would never get through the brief announcement. Ever since I have always had a profound respect for the "mike" and to this day I never feel entirely at ease until the program is well under way."

Bureau Finishing Data On District Fiscal Year

The report of the Bureau of Efficiency on the House resolution abolishing the old 60-40 fiscal arrangement between the District and Federal governments will be ready for submission to the Senate District Committee during the first week of the coming session of Congress, officials of the bureau said yesterday.

Four tax bills affecting the District, together with the fiscal relations resolutions, were passed by the House at the last session. They were then sent to the Senate District Committee, but this body asked the bureau to report on them before taking any action. Reports on four of the bills, which levy income, estate, automobile weight and gas taxes on District residents have already been made to the Senate committee.

4 KEY INDUSTRIES INCREASE PAY ROLLS

Textiles, Steel, Lumber and Car Building Slant Up, Board Reports.

(Associated Press.)

Factory employment and pay rolls which increased in September showed further increase in October and November with more than the seasonal amount at textile mills and substantial gains in steel mills, lumber mills and car-building shops.

The Federal Reserve Board in its monthly review of general business and financial conditions which recited the improvement said, however, the volume of industrial production after increasing considerably in September remained unchanged in October and wholesale commodity prices declined in the first three weeks of November to the level of early summer. Employment in the canning and automobile industries continued downward.

In the textile industries, which made rapid advances in August and September, there was a slight decrease in consumption of raw materials, while the output of finished products increased somewhat. Shoe production, which had increased in recent months, showed a seasonal decline. Operations at steel mills increased from 17 per cent of capacity in September to 19 per cent in October, which trend was continued in November.

Production of automobiles in October declined further to a new low level, while coal mining showed the usual seasonal drop.

The board said wholesale commodity prices declined in October and the first week of November, reflecting reductions in many domestic agriculture products and their manufacture as well as in the prices of steel rails, copper, coffee, rubber and silk. In the second week of November, the board found the prices of many leading commodities, including grains, hogs, cotton, silk, zinc, lead and tin, advanced considerably but declined later.

Protest Voiced On Competition

Colon Commerce Board Airs Government's Business Acts.

(Associated Press.)

Protest against Government competition with private business in the Panama Canal Zone has been made at the War Department by J. J. Enderton and J. J. Henriquez, representing the Colon Board of Commerce.

Enderton said in a statement yesterday they had conferred during the week with Assistant Secretary Payne, Lieut. Col. Earl McFarland and Maj. W. R. Gruber. The Canal Zone is under supervision of the War Department.

Enderton said he told the officials he had no desire to see commissary privileges of Government and railway employes curtailed. He added that the Government-owned railroads had increased rentals in Colon 462½ per cent.

Henriquez said commissaries were trying to get wholesale business away from Colon concerns.

Lady Astor Sees Revolt Threat in Pay Slashing

Boston, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Lady Astor, American-born member of the British Parliament, today said America faced a possible revolution if employers continued to reduce wages and increase the hours of a working day. Lady Astor, the former Nancy Langhorne, of Virginia, with Lord Astor, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, of Boston.

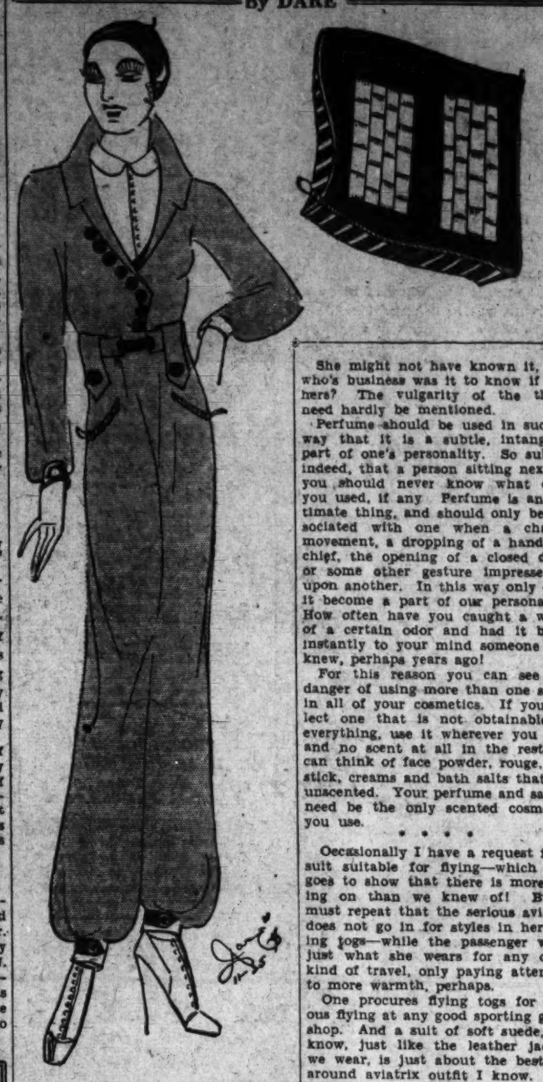
"This country must be careful of its treatment of the workers," Lady Astor said. "Further reduction of wages and increases of hours of employment may bring about a revolt which would be tremendous in its effects, not only on the United States but on the world at large."

Democrats Rout Hunger.

Kansas City, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Another Democratic victory was scored here today, this one over hunger. Nearly 14,000 men were fed turkey and all the trimmings by Casmir J. Welch and his Jeffersonian Democratic Club. Admission at first was by ticket, but later Welch, a justice of the peace, gave out the word to let in any man who appeared.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE



The modern aviatrix wears just this type of suit, if she is wise. It is made entirely of suede, which means that it is practical, efficient and warm. (Seen on Fifth avenue.)

She might not have known it, but who's business was it to know if not hers? The vulgarity of the thing need hardly be mentioned.

Perfume should be used in such a way that it is a subtle, intangible part of one's personality. So subtle, indeed, that a person sitting next to you should never know what odor you used, if any. Perfume is an intimate thing, and should only be associated with one when a chance movement, a dropping of a handkerchief, the opening of a closed door, or some other gesture impresses it upon another. In this way only does it become a part of our personality. How often have you caught a whiff of a certain odor and had it bring instantly to your mind someone you knew, perhaps years ago!

For this reason you can see the danger of using more than one scent in all of your cosmetics. If you select one that is not obtainable in everything, use it wherever you can, and no scent at all in the rest. I can think of face powder, rouge, lipstick, creams and bath salts that are unscented. Your perfume and sachet need be the only scented cosmetics you use.

* * * *

Occasionally I have a request for a suit suitable for flying—which just goes to show that there is more going on than we knew of! But I must repeat that the serious aviatrix does not go in for styles in her flying togs—while the passenger wears just what she wears for any other kind of travel, only paying attention to more warmth, perhaps.

One procures flying togs for serious flying at any good sporting goods shop. And a suit of soft suede, you know, just like the leather jackets we wear, is just about the best all-around aviatrix outfit I know. Because it is chic, practical, warm, wearable and stylish—what more could one wish? I sketched one for you today—and Miladi wears goggles and ear flaps in the machine—but her beret is in a pocket and goes on when she gets out of her plane.

A suede "carry any thing" bag which is also a cushion is a clever accessory, not only for an aviatrix, either, but for traveling of any sort, so I just sketched one.

Make your own hand-made Christmas cards! And you may be sure that they are going to be stunning, because ours are—and we make our own, so there. Just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet, ready this week, with several different and smart Christmas cards in it that you can very easily make yourself.

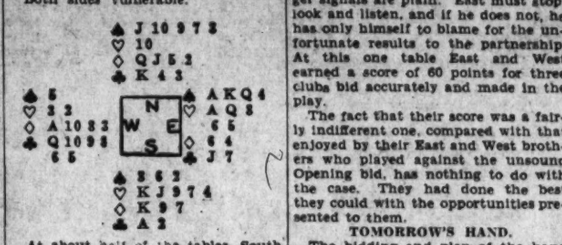
Set 3.

REACHING THE RIGHT CONTRACT.

REACHING the right contract does not always assure you of the best score at the Contract table, but, at least, if you bid correctly and intelligently, you have the satisfaction of knowing you have done the right thing, and also of securing the best score nine times out of ten. The exceptions to the rule only go to prove the point.

An example of an exception occurred on the hand below, played in a recent Duplicate game in New York City.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



At about half of the tables, South opened the bidding with an unsound bid of one heart, and in every case when the play ended the North and South players were penalized at least 700 points.

At the remaining tables, East correctly made an Opening bid of one heart, after three passes, and in every instance but one, East and West were penalized 250 points. The East and West pair which found the correct bid, as there can be no question that they should play the contract, reached it in a very simple manner through the process of signing-off. At this table the bidding went:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Pass	1♡
Pass	2♠	Pass	2♠
Pass

Of course, played at either hearts or spades, it is apparent that East and West are in for a "drubbing." The cards are stacked against them.

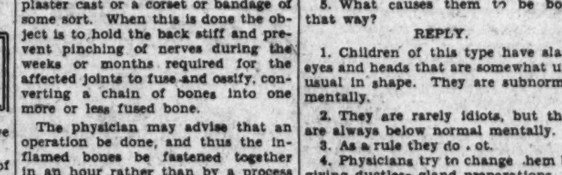
When West responds to East's Opening bid with a bid of two clubs, East, of course, is in doubt as to whether or not the hand conceivably has a future. Possibly West can support spades if he can not support hearts, and there is nothing discouraging about making another bid because of the fact that West has taken out his major bid of one in a suit with a minor suit bid of two. However, when East discloses his semi-two-suiter with his bid of two spades, and West now bids three clubs, the danger signals are plain. East must stop, look and listen, and if he does not, he has only himself to blame for the unfortunate results to the partnership. At this one table East and West earned a score of 60 points for three clubs bid accurately and made in the play.

The fact that their score was a fairly indifferent one, compared with that enjoyed by their East and West brothers who played against the unsound Opening bid, has nothing to do with the case. They had done the best they could with the opportunities presented to them.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

I HAVE devoted an entire series of lessons to women in the home, to wives and mothers because I am particularly interested in bringing beauty to them. Many of them devote their days to work, to seeing that their husbands and children have as happy, clean and comfortable a home as possible. Many of them have limited finances and do their utmost under the circumstances. And many feel that they neither have time nor money for beauty.

The last impression is an erroneous one. It takes neither a great deal of time nor money to keep well-groomed, healthy and lovely. Beauty habits are easy to form and loveliness grows. So does lack of loveliness. When the children are small they accept mother's word as law and gospel and mother is always an ideal picture to them.

But, when children grow older, start seeing and thinking for themselves their pride and affection for mother increases as her own charm increases. A smart up-to-dateness carries weight with them. They want mother to be young, to be well-groomed always. They want her to be the sweetheart of their entire group. And like Sylvia of the famous song, they want and expect "beauty to live with kindness."

The sacrifices you are making of time, strength and energy every day bring you a great deal of satisfaction, don't they? Fine. But, don't sacrifice your every minute to your home, husband and children. Save some time for yourself and your beauty. Keep yourself attractive and well-groomed. Daintiness is an enviable asset. Cultivate it. Even while you are working in the home wear crisp, cool-colored, washable house dresses or pretty smocks. Keep your nails and hands nice. Keep your weight controlled. Your skin smooth and as young as possible. Your hair arranged in modern fashion, not necessarily with intricate curls; there are very smart, simple styles, young enough, but not flippant. Your hair arrangement can do so much to soften the contours of your face and bring out your best features. Spend a little less on Mary's clothes and a little more on your own. Don't be quite so generous with John's allowance, and create a little budget of both time and money for your own improvement.

There, I've given you not one single specific beauty hint but if I have left with you a greater desire to keep young and lovely I've done my part. Now you do yours. And if you have any beauty problems not answered for you in this series, do write me and I shall be happy to help you.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

ARTHRITIS OF SPINE.

ONE of the most common disorders is chronic arthritis of the spine. While it has not much tendency to end life, it is a prolific source of incapacity and pain. The man who happens to be indulging in the disease goes to his physician for the relief of pain in almost every case. If the physician is alert enough to look beyond the immediate, to reject such diagnoses as chronic backache, rebellious lumbago, intractable sciatica, and so run the trouble back to its source, he is quite apt to advise the patient to immobilise the joints of his back.

To begin with, the patient is put to bed and advised not to sit up nor even to twist and squirm. At the same time treatment by physiotherapy, such as different kinds of heat and light, baths, and rubs, is advised. This is good so far as it goes. In many cases the symptoms continue in spite of this treatment. The physician then advises that the back be immobilized. To accomplish this he may put on a plaster cast or a corset or bandage of some sort. When this is done the object is to hold the back stiff and prevent pinching of nerves during the weeks or months required for the affected joints to fuse and ossify, converting a chain of bones into one more or less fused bone.

The physician may advise that an operation be done, and thus the inflamed bones be fastened together in an hour rather than by a process lasting months.

This treatment of chronic arthritis is the best we have for chronic, obstinate cases involving the lower back, but it has its drawbacks when the seat of the trouble is in the backbone of the chest region.

So far as the treatment of the disease in the spinal column is concerned there is nothing for it but to do all we can to promote the growing together of the bones and the solidifying of the column. But what must be done, just in so far as that is possible, is to have them grow together with the least possible amount of curve. Everything must be done to prevent the body from stooping and doubling.

Rest in bed is the best of all measures, but it has its limitations. No man wants to give up and go to bed for life, or even for a few years, feeling as well and capable as most of these persons are.

ACID STOMACH.

Mrs. E. M. B. writes: 1. Which foods should and which foods should not be eaten to correct acid stomach?

2. What medicine, if any, should I take to help correct this acid condition?

3. I have ulcers in my mouth often. Does this condition of my stomach cause them?

4. Is a teaspoonfull of soda taken in water beneficial in this case?

REPLY.

1. Eat plain, simple foods with very little seasoning. Avoid any food which appears to cause acidity. However, dieting for acidity is generally a waste of effort, since acidity is a symptom, and the cause may not be in the stomach.

2. Try to find the cause and treat that.

3 It is possible. The cause is certainly in your diet or in your digestive tract.

4. I don't think so. Eating a little peppermint candy is better, or sucking a few mint tablets. If you need to take alkali you can find a better preparation than soda. If you need soda the method of taking it you ask about is not the right one.

MONGOLIAN BABIES.

M. A. writes: 1. What is a child of the Mongolian type?

2. Are they always idiots?

3. Do they grow to maturity?

4. Can anything be done for them in the way of cure?

5. What causes them to be born that way?

REPLY.

1. Children of this type have slant eyes and heads that are somewhat unusual in shape. They are subnormal mentally.

2. They are rarely idiots, but they are always below normal mentally.

3. As a rule they do not.

4. Physicians try to change them by giving ductless gland preparations.

5. There is much speculation, but nobody knows.

Butterscotch Sauce.

1 cup boiling water
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons flour
Speck of cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla

To the boiling water add the brown sugar, flour, salt and cinnamon, which have been thoroughly mixed together. Cook until the flour has lost its raw taste and the mixture thickens, stirring continuously to prevent lumping and sticking. Beat in the butter and the vanilla. This may be served as a hot sauce on ice cream, custards, or puddings.

Hollandaise Sauce.

2 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
A little cayenne

Divide the butter into three portions and put one piece with the egg yolks and lemon juice in the upper part of the boiler. Stir constantly until the mixture begins to thicken. Remove from the stove, add the second piece of butter, and stir rapidly as the egg continues to thicken. Then add the last piece of butter and continue to stir until the mixture is completely blended. Add the salt and cayenne. Serve the sauce at once.

In case a thinner sauce is desired, add a little hot water. If the sauce separates, add 1 or 2 tablespoons of water, milk or cream, place the sauce over hot water for a few seconds, and beat it well. It will become smooth again.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF November 25 is the date of your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 5:30 a. m. to 6:30 a. m., from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m., and from 8:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

Astrological influences on this date will stir up great emotional activity. Love, anger, hate, &c., probably will be apparent in their most extreme manifestations. Guard yourself against "flying off the handle" at the slightest provocation. Affairs of the heart embarked on this November 25 most probably will not fare well. He who is blessed with a strong will power and uses it to keep himself under control will receive the greatest returns on this day.

The child born on this November 25 will have a most impetuous nature. Without an iota of fear in his make-up the child will begin early to seek adventure and excitement, and most probably this desire for thrills will continue through life. The child will take great pleasure and delight in seeing new places and new people. So great will be his desire to travel that you may find him to be a very restless little one not at all interested in his studies. Remember in dealing with him that his keen power of observation is his best teacher.

Born on November 25, you are probably a very high-strung person possessed of a very sensitive nature which at times makes it difficult for your surroundings. You do not have many friends and you are satisfied with those you have. You enjoy the seclusion of your home and your happiest hours and most probably your most profitable come from the periods of meditation that you enjoy in the privacy of your home. While you are yourself a very sensitive person, you are very blunt and almost too direct in your dealings with others. Your brusqueness is really a defense mechanism, but it is often misunderstood and you thereby lose friends.

You would do best in some business that would afford you great activity for you feel that you must be constantly on the go. Seek to develop poise and try to learn to take life more easily. An early marriage is advisable and should prove happy.

Successful people born on November 25:

John Bigelow, journalist, diplomat and author.
Andrew Carnegie, iron master.
Cecil F. P. Bancroft, educator.
Charles Y. Turner, artist.
Bliss Perry, author and editor.
Ethelbert Nevin, composer.

FLIER FORCED GUEST OF ARAB TRIBESMEN

Victor Smith Is Treated With Courtesy by Desert Savages.

London, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Victor Smith, young South African flier, completed a flight of 11 days and 15 hours from Cape Town today, making the last few miles as a passenger after cracking up near Ashford, in Kent.

He was unhurt, but his plane was damaged in a rough landing in a hop field. A plane was sent out from Croydon Airport to pick him up, and when he arrived here he told an interesting story of spending five and a half days in the desert as a guest of the Tauregs, a tribe of Arabs. During these five days the outside world did not know what had become of him.

"I had been following the Niger en route to Gao (French West Africa) when I discovered the joint in the petrol feed connecting with the main tank was leaking badly," he said. "I had only enough petrol left to keep me in the air ten minutes. I was forced to land near Dori and to spend the rest of the day under the wings of the plane, owing to the intense heat.

"Eventually a half savage man approached who turned out to be a slave of the Tauregs. I gave him a note and was left alone on the desert until the following day. I lived on chocolate, a few biscuits, oranges and acid drops.

"The Tauregs arrived and offered me goat's milk and flesh. The latter I refused. Then they built me a grass hut."

Eventually Smith got a message through to the French outpost at Dori and two French soldiers appeared with a supply of canned food and enough gasoline to get him into Gao.

G.U. Student Prank Brings Gang Alarm

Quartet Crashing Dance in Brooklyn Taken for Bandits.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 24.—The traditional conservatism of Brooklyn Heights was shattered early this Thanksgiving morning when an alarm sounded that gangsters were invading that exclusive sector. So many calls came to the police that eight radio cars with gas bombs and light artillery and 42 policemen hastened to the scene.

The object of invasion was Columbia Heights Casino, 75 Montague street, where debutantes' ball, the season's first function, was in progress. Up the flank of an apartment house next to the Casino four figures clad in swallowtails and high silk hats were slowly climbing along fire escapes.

Police surrounded the Casino and arrested William F. Stafford, 20, of Berkshire Hotel, Manhattan, and Georgetown University student, and three collegiate companions, who, police swore, were preparing to leap the 20 feet between the two roofs to reach the Casino. Stafford explained they were attempting to crash the ball because although invited they did not have the necessary $5 apiece required after 2 a. m.

Obtaining $500 bail apiece they were told to face disorderly conduct charges November 30.

Sigma Chi Wins Decoration Test

The decoration of the Sigma Chi house, 1312 N street northwest, showing G. W.'s football opponents sealed in coffins in defeat, was awarded first prize in the fraternity and sorority house decoration contest, it was announced last night.

It was also announced that the sophomores won the class stunt contest, conducted at the home-coming celebration Wednesday.

After the supper, there was a general flocking to the Mayflower for the reception by the General Alumni Association, scheduled for 9:30 o'clock. An hour later the undergraduates came into their own at the university ball in the same hostelry. The fraternity winning the decorations prize was announced at the latter end of this festivity.

Earl of Cavan Named British Field Marshal

London, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Frederick Lambart, tenth Earl of Cavan, was made a field marshal tonight, the highest rank in the British army, in succession to the late Lord Methuen.

The Earl of Cavan is 67 years old and served throughout the South African and World Wars. At the opening of the World War he commanded the Fourteenth Corps and subsequently the brigade of guards and the guards division. In the closing months of the war he was in command of the Tenth Italian Army on the Piave front.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ON Thanksgiving night, of all times in the year, a commentator upon the theater and its people, I suppose, might be expected to exercise a lively interest in a novelty in parties recently reported direct from Hollywood and having to do—save the mark!—with things to eat.

Helen Hayes, the Washington actress, introduced to the public years ago by the old Columbia Players as Little Helen Hayes Brown, and this year winner of the first acting honors, recently awarded by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, for the superlative quality of her screen work in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," and her husband, Charles MacArthur, author and playwright, (pardon the aside, but shouldn't his name be MacAuthor?), it seems, decided to have a few of the neighbors in to be fed. But they had no intention of spending hours over a lot of hot stoves preparing the viands for their friends' delectation. (If I'm going too fast, just wave your hand, or something.)

Theirs was a cook-your-own-chafing-dish-dinner affair and this is the way it worked. When guests arrived, they found recipes, and ingredients wherewith to compound them, beside steaming chafing dishes. Anyone wishing to appease the punishing pangs of hunger had to strap on an apron and wangle his own skillet!

It is being bruited about that many appetites were lost at the evil prospect, but that some mixed and cooked their own poison and, to prove that the day of miracles is not passed, were able to eat what they had perpetrated without too dire results. It would be interesting to have a reliable audit of the number of hard-berled eggs that were consumed by those not inured to the mysteries of a more intricate cuisine.

To lend Hollywood a further home-town touch, it need only be recalled that Randolph Scott, stalwart young leading man, has been chosen to play the masculine lead in the Paramount picture of which Kate Smith will be the sweet-voiced and substantial star.

The film, according to preliminary surveys, will be a celluloid document of some pith and considerable substance, based upon an original story by Fannie Hurst, in which "our Kate" will appear in the role of a great-hearted farm girl—and it is my impression that Kate never has been nearer a farm than her mother's ample, but not acreage, residential frontage out in Riverdale—whose wonderful voice enables her to finance a tremendous struggle between hundreds of simple agriculturists and a predatory power company seeking to confiscate their land.

This initial picture of Kate's—barring, of course, that masterpiece of productional genius, "The Crandall Saturday Nighters in Action" and a later little trifle called, don't tell me, it will come to me in a minute, called, oh, yes, "The Big Broadcast"—as yet untitled, is already in production, or on the verge. Sam Coslow and Arthur Johnston, song-writers responsible for the hit "Just One More Chance," have written three new numbers especially for Kate to sing in this copious celluloid. One of them is a torch number, entitled "Moon Song." (I don't suppose Kate will ever get shut of that moon as long as she lives, after hoisting it over that mountain all these years). The others are "The Great Open Spaces" and "Pickaninny Heaven." I confess to a slight inclination to write that "in," instead of "and," but that's no matter.

Kate, by the way, got her first Hollywood thrill when Clark Gable introduced her on the air in her first broadcast from California. He was the first film star she met upon her arrival on the West Coast. And since this item has somehow got itself over among the males, it is hinted that Ted Collins, Kate's manager, will play her manager on the screen, knowing all the business already, as he does.

And I imagine there's no significance whatever in the coincidence that after the Paramount executives had met Kate at the train they immediately nominated as her leading man this Randolph Scott lad, a former athlete at Georgia Tech. Working in scenes with Kate, a little brawn won't hurt!

This column has been trying for days now to find this spot in which to say that one of Maxim Lowe's most soothing orchestras has inaugurated a series of dinner concerts at 2400 Sixteenth street, Tuesday and Thursdays, from 6:30 to 8:30, and Sundays, from 7 to 9. While primarily for the enjoyment of resident guests, the public is admitted to the lounge where they are given.

As the hazy aftermath of Thanksgiving's gormandizing begins gradually to wear away, the consciousness grows that the immediate future holds more of interest to the amusement seeker than was disclosed in Thursday's recapitulations of the new week's offerings.

For example, it becomes evident that a program of two one-act plays will be presented by The Troupers, of East Washington Community Center, in Eastern High School Auditorium, Seventeenth and East Capitol streets, this evening at 8:15. They are "The Wolf at the Door," by Daniel E. Hanlon, and "Babbitt's Boy," by Glenn Hughes.

Then on Saturday night at 8:30, in Constitution Hall, Lucrezia Bori, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, of New York, will be heard in the second of Mrs. Wilson-Greene's week-end concert series scheduled for that auditorium. Bori will be assisted at the piano by Frederick Bristol, who will contribute two groups of piano solos to her program.

On the same evening, tomorrow at 8:30, in the Central High School Auditorium, Thirteenth and Clifton streets, the Lisa Gardiner Dancers, assisted by Michael Nicholoff, will present their autumn recital, covering a wide range of choreography and enlisting the services of a thoroughly schooled group of artists.

Continuing his vicarious Sabbath afternoon jaunts over the face of the earth, Burton Holmes, on Sunday afternoon at 3:00, will conduct his audience to the south of France and the Riviera while they occupy comfortable chairs in the National Theater. This will be the third in Mr. Holmes' current series of five new travelogues, illustrated by motion pictures and colored slides, secured in the course of a new world tour completed only last summer.

Heigh-ho! There is nothing so refreshing as clearing one's conscience—if any.

It has been great sport and all that sort of thing, opening all of these pictures ahead of their appointed days (off-stage voice, "Oh, yeah?") but the penalty comes today, when only three openings remain to cheer the customers on to revelry over the week-end. They are Clara Bow in "Call Her Savage," at Loew's Fox; Richard Barthelmess in "Cabin in the Cotton," at the Metropolitan, and George O'Brien in Zane Grey's "The Golden West," at the Columbia. And it might be well, too, to take one more peek at the "Film Time Tables," which are still just a little bit cock-eyed, compared with normal times.

And now let's see exactly where we stand on this business. Tonight we'll turn it over and carve the other side; tomorrow, sliced cold and whatever giblets have managed to play dead up to now; Sunday night, ice-box pickings; Monday, creamed turkey (mostly dressing), and Tuesday, turkey-bone soup.

Ye gods! First down and five days of the darned thing still to go!

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

METROPOLITAN

"CABIN IN THE COTTON." First National picturization of a story by Harry Harrison Kroll, starring Richard Barthelmess, supported by Bette Davis, Dorothy Jordan, Tully Marshall and Henry B. Walthall. Directed by Michael Curtiz. Reviewed by W. A. Whitney.

Seldom does the cinema, as it goes on its various crusades, take an objective point of view and discourse dispassionately upon the questions involved. But in the "Cabin in the Cotton," First National has done an exceedingly creditable piece of work in presenting the case of the southern cotton grower versus the tenant.

Adroitly evading any charge of partisanship, but presenting the good and bad aspects of both sides of the feud with equal facility and force, this current Barthelmess picture presents one of the sore spots of American "civilization" with stark realism—an analysis of the situation that is truly extraordinary in cinematic exposition.

"Cabin in the Cotton" is more a presentation of a case than of a story, but what narrative there is revolves around Marvin Blake, whose amiability and ability elevate him to a high position, notwithstanding his lowly origin. As bookkeeper to the great grower, Marvin is called upon to placate the tenants who accuse the planter of gouging them and keeping them forever poverty-ridden. The accusations of the tenants are not entirely ill-founded nor, by the same token, are the planters' allegations of pilfering completely without foundation. In the end, however, Marvin proposes a cooperative venture and is made, by virtue of the confidence placed in him by both sides, head of the new organization.

An infatuation of the tenant's daughter and the "grand passion" for one of his own "kind" are woven into the tale, but expertly though they are played (respectively, by Bette Davis and Dorothy Jordan), these lighter themes only serve to make the vividness of the bitter feud the more powerful and the more compelling, the more searching.

It is quite natural that to Richard Barthelmess should fall the lion's share of the work, for it is by, and through, him that the various elements of love and hate are finally sublimated and the bitter antagonisms complemented and fused for the commonweal. It is a role to tax the qbilities of any actor, and Mr. Barthelmess rises to the occasion, delivering a character study that eclipses any previous effort of his before the camera. That covers a lot of territory, but so does this role—a role that would have been easy to overplay and into which to inject maudlin sentimentality.

Upholding the planters' side of the argument is Burton Churchill, whose delineation of aristocratic aloofness and superiority encompasses everything that might be desired. At the other end of the so-called social scale, representing the tenants, are Henry B. Walthall, David Landau and Tully Marshall, offering characterizations no less commendable than those of the others already mentioned.

Among the others in the competent supporting cast are Hardie Albright, Erville Alderson, Florine McKinney, Harry Cordine, Edmund Breese, Walter Percival, Clarence Muse and Dorothy Peterson.

Particular interest in many quarters will attach to the major supplementary feature of the bill, "Hey, Pop," a two-reel comedy, by reason of its being the vehicle of Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle's return to the screen after an enforced exile of a dozen years or so. If a trifle rusty in method, Mr. Arbuckle is still a robust and jovial comedian.

A new issue of the Paramount Sound News completes the bill.

PALACE

"PROSPERITY." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a story by Sylvia Thalberg and Frank Butler, adapted to the screen by Zelda Sears, starring Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, with Norman Foster, Anita Page and John Miljan. Directed by Sam Wood.

After a tremendous amount of arduous and exhausting research, we have corroborated from last Saturday's issue of The Post what we have suspected right along—that we then described the current goings-on at the Palace Theater as "a bill that will probably pack the house to the rafters throughout the week."

Not having been back since a week ago today, we perhaps could not be expected to know to precisely what stresses the rafters have been put, but "Prosperity" is being continued through a second seven-day period, so it seems a safe inference that the original estimate, if faulty at all, erred only in the degree and not the fact of Marie Dressler's and Polly Moran's popularity in vehicles giving their gusty talents a fair outlet.

This, "Prosperity" assuredly does. As a remedy for economic and industrial panics, it would hardly have saved the country, even had it come along three years earlier; as a commentary on sound principles of banking, it is just so-so, but as a medium for the display of the lusty endowments of the screen's most vigorous, most indefatigable and most rough-and-ready comediennes, it is a swell piece of machinery!

Here you will find comedy, romance, thrills, pathos, vulgarity and hokum, mixed in proportions that will be distasteful to only a few and hilariously diverting to an overpowering majority. Marie Dressler, of course, is the picture's great tower of strength; Polly Moran her perfect foil. Anita Page and Norman Foster contribute a gracious note of youthful romance and John Miljan a dash of melodramatic villainy. Nothing more, in reason, could be asked.

"Over the Counter," a natural-color musical; "Football Footwork" and the Metrotone News continue the well-chosen auxiliaries. N. B. B.

The goal of the local seal sale is $50,000, or the sale of 5,000,000 of the penny stickers.

Men Hunting Thieves Are Shot.

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Policeman W. H. Cousar and William Little, Negro, were victims of mistaken identity early today when Little shot Cousar and in turn was shot by another officer while searching in the dark for thieves who had entered Little's store. Cousar suffered a superficial flesh wound. Little, shot four times, is in a serious condition.

Man Seeks to Organize Bartenders; Is Seized

Chicago, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Nate Krone, to whom the return of legal beer is no remote possibility, was in police custody tonight for questioning in connection with his efforts to organize speakeasy bartenders into a union.

Officials interrupted Krone while he was well launched in a sales talk to a prospective member. Krone was indignant over the arrest and produced documents to show he was an authorized business agent of the Beverage and Soda Dispensers Union, Local 228. Officials of the Bartenders Union, long-established organization, sought Krone's release. Police indicated they would let him go.

BONDHOLDER BODIES JOIN IN PROTECTION

New York Area Committees Unite to Serve Owners of Defaulted Loans.

New York, Nov. 24 (U.P.).—The principal bondholders protective committees in this district today announced a merger "effected to meet the need for concerted orderly action" to save the equity of investors in bonds now in default.

The new organization, the Real Estate Bondholders Protective Committee, said more than $10,000,000,000 in real estate bonds are outstanding in the hands of 6,500,000 holders, and that half of these are in default.

The organization is a union of the real estate bondholders committee of which George E. Roosevelt, of Roosevelt & Son, has been chairman, the general committee for the protection of real estate bondholders, of which Dr. E. R. A. Seligman, professor emeritus of political economy in Columbia University, has been chairman, and of the protective committee for defaulted real estate bonds, of which Henry R. Hayes has been acting as chairman.

Mr. Roosevelt will be chairman of the new committee, and Dr. Seligman, vice chairman. Samuel Seabury, previously chief counsel of the general committee, will act as final arbiter on all reorganization plans and as to all compensation to be paid for work done in behalf of the committee.

More than $55,000,000 of real estate bonds are already on deposit with the Roosevelt committee and the general committee, and nearly 50,000 persons already have asked that their interests be safeguarded by these organizations. The new committee will operate nationally and will "accept representation of bonds of additional issues in all cases where the committee is of the opinion that it may effectively serve the interests of the bondholders."

Cash and Theater Tickets Offered for 1933 Slogan

The Post and RKO-Keith's to Pay $50 in Prizes for Best War Cry Against Depression; Contest to End Sunday Midnight.

Cash prizes of $50 and theater tickets are to be given by The Post and RKO-Keith's for the best slogan for America in 1933.

In periods of depression and despondency, on the eve of a great undertaking or a battle, something is needed to captivate the imagination and arouse lethargic spirits. A war cry is often needed as badly in peace times as in a clash of arms.

Readers of The Post are invited to coin a phrase in singing words which will lift discouraged spirits and arouse people to battle fury in this peace-time struggle.

"The Conquerors," now showing at RKO-Keith's Theater, demonstrates the fighting spirit of those who will not be beaten.

Any one who has an idea which may provide the slogan may participate in the slogan-creed contest.

First prize will be $25; second, $15, and third, $10. There will be ten additional prizes of sets of tickets to RKO-Keith's. All entries must be received by Sunday midnight. Winners will be announced next Tuesday. Employes of The Post and RKO-Keith's and their families are barred. Address all communications to "The Conquerors Editor," in care of The Post.

PENN SUBDUES CORNELL, 13-7; G. W. TIES OKLAHOMA

Don Kellett Makes Deciding Points in Final Minutes.

Quakers Score First Victory Over Foe in Three Years.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 24 (A. P.).—One sudden burst of power late in a bitter battle blasted a faltering Cornell eleven today and crowned Pennsylvania's erratic season with a 13-to-7 victory in the annual Thanksgiving Day tussle of two of the East's oldest rivals. Fifty thousand saw the game.

Out of a fire burning dangerously high as the minutes ticked away, the Quaker quarter back, Don Kellett, pulled the brand, with three short passes that demoralized the Big Red back field defense and left them standing in a group, waiting for another, as he raced alone the last four yards around an end for the deciding touchdown and the first Pennsylvania victory in three years.

Penn now has won 28 games in a series that started way back in 1893 and has lasted with but one war-time exception down to today. Cornell has won nine, with but two ties.

Penn Line Solves Foes' Offense.

Pennsylvania's mightly line, led by a grand tackle in Capt. Stan Sokolis and Roy Engle, as stanch a center as the East boasts, solved completely after a faltering start the powerful Cornell back field offense headed by Capt. Viviano and Jack Ferraro.

For a few brief minutes in the first quarter Viviano, a dynamic plunger and defensive back, ripped through the Penn forwards as he had Princeton, Columbia and Dartmouth earlier in the season in the only sustained drive the big Red Wave could muster all day. He led an attack that thundered 42 yards to Penn's 30-yard line and tossed an incomplete pass over the Quaker goal. But for the rest of the afternoon he might as well have rested on the side lines.

But Pennsylvania, Sokolis, Engles, Colehower, Yablonski and all, could not stop another amazing little fellow also playing his last game for Cornell.

Mexican Star Brilliant In Finale.

While his father and two brothers, who had previously warred in Cornell football, listened to reports in his home in Mexico City, Jose Martinez-Zorilla played the greatest game of his career.

He smashed in upon burly Carl Perina, Penn full back, as he tried to get a punt away in the second period, smothered the ball and bounded alone across the Quaker goal 25 yards away for Cornell's lone touchdown. It was his fifth blocked kick of the season, but the first touchdown he ever has scored at Cornell that way. He recovered one of Penn's four fumbles, and was all over the premises, tearing down ball carriers, blocking out tackles, nailing punt receivers with delirious abandon.

Aside from the lone drive of the first period and the Mexican Jumping Jack's solitary offensive that almost won Cornell a tie, the Red Wave was helpless but for tiny charges that brought but three first downs all day. Switzer, sophomore quarter back and passer, completed only one forward pass in ten, and that for 2 yards.

Penn Scores After Slow Beginning.

After a slow start, the Quakers launched a 47-yard march to a touchdown in the first period, immediately after Cornell had subsided. With George Munger and Don Kellett skipping through the line, Big Carl Perina bashing it, and Kellett tossing two short passes, Penn marched to the 2-yard line and Munger plunged across.

The Cornell defense broke down completely 58 yards from home in the final quarter. First Mel Hemeon, Penn end, broke into a lateral pass play, grabbed the ball as it was touching the ground, and raced away over the Cornell goal. The officials called him back because the ball had touched the ground.

Then Eddie Masavage, sub quarter, took his shot and from the same spot broke through tackle, into the clear.

Steffen Rides Colt to Nose Decision

Tambour Beaten as 25,000 Fans See $7,500 Race.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

THE pink and black of the famous Greentree Stable which has been seen often in the defeated parts of fields this season was on display at the most important point yesterday. It was the occasion of the eleventh running of the Thanksgiving Handicap and some 25,000, one of the largest crowds in the history of the Bowie track, were witnesses to the startling victory of St. Brideaux. Yes, it was no mistake—the same St Brideaux which has been picking up only small change compared to the usual earnings of a Greentree Stable star.

And it was through the medium of Eddie Steffen's powerful right arm and the whip in his grip that St. Brideaux triumphed by a nose margin over Preston Burch's Tambour, ridden by Buddy Hanford. Another length away came the fighting Mate to take the third money by a neck decision from Jack High, a beaten favorite.

The race and what went on before Starter Milton got the field away, was made to order for the kind of stout finish that St. Brideaux unfolded. Pompeius, the property of G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, was a factor in the outcome. Bostwick elected to let Bellizzi do his riding and Pompeius tossed the boy to the ground as the field, lined up and ran away around the course. He looked like a one-horse merry-go-round as he started a second trip. However, the colt ran to the stable and was finally brought back. This took up ten minutes and as Starter Milton would not allow the jockeys to dismount, Jack High and other heavy weighted horses had to stand the impost.

Set Stage for St. Brideaux.

With the field away in good order, the speedsters of the lot fought for the lead, setting the stage for St. Brideaux's closing drive. Up the back stretch, it was Halcyon and Jack High going head and head in front of Tambour. St. Brideaux was picking them up and laying them down in ninth position.

At the far turn St. Brideaux was

Ware and Hall Star in Annual Contest Before 8,000.

HARD "SHOWBOAT" WARE and "Sallie" Hall, shifty and elusive Bison back field aces, arose to the occasion yesterday at Howard Stadium when, before a crowd of more than 8,000, the Bisons conquered the Lions from Lincoln in their annual classic, 12 to 0, hanging up the eighth consecutive goose-egg for the Oxfordians.

It was Howard's eleventh victory over Lincoln in 29 games, 8 of which have resulted in scoreless ties, the Lions having failed to score against the Blue and White since 1924.

Although, on their record, as compared with that of Howard this season, they were given the edge, Howard outplayed the Lions in every department except punting.

The Bisons' aerial attack proved spectacular from the start. Ware got away early in the game on a pass from Hall and was downed on Lincoln's 37-yard line. Hall punted outside on the Lions' 1-yard line, but Johnson kicked out of danger.

Hall's next outside punt gave Lincoln the ball on her 9-yard line and Johnson returned the kick to Ware, who was downed on the Lincoln 46-yard line. Then the Bison eleven headed for goal.

Ware skirted the Lions' left end for 13 yards for first down. Lincoln was penalized 5 yards for offside play, and a pass, Ware to Hall, for 8 yards, placed the oval on the Lincoln 25-yard line. Ware fumbled and recovered to make first down.

Hall Makes Score For Howard.

B. Johnson then went through right tackle for 8 yards and Ware through the same hole to first down on the Lincoln 1-yard line, following three times in succession through the same spot to first down, with inches to go.

Sallie Hall then hit the Lincoln line low and hard for the first count of the afternoon. The extra point was attempted by Ware through the aerial route, but he was thrown before he could get into action.

Lincoln marched steadily down the field after Rainey received Hall's kick-

Play by Play of G. W. Game

By BOB CONSIDINE.

IN a fascinating grid game, pregnant with scoring possibilities, George Washington and Oklahoma battled to a 7-7 draw yesterday at Griffith Stadium before 18,000 football-mad Washingtonians.

Two drives that knocked the citizens into the aisles in frenzied communion with the players stopped within expectorating distance of the goal lines. Oklahoma was checked on the 8-inch line on the last play of the first half, and the whistle that ended the game came close upon the heels of a dynamic 30-yard pass from Johnny Fenlon to Nig Caryer on Oklahoma's 17-yard line.

Otts Kriemelmeyer scored G. W.'s touchdown in the second period on a burst through the piled-up lines, and Johnny Baker kicked the extra point. It climaxed a drive that was started on G. W.'s 40-yard line when Johnny Fenlon took a long punt from Dunlap and raced 20 yards back down the field to Oklahoma's 40.

Oklahoma's tying touchdown and extra point were scored in the third period. Kriemelmeyer fumbled on G. W.'s 15-yard line, and Fred Cherry flopped on it on the 17. Line plays failed, and then Dunlap passed over the line to Cherry, who had eluded Baker. Dunlap's kick for the extra point was hard and true.

A play-by-play account of the game follows:

FIRST QUARTER.

The Colonials moved into Oklahoma territory in the third minute of the game after an exchange of kicks. Johnny Fenlon speared a 50-yard punt by Dunlap on his 20-yard line and got back to the 35. He hit twice off tackle and the ball was in midfield. Baker hit right tackle for 3 and Fenlon went around left end to within inches of a first down on Oklahoma's 40. Kriemelmeyer kicked to the 8-yard line.

Dunlap made an astounding 73-yard punt. Fenlon almost single-handedly bucked the ball from the 25-yard line to midfield, but was thrown for a 6-yard loss on a subsequent play, and Kriemelmeyer kicked to Dunlap, who came back 10 yards to his 35-yard line. A penalty threw Oklahoma back, and Dunlap kicked rather poorly outside on his own 48-yard line.

The first G. W. passing attack failed, and Kriemelmeyer kicked to Oklahoma's 10-yard line. Dunlap had to kick from his goal line, and the ball went to midfield, where a G. W. rally started. Fenlon and Kriemelmeyer bucked the ball on successive first downs to the Oklahoma 25-yard line, but there the rally petered out as the quarter ended.

SECOND QUARTER.

Walter Slaird broke through the line and partially blocked Dunlap's kick on the third play of the quarter. The ball zigzagged to midfield. Baker and Kriemelmeyer took the ball to the 35-yard line in three plays. But little Ab Walker broke up a couple of Fenlon's passes, and Kriemelmeyer kicked down the field. It was Oklahoma's ball on its 20-yard line.

On the first play Walker broke through the line, and McCarver, the only man between him and the goal, brought him down. McCarver also stopped Sims at the line of scrimmage. Then Dunlap kicked 45 yards to Fenlon, who came back to Oklahoma's 40-yard line as the first milestone on the G. W. touchdown drive. The Oklahoma line gave slowly between Fenlon, Kriemelmeyer and McCarver. Fred Mulvey helped the cause a lot when he recovered Kriemelmeyer's fumble on Oklahoma's 14-yard line. Fenlon took it to the 5-yard line in three leg-driving bucks at the tackles. Fenlon and Kriemelmeyer got it to the 1-foot line on two bucks, and then, when everybody expected Fenlon to carry the ball, Baker called Kriemelmeyer's number and the thing was across. Baker's kick was good all the way.

Score, 7-0, G. W.

Oklahoma came right back, and finally were stopped a cruel distance from the goal. Dunlap had booted a 70-yard punt over Fenlon's head, which struck the little G. W. marvel's knee as he raced after it. Curnutt covered for Oklahoma on the G. W. 20-yard line. A fine pass, Dunlap to Stacy, moved the ball to G. W.'s 4-yard line. There was one minute to play. Pearce and Stewart were responsible for stopping the march. They hurled themselves into the teeth of the plunging Oklahoma backs, and the ball finally was several inches short of the goal. The half was over before the teams could line up.

THIRD QUARTER.

Fenlon brought the crowd to its feet on the first play of the quarter.

Maryland U. Wins From Hopkins

Poppelman, Widmyer Stars in 23 to 0 Grid Victory.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 24.—Cleated shoes of the fleet University of Maryland backs trod the design of a new score into the record of annual football games with Johns Hopkins University and the College Park institution triumphed, 23 to 0, in the stadium today.

The Marylanders charged to a touchdown in the first half, added two more in the third quarter and then in a final gesture of disdain for Hopkins' only weapon, the forward pass, blocked an attempt to throw the ball for an entirely superfluous safety in the last period.

Even the satisfaction of a touchdown was denied the Hopkins adherents in the crowd of 9,000. Several times the Blue Jays flew close, only to come to earth as the defensive barrier refused to yield.

So for those who have grown accustomed to spending their Thanksgiving afternoon watching the annual grid games between these two institutions the old story of the last four years was repeated. Maryland, for the fifth time, put a team on the field that was superior to that of its opponent at every turn.

Maryland had Ray Poppelman and Earl Widmyer, and both gained additional glory. Each scored a touchdown and each figured in the thrilling individual feats that brought the Maryland rooters shouting to their feet.

Poppelman Makes First Marker.

Scoring of the first touchdown was started near midfield when Al Woods, Maryland quarter, directed a play that called for a short forward behind the line of scrimmage from Poppelman to himself. He tore through a wide open gap off the left side of the Blue Jay line for 17 yards. Then Poppelman broke into the clear of the secondary for the first time, but stumbled, falling on the 10-yard mark. Widmyer spun around left end for 4 yards and Poppelman burst through center for the remaining 6. Widwyer drop-kicked the extra point.

The brightest moments were re-

Groom's 77-Yd. Run One of Features; 12,000 Present.

UNIVERSITY, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.). Virginia's Cavaliers took revenge for five straight years of defeat at the hands of the North Carolina Tarheels in their annual Thanksgiving classic today while 12,000 spectators watched the 14 to 7 triumph.

The Cavaliers launched an attack which carried across the goal line from the opening kick-off and bucked across another marker in the third quarter before the Carolinians made a serious threat.

Condon kicked both goals.

Bill Croom, who went in at fullback for Carolina after the second Virginia touchdown, scored for Carolina in one of the prettiest runs ever seen in Scott Stadium. He took the ball on the 23-yard line and sped around his left end, wriggled past a group of three Virginia tacklers, cut back toward midfield, selected his interference and ran 77 yards for a touchdown.

Phipps' kick for the extra point from placement was good.

Carolina's running attack was bottled up during the first half by an air-tight Virginia defense. In the first period the Tarheels gained only two yards by rushing and in the first half made only two first downs, one on a pass of 18 yards.

Four First Downs In First Half.

During the first half Virginia registered four first downs, gained 76 yards by rushing and 21 more on a pass that resulted in the first touchdown.

Tompkins took the opening kick-off and ran it back to the 39-yard line. Carolina was penalized 5 yards and Stevens smashed through guard for 6 more for a first down.

The Cavalier back then slipped through tackle for 11 more. Johnson, Sippley, Stevens and Berger knifed through for another first down.

When the Tarheels rallied to check the drive Sippley dropped back and tossed a beautiful 21-yard pass to Johnson, who scrambled across the goal line.

After this 61-yard drive the Cavaliers played cautiously. Johnson was

Kerr Team Opponent Makes But One Bid for Score.

Fireworks Started in Second Period After Even First Round.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 24 (U.P.). Colgate answered its critics today, when the Red Raiders from the Chenango stepped out on the crisp turf of Aldrich Field and swept Brown aside, 21 to 0.

As a result of this smashing victory, achieved, by the way, before 27,000 het-up customers, Colgate's flag, and Colgate's alone, flew tonight at the masthead reserved for those major Eastern teams who sweep through the season undefeated and untied.

The game was a sad disappointment to the thousands of Brown supporters. They had been entirely confident that the Bear team which plowed past Yale, Harvard, Holy Cross and Columbia on successive Saturdays would add Colgate to the list.

But the Bear came over the mountain today only to take a thorough shellacking. You will realize how complete a beating it took when you learn that only once did Brown pass Colgate's 17-yard line; that Brown was able to make only six first downs, and gain only 42 yards by rushing. Compare these figures with those of Colgate. Andy Kerr's team, working with the precision of a 17-jewel watch, clicked off 229 yards by rushing, 15 first downs and half a dozen times stood within putting distance of the Brown goal line.

Brown Backs Are Shackled.

Colgate's victory was made all the more impressive by the fact that its men were working on an empty stomach, the game starting before noon and ending before the afternoon had really started.

The light but agile Colgate line, with Capt. Smith, Prondecki and Anderson as standouts, completely shackled the Brown backs, pouncing on them almost before they got started.

And that Colgate back field—Houdini in all his prime was never more baffling—literally had Brown looking up toward the heavens and wondering where the ball was on more than one occasion.

Held fairly even in the opening quarter, Colgate got to work in the second, following Half Back Ask's kick that rolled out of bounds on Brown's 6-yard line. Bob Chase's kick-out dropped on his own 35-yard mark, and the Raiders cut loose. On fourth down, with 2 yards to go for a first down, Ask rifled a pass to Anderson on Brown's 5-yard line. Three bucks placed the ball but 1 yard from home, from which point Bob Rowe slammed it over.

Colgate picked up two more points in the third period when half a dozen of its linemen combined to block Chase's punt. The ball bounded back of the goal line, where the Brown quarter back was forced to cover it for a safety. These two points, which made it necessary for Brown to do better than a touchdown for a win, gave Colgate confidence, and in the fourth period the Raiders abandoned all ideas of caution and shot the works.

Fumble Near Goal Ends Drive.

The quarter had hardly opened before Colgate drove to Brown's 10-yard line. But Samuel's fumbled and Gilmartin's recovered for Brown to end the attack. Undismayed, Colgate started again from its own 24-yard line and with Ask and Samuels leading the attack, swept down the field for a touchdown. The score

Alabama Triumphs, 20-0, Over Vanderbilt's Gridmen

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 24 (A.P.). Alabama's Big Red line crushed Vanderbilt today as the Red Elephants charged to an impressive 20-to-0 victory over the hitherto unbeaten Commodores, before a crowd of 18,000.

The Alabama line, after faltering in the first two minutes, took the jump on Vandy, smearing the Commodores before they could get started and opening the way for the ball carriers' march to triumph.

Vanderbilt threatened twice, but an alert secondary and the hard charging line quickly bottled up the offensives.

A break early in the second period touched off Alabama's victory drive. Hupke, an alert guard, charged in and recovered Fortuna's fumble on Vanderbilt's 16, and seven plays later, Cain hit Center for a touchdown.

An intercepted pass a few minutes later started Alabama on another drive in which two accurate passes by Milliard Howell, sophomore half back, largely were responsible for the score. The final Alabama touchdown came after a penalty had brought to grief a 62 yard march in which Cain, Walker and Howell smashed the Vandy line to shreds to reach the 4-yard line.

Vanderbilt rallied to go beyond midfield. Then Howell, standing on his own 20, picked one of Roberts' heaves out of the air. Threading his way to midfield, where his interference formed, he ran to a touchdown.

Duquesne Beats Geneva On Placement Near End

Pittsburgh, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—A placement kick in the dying minutes of play by big Silvio Zaninelli, Duquesne full back, today gave the Dukes a 3-to-0 victory over a courageous Geneva College eleven.

Thwarted time after time by an impregnable forward wall thrown up by Howard Harpster's brigade, Duquesne resorted to the field goal route and Zaninelli's kick put a finish to a bitter struggle witnessed by about 15,000 holiday fans. The game ended less than two minutes after the kick.

Undefeated Tennessee Trounces Kentucky, 26-0

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 24 (U. P.).—By day and night Tennessee's unbeaten but tied football team tramped over Kentucky today to score a 26-0 triumph in one of the South's oldest and bitterest gridiron rivalries.

Through th haze of a gray November day, Tennessee ripped Kentucky's Blue Sweatered line for its first touchdown in the second period, scored another in two minutes of the third period and then ran amuck in the fast descending darkness to add two more in the final period.

With 20,000 persons filling every available seat on the field, Tennessee administered its most crushing defeat to Kentucky in a decade, and kept its slate clean as one of the only two undefeated teams in the South.

Triumph Balances Account For Vols.

Tennessee's triumph today balanced accounts with Kentucky for its singular success in marring the Volunteers' record in recent years. Three times in the past four years, Kentucky has tied Tennessee in the Thanksgiving Day battle and has twice knocked the Volunteers out of the Southern title.

Herbert (Deke) Brackett, Tennessee's home-bred quarterback, put the Kentucky team to rout with his spectacular open-field running, which accounted for two of the Volunteers' four touchdowns.

Brackett, who they say in his home town of Knoxville, is afraid to go home in the dark, did plenty of traveling in the hazy light this afternoon. With Tennessee leading, 6-0, Brackett caught the opening kick-off of the third period and raced 64 yards down the field to Kentucky's 20-yard line before Ellis Johnson headed him off.

Alfred Middleton, Tennessee full back, plunged for 7 yards in three attemps, and a 7-yard pass, Pug Vaughn to Van Rayburn, placed the ball on the Kentucky 6-yard line. Beattie Feathers then slanted off Kentucky's right tackle for 6 yards and a touchdown.

Brackett Gets Busy Again In Fourth.

Early in the fourth period, Brackett started galloping again. He took one of Ralph Kercheval's punts into his arms and raced 67 yards through the entire Kentucky team for Tennessee's third touchdown.

It was getting dark by now, and Brackett was withdrawn from the game by Maj. Bob Neyland, the old Army man who put Tennessee on the showing signs of waking up. At the swing into the stretch it was Tambour that came with a rush that carried her to Jack High while Halcyon quit. Hanford went right along with Tambour and appeared the winner as Jack High seemed to tire. In fact, many believed that Hanford was thinking of his turkey dinner as he passed the mutuel board. But up jumped the devil himself. It was St. Brideaux jumping yards each time Steffen laid on his whip. At the wire, the St. Germans colt had one lunge left and it proved the winning one.

George D. Widener's Everfair, a Fair Play filly, left the maiden ranks in the mile and 70 yards opener. It was the first time she had been asked to go the route. Bright Shadow, the medium of a sustained attack on the mutuel plant, was second and Fairy Wild was third. Bright Shadow appeared to be running away with the race as she took the lead at the clubhouse turn. Everfair was close up and entering the stretch the battle was strictly between these two. Danny Smith brought his mount up on even terms with the favorite at the quarter pole and was widening a gap at the finish. The winner closed at 4½ to 1 and paid a startling $16.20 mutuel.

Character Wins Second.

Buddy Hanford and Character brought Thanksgiving cheer to the hearts of the favorite players when they teamed to lead from start to finish in the second race. Stroll Along, Lazi Canter, Blessed Event and Rally Round were some of the principal chasers. However, Character won easily. Rally Round was second and Lazi Canter third. The favorite paid $3.80.

They packed the weight on Pilate and he turned the trick again. This time the son of Friar Rock toted 128 pounds and aside from a determined effort by Gold Step had little to fear in this sprint. Thus Owner Schuttinger took a purse and scratched his charge out of the Thanksgiving handicap. Gold Step took the second money, outlasting the closing charge of Clotho.

Jockey Kurtsinger, who rode Larranaga all over the track earlier in the week, found the route home today, and the son of Apprehension, an even-money favorite, coasted to an easy victory in the combat. Watch Him was second practically all the way. The short end of the purse went to Mad Frump. Larranaga paid a $4.10 mutuel and the third straight favorite to score.

Banner Bowie Crowd Sees Close Finish of Thanksgiving Handicap

AT THE POST

DEAR AL: BOWIE RACE TRACK.

For sheer length those $2 show lines yesterday were the longest I've seen since the day they lined the boys up to pay off that $60 bonus following the armistice. The announcer gave somebody a thrill when he called the speedy pace-setter in the sixth race as Marcasite, a 50-1 shot. He apologized after the race, correcting it to Butter Beans. Both were out of the money, so who cares? I had three winners, but would have traded two of them had I put over Everfair. After naming this one three times and seeing her scratched, I finally weakened and put Bright Shadow on top and Everfair second. I still think the latter is the best. The youngster was rushed off his feet and it's no wonder he tired. Expect to chase the Friday jinx today. Get aboard.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—BLACK SHEEP is the probable favorite in the opener and I will have to string along. Robertson will have the mount and knows this juvenile. The Whitneyite isn't much, but enough to take care of these. HIGH MIST has had enough education and should be second. SAND RUNNER, a son of Single Post, may be the surprise package.

SECOND RACE—BOSCOBEL is a fair sort in the right company and this looks like the place. AVALON did well at a route last spring and may be the principal threat. BLACK PATRICIA for the rest.

THIRD RACE—CUTIE FACE seems to have the edge over this field. That last outing found her battling courageously for a purse. The competition is no better today. Knight's Gal to place ahead of Merry Chatter.

FOURTH RACE—IRENE'S BOB was a speedy sort in New York and won races. Has a world of early foot and may stick it out to beat these. STOCK MARKET is a good sprinter and will be second unless THE POINT is sent to the post fit. HAGERSTOWN may wake up if the track is off.

FIFTH RACE—SCOUT MASTER gave Fairypair all he could handle the other day and barely missed upsetting the odds-on favorite. The added distance should not hinder the chances of this 3-year-old. CURACAO has two brilliant Bowie races to his credit, but must beat the top one. The 2-year-old BAND WAGON is the dangerous one.

SIXTH RACE—WALTER H. failed to follow through the last time out, but I'm tossing that race away. This one was shipped from New York to win a race in Maryland. This may be the one. POLAR BRUSH had no chance last out, being practically left. DAUDET is the lively third party.

SEVENTH RACE—WARD IN CHANCERY has been a long time time repeating that winning effort at Havre de Grace. He is among his kind here and I look for a successful comeback. MASTER STROKE closed a lot of ground the last time and I like him better than the unlucky MY FERGUS.

Former Trainer Buys Mc I Win for $6,700

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.)—After proclaiming Mc I Win the greatest horse he had ever trained and driven, Dr. H. M. Parshall, of Urbana, Ohio, today stepped into the Old Glory auction ring and bid $6,700 for the world's champion 3-year-old pacer.

Although changing owners, Mc I Win returned to the same stable as he was trained for his brilliant career by the 33-year-old Ohio reinsman, who has been the leading driver of the light-harness horse sport for the last five years. As a 2-year-old the son of Mr. McElwyn won six of his seven starts and this year led his rivals home in fifteen of his sixteen races.

COURTNEY IN DRAW.

Philadelphia, Nov. 24 (A.P.)—Cowboy George Courtney, of Oklahoma, and Vince Forgione, Philadelphia middleweight, fought an eight-round draw in the feature bout of a boxing card here today.

The Philadelphian dropped Courtney to the floor for a short count in the third round with a right hook to the jaw.

COLONIALS BEAT GRILLMEN.

The ever-mounting winning streak of Richards' Colonials was increased by one last night at the expense of the Olmsted Grill five. The final score was 23-22. Action was at a fast pace from start to finish and Olmsted, after trailing at the half, rallied to assume the lead in the second half, only to be nosed out when Kidwell eased a long shot through the cords in the final minute of play.

Whipper Cracker Winner As Jefferson Park Opens

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24 (A.P.)—Five thousand racing fans pretended not to notice the weather today as they turned out in a raw November rain to celebrate the Thanksgiving Day opening of Jefferson Park's 51-day winter meeting at Shrewsbury.

The $1,500 Thanksgiving Handicap, feature of the inaugural card, went to Benny Creech's Whipper Cracker, who led a field of six thoroughbreds over the mile and a sixteenth of muddy track in 1:50 2-5, beating Impish by a nose. Predict finished third, and Pigeon Hole, whose summer victories in Chicago had established him as the favorite, came fourth. Rip Van Winkle and My Dan also ran, in that order. The race was worth $860 to the winner.

Not heavily backed in the betting, Whipper Cracker paid on $2 mutuel certificates $9.80 to win, $4.20 place, and $3.80 show. Impish returned $3.40 to place and $3.00 show and Predict $3.40 show.

Nebraska Keeps Title, Beating Missouri, 21-6

Lincoln, Nebr., Nov. 24 (A.P.)—The Nebraska Cornhuskers repulsed a valiant Missouri drive and, with the aid of sparkling offensive work by diminutive Chris Mathias, defeated the Missouri Tigers, 21 to 6, today to keep the Nebraska Big Six Conference football slate clean.

The Huskers won the championship for the second consecutive year by downing Oklahoma, 5 to 0, last Saturday. The victory today gave Nebraska a record for no conference defeats. The 17,000 spectators saw six Huskers in their last home battle.

Mathia, "rabbit" back, was the mainspring of the fourth quarter offensive which boosted Nebraska from its one point advantage, 7-6, gained in the first half. He made one touchdown. His long runs helped inspire his mates.

K. C. 115-Pound Five Beats Baltimoreans

A 55-game winning streak that extended over a period of three years was broken yesterday by the Knights of Columbus 115-pound basket ball team when it defeated the Easterbrook Boys Club, of Baltimore, 30-27, in a hard-fought game played at the K. of C. gym. "Pudge" Hodgkins starred for the locals, netting the ball for five field goals and a charity toss. Harry Davis, elusive Easterbrook forward, was best for his team, scoring nine points. A large crowd witnessed the game.

Fullam Promises Burns Busy Night

Will Show More Speed and Punch Monday, Says Former C. U. Star.

"I'll be punching harder and stepping faster than was the case two weeks ago when I fight 'K. O.' Burns at Portner Arena Monday night."

Such was the promise made District ringworms by Frank Fuliam yesterday as he continued work for his impending semifinal appearance of eight scheduled rounds.

Burns, Baltimore redhead, meets Fullam, former Catholic University boxing favorite, in a main supporting feature to the Eddie Burl-Benny Schwartz fistic barrage.

Though decisively outboxing Sam Britt in his Portner debut recently, Fullam appeared a bit rusty, four months of inactivity having dulled his fighting machinery.

"All I need is plenty of work and Frank Mann has promised it to me," chirps Fullam. "Given my chance I'll fool plenty of the tough ones."

In a main preliminary of six Sam Finazzo, Baltimore, engages Walter Kirkwood. Other shorts are being closed.

HESSICK ELEVEN COPS.

Christensen's plunge off-tackle in the third period, after his team had made an uninterrupted march from midfield, enabled the Hessick 135-pound gridmen to defeat the Griffith Blue Coals, 6-0, in a hotly contested game yesterday. Armentrout and Lane played well on the defense for the winners. For games with the Hessick team call Potomac 1353. St. Stephen's is especially desirable as a foe.

TECH ELEVEN TROUNCES FIVES

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 24. McKinley High School, of Washington, registered a 19-to-0 victory over the Fives, senior team of the Charlottesville School for Boys, on Lambeth Field this morning. The contest was hard fought throughout and the tackling of both teams was of a high order.

Tech pushed over its first touchdown near the close of the first quarter, when Brenkman shot a pass to Meiklejohn, who raced 20 yards to score.

Gormley Snares Pass In Third.

Honors were even in the second quarter, but in the third period Gormley intercepted a pass and scampered 25 yards across the Fives' goal line.

Tech exhibited a great drive in the final period and marched steadily down the field to register its final touchdown, Gormley dashed through center for the score.

Texas Aggie Eleven Bows to Texas U., 21-0

Austin, Tex., Nov. 24 (A.P.)—The traditional thirty-ninth annual football struggle between Texas A. and M. and the University of Texas ended just like all the affairs between these two teams when played here—a victory for the Longhorns.

Today it was a 21-to-0 decision the Longhorns gained, thanks to a second period in which John Hilliard and Harrison Stafford scored three touchdowns. Never did the Aggies seriously threaten the Longhorns' goal.

Hilliard, the fleet Texas ball carrier, furnished the long runs; Ernest Koy, giant full back, the ramming power, and, coupled with a Texas line that was alert and equal to all occasions, the Longhorns enjoyed a grand finale on their present season race that at least won them a tie for second place in the Southwest Conference.

RICHMOND DEFEATS W. & M., 18 TO 7, TO LEAD CONFERENCE

Chatlain Pushes Over His Team's Three Touchdowns.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Fighting with power hitherto undisplayed this season, an inspired University of Richmond eleven snatched the Virginia Conference championship title from William and Mary with an 18-to-7 victory over the Indians here today.

It was the forty-seventh renewal of the gridiron battle between these elevens, and it was the second consecutive time the Spiders have toppled the Indians out of the championship.

Richmond deserved its victory. It outplayed William and Mary in every period, and in every department of the game, except kicking.

The Indians' kicking was responsible for its lone touchdown, with three minutes to play in the second period. Shade's long rolling punt touched Doley as he dived under Meade to cover it on the goal line. It bounded away, and Meade pounced upon it. Meade kicked the extra point.

It was a great game for the Spiders, who bewildered their ancient rivals with a diversified attack, and featured a defensive drive throughout. They took the lead early in the first period when Essex took a 30-yard pass from Dobson, to be downed on his 8-yard line. Shulz hit the line for 2. With the opening of the second quarter, Leverton, on a spinner play that was deadly to the Indians throughout the game, took two more, and Turkey Chaltain, who spelled defeat for V. M. I., crashed headlong over the line pile for the remaining 6 yards.

Try for Point Blocked.

Joyce's try for the extra point was blocked.

The second period was fatal for the Indians, and Richmond would not be stopped. For the moment, the Warriors were demoralized. Richmond kicked off. The Indians failed to gain. Halligan kicked to Richmond's 45-yard line. Dobson a moment later shot another long pass to Leverton. It was good for 23 yards, putting the ball 31 yards from the William and Mary goal. Momentarily the Indians held in tight play. It was Chaltain who scored the second touchdown with a beautiful broken field run through the entire Indian team.

A line buck for the extra point failed.

With less than 5 minutes to play the Indians made their touchdown on the fluke bobble. Apparently with new life they tried vainly to score again with a mighty passing attack, but the half overtook them scarcely past midfield.

Richmond held its advantage in the third period play that featured a 25-yard run by Dobson.

Chaltain Makes Score Again.

The final Richmond touchdown came in the last quarter, again at the hands of Chaltain. It followed two long runs by Dobson, and then the versatile quarter back, son of the Richmond coach, heaved a magnificent pass through a huddle of Indians to Leverton, who snatched it from the air, turning head over heels several times before coming to a stop on the 5-yard line. Three line bucks failed, and Chaltain took the pass from center and with a waist-high leap dived over the pile and the goal line.

The try for the extra point was blocked.

The game, especially the first half, was filled with thrills. Leverton's catch of Dobson's great pass brought the 12,000 or more spectators to their feet. Dobson was no respector of persons on his sweeping end runs. Most of them were around Capt. Halligan's end, while his teammates kept the Indian captain bottled up almost throughout his last game, which was played with an attack of jaundice.

For the Indians Charlie Shade, the little Indian quarter back, led the attack. His full back, Spack, backed up the line and played a great defensive game, frequently smearing the fast and mystifying Richmond tricks, and breaking through almost perfect interference that accompanied the Spider backs. Stewart and Quick, for the Indians, and Slaydon, Strong and Sanford, for Richmond, were the line stalwarts.

Lane High Eleven Wins From Wash.-Lee, 20 to 0

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 24.—Defeating Washington-Lee High, of Ballston, here this morning, 20 to 0, Lane High, of this city, finished its season with a clean slate.

The first half of today's game was hard fought. Lane registered a touchdown early in the first quarter. Here the visitors braced and once in the second period had the ball on Lane's 8-yard line, where it was lost on downs.

Taylor scored Lane's touchdown in the third quarter on a dash through center, and in the final period Jones shot a pass to Weible for the final score. Taylor's placement was good for the extra point.

Although playing four teams outside of class B, Lane has been scored on only twice this season, a touchdown by Culpeper High and a safety by Virginia Episcopal. Lynchburg-Lane has registered a total of 178 points.

Frank Merriwell Ending Wins for Randolph-Macon

Special to The Washington Post.

FRONT ROYAL, Va., Nov. 24.—Randolph-Macon Academy, of Front Royal, closed its football season today with the most colorful victory of many years over Shenandoah Valley Academy, of Winchester, by the score of 7 to 0. The game was almost a prototype of that of Frank Merriwell's. Lyle McFall, the diminutive half back, of Randolph-Macon Academy, intercepted a S. V.-A. pass on his own 15-yard line and raced 85 yards to score the winning touchdown in the last 30 seconds of play.

The visitors played in Randolph-Macon territory during the most of the first half and netted many first downs on straight football. The center of the winners' line was pierced time and again on spinner plays, but Shenandoah lost opportunities to score due to bad passes from center.

The second half proved to be a reversal of the first as the winners kept the ball in the enemy's territory most of the time and lost a golden opportunity to score when Shenandoah broke up a pass which fell in the end zone. The winners were heads up and took advantage of every miscue on the part of the visitors. The defensive work of Heltmuller, Zimmerman, Humphreys and McFall were spectacular and the running of the whole of S. V. A. back field was worthy of mention.

PIVOT PLAYS ON COURT ARE HIT

1932-33 Rules Aim for Speed; Officials to Be Busy.

THE pivot play, one of the preeminent plays in basket ball, is likely to suffer this year from the new rules which go into effect for the 1932-33 season. The old play, which utilized the tall and lanky center standing on the foul toss line and, with his back to the basket waiting for an opening to pass the ball to one of his forwards, will have to be speeded up tremendously or discarded because one of the new rules prohibits the holding of a ball more than three seconds.

Other new departures in the government of basket ball will see a line painted across the middle of the court. It will be a technical foul for a team to pass the ball back over the line, after bringing it up the floor.

Extra work for officials looms as a certainty. The official must not only watch his customary precincts, but as a result of the new rules, has become a glorified time-keeper.

Excerpts from the new rules follow:

Rule 14, Section 12.—When a player has possession of the ball in his free throw lane with his back toward his basket, he must get the ball outside the lane within three seconds. The three-second limit applies even though he turns toward the basket. In other words, the three-second count starts as soon as he takes the position described, and continues as long as he is in the free throw position regardless of whether he is facing the basket during part of the count. This ruling was made by the executive committee of the Joint Basket Ball Rules Committee October 24, and cancels previous interpretations concerning this rule.

Rule 5, Section 8—Failure to comply with the provisions of the ten-second rule is a violation, involving loss of ball to the opponents. At what point out of bounds is the ball awarded? If team A fails to get the ball out of its back court within ten seconds, the ball is awarded to team B out of bounds on the side opposite the point where it is when the official's whistle blows to call the violation. If team A, having advanced the ball to its front court, returns the ball to its back court illegally, the violation occurs when the ball passes the center line and therefore the ball is awarded out of bounds at one end of the center line. The whistle should not be blown, however, until the ball is touched in the back court by team A, because if it is first touched by team B it continues in play and the violation is disregarded. When the ball is passed back over the center line illegally by team A and then goes out of bounds in team A's back court without touching any player, team A has committed two violations. In this case, the ball would be awarded to team B where it went out of bounds unless team B prefers to have the ball at mid-court. In other words, team B has an option.

HAWKS PLAY FRATERS ON SUNDAY

Battle Due at Park; D. C. Title Race Is Muddled.

THE District "championship" will remain in somewhat of a muddle this season unless a field other than Griffith Stadium can be obtained for games after December 4. The management of the ball park has announced that after that date the stadium will be closed to football for the year to begin work on the turf for the next baseball campaign.

Sunday, the Mohawks are scheduled to play the Fraters, boy wonders of Alexandria, and some pumpkins in their home town, according to Jack Tulloch, sports editor of the Alexandria Gazette. The following week the Hawks stack up against the Marions, Independent League champions. Then the Indians journey over to Baltimore, where they will close their season against the Irvington gridmen.

Celtics Claim Hawks' Title.

St. Mary's Celtics, no less than the old Apaches of last season working under another name, battled the Hawks twice, winning the first game, 12-6, and losing the second, 6-0, and pointing to this record, they claim the title. The Marions, who cleaned up everything on the sandlots, also have placed a bid for the title. This can be nullified if the Hawks trim their Southeast rivals two weeks hence, but that St. Mary's claim can not be overlooked.

Some talk of unearthing the Apache name and swearing in eleven men to do or die by it for the District crown was heard last week, but the plan vanished when it was learned that many of the boys lined up had seen service with both the Celtics and Senators. The latter, by the way, is the only team not claiming the title.

The Hawks are proceeding with their preparations for the Frater game and then on to the Marions. If the Marions should win, which is not impossible, they will have a clear claim to the honors, but, if they lose, it is up to Artie Wondrack's Indians and St. Mary's. With no field available it looks like a dead heat.

U. S. Netmen Win On Australia Courts

Brisbane, Australia, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The United States touring tennis team got away to a flying start in its series against Australia today, winning the first three singles matches. The only doubles match was halted with the score one set all.

Keith Gledhill defeated Cliff Sproule, 6—4, 6—4; Wilmer Allison won from E. F. Moon, 12—10, 6—1, and John Van Ryn defeated Vivian McGrath, the Australian 16-year-old, 6—3, 5—7, 6—3.

Gledhill and Ellsworth Vines, jr., leader of the American team, won the first set from Moon and Sproule, 6—4, but lost the second, 1—6, and were five games all in the third when darkness caused postponement until tomorrow.

N. Y. U. RALLY WINS FROM CARNEGIE

Violets Do All Scoring in Last Period to Cop, 13-6.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—A New York University Football Team which had failed to live up to its early season promise came to life against Carnegie Tech in the final quarter of their seventh annual game today, scored two touchdowns and closed out its season in a blaze of glory and a 13-6 victory.

The red clad warriors from Pittsburgh had pushed the New York University huskies all over the turf of Yankee Stadium for three quarters and appeared to have the game safely in hand as the final quarter began. But the Violets, many of whom were playing their final game, attacked with a force that was not to be denied and marched 80 and 55 yards for touchdowns.

Aerial Barrage Ends Scoring Marches.

Both scoring marches ended in a successful aerial barrage, Jim Tanguay tossing to M. White for the first score and flipping the ball to Bob McNamara for the second. White took the ball over the goal line while McNamara butted his way through the last Tech defender from the 5-yard line to clinch the victory.

Tech's score came early in the third period, with H. Coulter, hard-running Skibo half back, carrying the ball around end from the 1-yard line after a 40-yard advance following a weak punt by McNamara. Colin Stewart missed the try for point but at that period it did not appear vitally important as Tech had held the upper hand throughout the first half and appeared definitely the stronger team. Once the N. Y. U. attack was underway, however, the visitors seemed unable to stop it and a stream of substitutes, sent in during the progress of both scoring marches, appeared only to further disorganize the Tech defense.

After the second N. Y. U. touchdown and with only a minute left to play Tech came fighting back to carry the ball for three straight first downs to the Violets' 32-yard line but the final gun ended their gallant gesture.

Carnegie Has Edge In All But Touchdowns.

Tech outrushed New York 256 yards to 161, made 14 first downs to 13 for the Violets and 53 yards by passes to 55 for N. Y. U. Four of their 15 passes attempted were intercepted, however, two of them when Tech seemed well on the way to a touchdown and fumbles and poor protection for the passer several times cost them valuable ground in Violet territory. They were within the N. Y. U. 30-yard line three times, once being held for downs on the Violet 10.

A crowd of 30,000 watched the game under almost perfect conditions of wind and weather, a warm sun having dispelled early-morning clouds and dried a rain-soaked field.

WEST COAST HONORS TO TROJANS

S. California Defeats Washington U. in 9-6 Thriller.

WASHINGTON STADIUM, Seattle, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Squeezing out a slim but sparkling 9-to-6 victory over a stubborn band of Washington Huskies on a mud covered gridiron today, Southern California Trojans finished their 1932 Pacific Coast Conference season undefeated.

The margin of victory came when Cal Clemens, a substitute half back, dropped back in the second period to Washington's 19-yard line and sent a spectacular place kick from a sharp angle between the uprights of the Husky goal posts.

A touchdown early in the fourth quarter gave the southerners their seventeenth successive victory since their defeat at the hands of St. Mary's in their first contest last year.

A bad punt of the mud covered ball by Art Ahonen, Washington half back, gave the Trojans the ball on Washington's 37-yard line.

"Cotton" Warburton, substitute quarter back, cracked right tackle for 1 yard and then heaved a long pass to Ford Palmer, end, who romped to the Huskies' 8-yard line.

Line smashes shoved the whole Washington team back to permit Warburton to fall over the goal stripe for the touchdown. Robert Erskine failed to convert.

Still the battling Huskies refused to quit, and score they did—registering the second touchdown made against the Southerners in eight games so far this year. Pases and a foul penalty put the ball on the Trojan 8-yard line.

Sulkosky, giant full back, ripped off 3 yards through right tackle. Ahonen started on what appeared to be an end run. When he had nearly reached the north sidelines he jumped into the air and flung a pass into a throng of tumbling gridders. Dave Nisbet, Washington's candidate for All-America honors, hauled it into his arms and fell over the goal line to score.

Holy Cross Team Called Bum Sports

Brown Publication Demands Break in Relations on Grid.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 24 (U.P.).—Asserting that Brown University men "don't want their teams to play animals," an article in the Brown Jug, student publication, today inferentially charged that Holy Cross football players were "just bum sports and dirty players" and demanded that the Worcester college be dropped from Brown's schedule.

The publication, a humorous magazine, based its accusation on the "teeth-marked" arms of Gammino, Brown full back, and bruises on the bodies of players in the line. Holy Cross was defeated by Brown November 5, a game which was followed several days later by suspension of Head Coach Capt. John J. McEwan, of Holy Cross.

Under the caption, "Just Bum Sports," the magazine said:

"After the Holy Cross game, our athletic supervisors must see a duty to be performed immediately. Holy Cross must never be played again by a Brown football club! Why? Well, Gammino's teeth-marked arms and the red marks on the bodies of the linemen from having their skins twisted is reason enough! Brown men don't want their teams to play animals! Just bum sports and dirty players."

Chattanooga Defeated By Centre by 20 to 6

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Resorting to an aerial attack to break a 6-to-6 tie, Centre scored twice in the last period to win a 20-to-6 victory over Chattanooga today.

Hendren, brilliant broken field runner, scored the touchdowns in the closing rush on heaves from Hamilton good for 24 and 26 yards. The fray closing the season for both teams was witnessed by a crowd of 2,500.

L. S. U. Refuses to Postpone Game With Crippled Tulane

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Tulane and Louisiana State University may play their annual football game here Saturday, but if they do L. S. U. has been notified the "responsibility will be yours."

Tulane authorities today told L. S. U. that an epidemic of influenza had stricken all but 16 of the Green squad of 41, including all of the centers, most of the first-string linesmen and all of the regular back field except quarter backs.

The Greenies said there was great interest in the game. It's a tradi would not be treating the public fairly to "have a game which would degenerate into a farce" and suggested a postponement for a week.

Dr. James H. Smith, president of L. S. U., replied tonight from Baton Rouge that L. S. U. was ready to play; that alumni and supporters of the school were either on the ground or ready to start for the game; that L. S. U. was opposed to a postponement and suggested if Tulane was unable to play it cancel the game.

Federal Judge Rufus E. Foster, vice president of the Tulane Athletic Council, immediately telegraphed back, restating Tulane's suggestion that the game be postponed, but indicating that if L. S. U. insisted the Greenie substitutes would carry on and adding that if the game is played the "responsibility will be yours."

Navy B Gridmen Defeat Pitt, 14-13

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 24.—Outplayed during the first half and trailing by 6 to 0, the Naval Academy B squad gridders found themselves in the later stages of the game and flashing some brilliant offensive work, eked out a victory over the B squad of University of Pittsburgh here today, the final count being, Navy, 14; Pittsburgh, 13. The margin of victory was a point after touchdown.

Wilcox, quarter back, emerged as hero in the Navy's triumph. He scored both of his team's touchdowns, the first on a 15-yard thrust off Pitt's left tackle and the second after a 40-yard drive, during which he carried the ball in the last four plays consecutively.

The young Panthers drew first blood in the second period when they staged a 35-yard march, with a couple of short passes intermingled, Ruff finally making the score on a 4-yard plunge. Pitt rung up its second touchdown shortly after the opening of the third period, when Brown gathered in a beautiful 35-yard pass from Ruff and went over.

Shellabager drop-kicked both of Navy's extra points, while Brown place-kicked one of Pitt's.

Quantico Gives Carlisle First Defeat of Season

Quantico, Va., Nov. 24 (U.P.).—Quantico Marines defeated Carlisle Barracks, 25 to 0, on a muddy field today. Carlisle, previously undefeated this season, made only two first downs, compared with fourteen first down for Quantico.

Full Back Robinson made a touchdown in the second quarter, Quarter Back Willford scored in the second, and Farrell, left half back, crossed the line in the third and fourth quarters. Quantico made few forward passes and gained much ground with the "Statue of Liberty" play.

Newark High Star Killed in Grid Game

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Walter Cremmens, left end of the Newark East Side High School team, died today of a fractured skull in the annual football game between the Newark team and Lincoln High School.

The accident occurred in the first half when Cremmens had succeeded in making a first down for his team. He collapsed after trying to regain his feet. Spectators said his head struck the knee of Fred Aughenbach, Lincoln quarter back.

Brookland Routed by Trainers, 21-0

Cochampions of the 150-pound Independent League, the Brookland Boys Club went down to defeat before the hard driving National Training School's field. It was the final game of the season for both teams.

Earlier in the season Brookland held its opponent to a scoreless tie, but it was no match for the Yellow-jackets yesterday. Training School's line opened up wide holes in Brookland's forward wall and its backs romped through for healthy gains.

Kiski broke the ice in the first period, sliding off-tackle for 10 yards and a touchdown. The same lad boosted the score another 6 points in the second period with a 20-yard end run.

Brookland rallied valiantly in the second half but made no appreciable progress and never threatened. A forward pass, Signs to Young, accounted for the third and final touchdown, but Training School was credited with an additional two points when Carter was tackled behind his own goal line after recovering a bad pass from center.

Marshall Stampedes W. Va. Wesleyan, 22-0

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The thundering herd of Marshall College stampeded over the West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcats 22 to 0 today.

Zontini, speedy little half-back for the Herd, accounted for all of the touchdowns, two of them by spectacular runs of nearly half the length of the field.

In the second period he got away through right tackle for 40 yards and a score after a series of plays had carried the ball from Marshall's 20-yard line, where a Wesleyan punt was downed. A pass across the goal line to Gill, right end, scored the extra point.

A few minutes later Zontini took a punt on Marshall's 49-yard line and raced 51 yards for another touchdown. The kick for extra point by Hunter was good.

Zontini added his third touchdown in the final period. The try for extra point failed but a few seconds later a Wesleyan punt was smothered behind the goal line for a safety.

Furman Wins, 7 to 0, On Clemson Fumble

Greenville, S. C., Nov. 24 (U.P.).—A recovered fumble in the fourth period gave Furman a 7-0 Thanksgiving victory over Clemson today. Dillard, of Clemson, fumbled and Hutt recovered for Furman on Clemson's 9-yard line. Alley got a yard in two tries and then Griffin went over. Clemson threatened in the last two minutes on a long run by Woodward.

IONA DOWNS G. U. PREPS, 14 TO 13

Crowd of 5,000 Sees Winners Ring Up 17th Straight.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Coming from behind after trailing 6 to 0 at the end of the first half, the Maroon Marauders of Iona High School of this city scored two touchdowns in the third quarter to defeat a courageous Georgetown Prep eleven at Haag Field here today, 14 to 13. A crowd of 5,000 witnessed the intersectional contest.

It was the scoring of the extra points after both touchdowns that won the game and enabled Iona to ring up its seventeenth straight victory in two years. Georgetown came back in the last quarter to score again, but the point missed after the touchdown cost the Blue and Gray the satisfaction of even a tie.

The visitors from Garrett Park completely outplayed the Ionians in the first half and scored in the second period as a result of an aerial attack. Tom Keating scored the initial touchdown after the Blue and Gray had marched from its own 41-yard line. A pass, McNamara to Keating, netted first down on the Iona 11-yard line and another, Keating to Nee, put the ball on the Marauders' 2-yard stripe, from whence Keating crashed left guard for the score. The try for point failed.

Run of 60 Yards Brings Score.

The Iona team came out for the second half and scored early. After an exchange of punts had placed the ball on the Iona 41-yard line, Capt. Joe Hoctor received the ball on a stiple reverse to gallop around left end for 60 yards and touchdown. His line buck accounted for the extra point. Lisaner, substitute right end, scored Iona's record touchdown.

Georgetown came back late in the period and Nee scored after receiving a 15-yard pass from McNamara.

Stapletons, Giants Battle to 13-13 Draw

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Stapleton played the New York Giants to a 13-13 draw in a National Professional Football League game at Stapleton, Staten Island, today.

A pass, Molenda to Flaherty, brought the Giants' first touchdown in the opening quarter, but the Stapes came back to tie the count at 7-7 when Hansen broke off tackle for 33 yards and a touchdown. The Giants marched from their own 35-yard line to score again in the second quarter, McBride going through center for the score. The try for point failed. Again Stapleton came back to deadlock the count, Wilson counting on a pass from Ken Strong. The latter missed the try for point, which would have given Stapleton the game.

Play-by-Play Story

when he took Borah's mighty kick-off a yard behind his goal line and streaked 51 yards to midfield, where Ab Walker tackled him just when he seemed to be certain to complete the greatest run seen in Washington in a generation. Dunlap peremptorily stopped the G. W. attack by intercepting Johnny's pass on the next play, but the Sooner backs could go no place and Dunlap kicked to Fenlon on the G. W. 10-yard line. Kriemelmeyer kicked back, but Dunlap wriggled to the midfield, and then to G. W.'s 43-yard line, from which point he shot a tremendous 30-yard pass to Walker who was off like a shot. Fenlon bumped him out on the 8-yard line.

Hickman stopped Sims. Kriemelmeyer threw Sims for a 2-yard loss. Dunlap took a pass from center, faded back and back and then let fly. Galloway intercepted for G. W. Fenlon injured a nerve in his shoulder and was helped off the field. Immediately the G. W. team seemed to lose its cohesiveness. On the very next play Kriemelmeyer fumbled and in less than a minute Oklahoma had a touchdown, when Johnny Baker let Cherry get around him to take a fireball pass from Dunlap. Dunlap's kick was great.

FOURTH QUARTER.

It was anybody's ball game. Oklahoma forged to G. W.'s 20-yard line, and aided by a 5-yard penalty went to the 15-yard line, brought to that point mostly by a lethal pass from Dunlap to Walker. Hardy Pearce broke through to smear Dunlap for a 7-yard loss, and then little Frank Blackistone intercepted a Dunlap pass on his 25-yard line and got back to the 28, at which point Johnny Fenlon came back in the game to receive the greatest ovation perhaps ever accorded a local football player.

Instantly G. W. was on its toes. Fenlon fired a bullet-like over-the-line pass to Chambers for a 15-yard gain. G. W. was in midfield in a second. Baker, given marvellous interference by Stewart, hit left tackle twice for gains to the 33-yard line. Doose and Fenlon got it to the 25-yard line, and Baker struggled over to a first down on the 22-yard line. Fenlon took it around end to the 19, where the Oklahoma line refused to budge. Johnny Baker attempted a field goal, but it was wide. There were four minutes left of the game.

It was G. W. that was hammering for a goal as the game ended. Fenlon had passed and bucked his team to midfield, and Doose had made a first down on the 40-yard line. The game ended on one of the most sensational plays of the tussle, when Art Pansze attempted to bat down a 30-yard pass from Fenlon to McCarver, and saw to his dismay the ball go up in the air and be speared by McCarver on the 20-yard line. But Pansze wheeled around and made the tackle, and the whistle called an end to one of the greatest football games ever played in Washington.

ARMY GOES INTO HIDING FOR NOTRE DAME TILT TOMORROW

Students Give Players Big Send-Off

Squad Will Remain at Lodge Until Just Before Game.

Pitt, Stanford Hold Drills for Contest in Pittsburgh.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The Army football team broke camp here this afternoon and left for Briar Cliff Lodge, in Westchester County, where it will remain in seclusion until an hour or two before it takes the field in the Yankee Stadium on Saturday for its annual game with Notre Dame.

Forty players made up the Army squad and the party included in addition Maj. Ralph Sasse, head coach, several of his assistants, the team trainer and physician and the manager.

The departure of the team came as the culmination of a big demonstration by the cadets which paraded through the barracks areas behind the academy band and gave the team a rousing send-off as the players boarded two buses at the entrance of the gymnasium. Huge signs urging the team on to victory over Notre Dame hung from cadet windows in all the barracks and many of the future officers were minus bed sheets tonight as the squares of linen flapped in the breeze.

The Army varsity players went through a final drill on the plains this afternoon with time being divided between offensive and defensive practice.

There was no heavy scrimmaging, but the entire varsity squad divided into three elevens had a long dummy scrimmage with scrub elevens.

Maj. Ralph Sasse said no definite line-up for Saturday's game had been decided upon, but it is understood there will be few, if any, changes from Army's recent starting line-ups. Lawlor and Kopcsak will probably be the ends; Lincoln and Armstrong, tackles; Summerfelt and Jablonsky, guards; Evans, center; Vidal, quarter back; Fields and Brown, half backs, and Kilday, full back.

Pitt and Stanford
In Practice.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—From their hide-out in the country, the Pitt Panthers slipped back to their stadium today for a long dummy scrimmage against Stanford plays, as executed by a makeshift team of substitutes.

Meanwhile, Pop Warner's coast eleven had a practice drill on the field of suburban Shadyside Academy, where the team is quartered. The teams clash Saturday in Pitt Stadium.

Pitt's varsity, whose return was a surprise after having moved out to a secret, quiet place last night, had plenty of trouble in scrimmage trying to locate the eventual ball carrier in Warner's new shift. It has the whole team jumping around before the ball is snapped.

Capt. Paul Reider was not in his uniform and Coach Sutherland groomed both Mike Sebastian and Dick Matesic for the right half back post. Capt. Reider was hurt in the Carnegie Tech game.

Both Stanford and Pitt elevens were guests this afternoon at the Duquesne-Geneva College game.

Brovelli Inspiration As St. Mary's Wins, 7-0

Kezar Stadium, San Francisco, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Led by a charging full back, whose second-half appearance in the line-up transformed a battered squad into a fighting, yard-gaining eleven, St. Mary's Gaels galloped to a 7-0 victory today over the University of Oregon, while 20,000 fans cheered.

Angel Brovelli, "bad boy" of the St. Mary's Team, was given a chance to make amends for recent infractions of training rules and made good in a way that proved disastrous for Oregon.

Coming into the game as the third period opened, Brovelli proved the sparkplug in the attack that enabled the Gaels to turn back their Northern rivals for the fourth successive year. The touchdown-scoring honor went to George Canrinus, end, who caught a pass from Charley Baird, left half, over the goal line. Carl Jorgensen place-kicked accurately on the try for extra point.

0-0 Tie Mars Record Of Centenary Gridmen

Shreveport, La., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Rain and mud cost the Centenary College Gentlemen a perfect gridiron season record today when they played to a scoreless tie with the University of Arkansas Razorbacks. Footing was uncertain throughout the game.

It was the closing contest of the season for both teams, and marked the only time in nine events this fall that Centenary had failed to come out on top.

In the opening quarter Centenary marched from its own 25-yard line to Arkansas 6-inch line, where it was held for downs.

served for the third quarter. Late in the period Maryland struck twice, and routed a team which had fought it on nearly even terms. First Widmyer broke loose. The scene was set for his flashy run, the longest of the day, by Poppelman's run back of a punt 15 yards and a 16-yard gallop by the same back to Hopkins' 48-yard marker. Here Widmyer was given the ball on a wide end run and his speed carried him clear of pursuit to the goal line.

Woods Goes Over
For Touchdown.

Hardly had the Old Line crowd settled into comfort again after Widmyer kicked his second extra point and trotted to the bench to view the test as a spectator while Tiernan took over his duties, when Maryland scored again. Two plays after the kick-off, received by Hopkins, Beeler passed from his own 19-yard line. The ball was intercepted by Poppelman, who ran toward the corner, only to be pushed out of bounds a yard from the goal line by Bill Triplett, Hopkins guard. On the next play Woods plunged over and then Keenan kicked the extra point.

Johnny Fenlon Is Lauded By Oklahoma U. Coaches

'Greatest Ball-Carrier Sooners Have Faced,' Say Mentors; Visitors' Trick Play Almost Costs Colonials Decision.

"THE greatest ball carrier we have played against this year," is the tribute handed to Johnny Fenlon by Ben Owen and Lew Hardage, coaches of the Oklahoma team in the dressing room after the game. And that includes two all-American candidates: Sauer, of Nebraska, and Hillyard, of Texas.

Not since the bloody Georgetown-Holy Cross game of 1922 has a play been pulled that paralleled a trick Oklahoma tried—and failed at—on the second-to-last play of the first half yesterday. The ball was down on G. W.'s 4-yard line. Two plays had been broken up by the steel-ribbed G. W. line. Then Fleetwood, big Oklahoma center, got over the ball. A couple of signals were called, when suddenly he stood up, turned his back on the G. W. Team and started to walk back to his backfield men, as if protesting the play they called.

Like a flash Bashara, Oklahoma guard, reached over and snapped the ball back. The Oklahoma backs formed in a wedge and hit the G. W. line with terrifying force, but as they hit the line, two Colonials, one of them bald-headed little Zuzu Stewart and the other 220-pound Hardy Pearce, shot through and stopped the ball carrier just 1 yard from a touchdown.

The expensive bomb G. W. bought to shoot a banner labeled "Welcome Oklahoma" into the sky, possessed too much bomb and too little banner. It blew a hole in the parachute which was supposed to let the banner down easy, and the get-up came down like a shot to land in some Harlem backyard.

Nig McCarver never seemed able to get started. He had stolen a lot of thunder from Johnny Fenlon since the Alabama game, but Fenlon got it all back yesterday, with a couple of cloudbursts to spare.

Fenlon suffered a nerve injury in his shoulder in the third period, when he was taken out. It seemed to take the cement out of the G. W. team. And when the bottle-legged little man from Cheboygan, Mich., came back in the game in the fourth quarter, he received perhaps the greatest ovation seen here in several years. The stands went wild when he made good on his first play, after coming back in, by firing a 15-yard pass to Wayne Chambers.

It was the swan song for Fenlon, Joe Carter, Otts Kriemelmeyer, Wayne Chambers (captain), Walter Slaird, Bob Galloway, Ras Nielson, Wally Wilson, Frank Blackistone and Fred Mulvey. All of them want to be coaches. There's a rumor that Fenlon will come back to G. W. as an assistant coach.

The famous Pansze boys, Art and Bill, were pretty well bunged up. Bill did not get in the game. Art played about one quarter and, even though one of his hands was in a cast, he showed flashes of greatness. Red Young, mentioned as an All-America center last year and this year, couldn't talk. He contracted tonsillitis after Wednesday's practice.

The stunts during the half also ended in a tie.

Oklahoma had an edge in the loudness of its band, and the better delineation of G. W. and O. U.

But G. W. came back with three coeds that evened matters. The three girls marched on the field with a huge bunch of 'mums and presented them to Capt. Edsel Curnutt, Oklahoma's left end, in midfield. He was blushing to the roots as he brought the flowers to the littered Oklahoma bench, where they had a terrible time finding what to do with them.

G. W. blossomed out with seven cheer leaders, including the perennial sophomore, Jerry Sickler, who is running a neck-and-neck race with Dean Wilbur for retirement-with-full-pay honors.

Oklahoma's half-pint cheer leader was the son of one of the coaches.

There's no rest for the weary in modern college athletics. The Colonial Basket Ball Team starts practice today. Fenlon, Mulvey and Chambers are regulars.

Statistics of Game

The statistics chart on yesterday's big intersectional football game at Griffith Stadium show a number of surprises. The Colonials outrushed Oklahoma by a huge margin of 123½ yards, and scored 15 first downs to the Sooners' 9.

The kicking duel between Otts Kriemelmyer and Bob Dunlap was spectacular. Dunlap booted the ball, all told, 1,356 feet in nine attempts, average 50 yards a kick. Two of his boots traveled 70 yards.

The sure-handedness of Oklahoma's pass receivers is shown in the data on forward passes.

football map, but Brackett's long runs had demoralized a game Kentucky team and the Tennessee second-stringers soon were pounding away at the Wildcats' goal.

Kentucky stopped them on the 12-yard line, but they came back, after getting the next punt on Kentucky's 41-yard line. Middleton and "Leo the Lion" Petruzze slashed the Kentucky line into ribbons and in the seven plays placed the ball on the 2-yard line. Harvey Robinson then went off Kentucky's left tackle for the fourth touchdown.

Tennessee's first touchdown in the second period resulted from a pass intercepted by Sheriff Maples. Tennessee center. He plucked one of Johnson's passes out of the air and ran 37 yards to Kentucky's 14-yard line before he was pulled down. Middleton made only a yard in two attempts, but Feathers smashed through for eight. And then Pug Vaughn stepped off the last 6 yards for the first score.

Texas Christian-Auburn Game Looms in South

Forth Worth, Tex., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—A football game pitting Texas Christian University's mighty team against the leader of the Southern Conference was under consideration today with the view of determining the collegiate champion of the entire South.

Under tentative plans, it was considered likely that the T. C. U. Horned Frogs, heirs apparent to the Southwest Conference title, might meet the ranking Southern aggregation in New Orleans, either December 10 or 17. Texas Christian was reported to be favorably inclined toward accepting New Orleans' invitation to play for the Dixie championship there.

Auburn is the leading contender for the Southern Conference title. Indications were that the Plainsmen would be willing to meet the Texas Christian team if they come through undefeated.

slightly outgaining Martin, Burnette and Woollen who did the kicking for North Carolina.

An entirely new Carolina Team, with the exception of Underwood, at center, went in after the Virginia touchdown.

Phipps, at full back, broke into the monotony of the punting duel by passing 17 yards to Brandt, but Wager and Reiss broke up the drive by spilling the Tarheil backs for an 8-yard loss in two plays.

The kicking duel continued throughout the second period, Daniel and Burnette carrying the brunt of the Carolina effort at a running offense. Neither team could get even a start toward a drive into the other's territory.

Second Touchdown
Made in Third.

Virginia's second touchdown came at the opening of the third period. Chandler brought one of Johnson's long punts back to Carolina's 38, Daniel knifed through for 7 yards inside left end, but Condon spilled Phipps for a 4-yard loss. Martin dropped back to kick and Capt. Lewis Reiss broke through and blocked the punt, Gene Wager recovering on Carolina's 24-yard line.

Sippley slipped through for 2 and passed to Johnson for 7 more yards. Berger bucked 2 yards for the first down.

Sippley crashed through left guard for 6, Stevens and Johnson made 3 yards in two plays and Berger made it first down on the 3-yard line.

Stevens was stopped without gain but on the next play Berger went over for a touchdown and Condon kicked goal.

Virginia kicked off and Bill Croom trotted out to take his place at fullback. On the first play he was given the ball and brought the crowd to its feet with his run down the field for the Carolina touchdown.

The Tarheel line began charging hard and rushing Virginia's punters, cutting down the yardage of long kicks. Johnson was thrown for a 12-yard loss on one effort to punt and Sippley took over the assignment.

Carolina Forced To Kick.

A short punt by Sippley gave Carolina the ball in midfield at the end of the third period and on the opening play of the fourth Croom missed a pass which Phipps tossed into his arms.

Croom shot 8 yards off right tackle on the next play, but Virginia stopped the running attack and Burnette kicked.

The Tarheels kept Virginia largely on the defensive against the aerial threat during the remainder of the game, drawing frequent penalties for incompleted passes as Virginia backs knocked them down.

One of Burnett's punts stopped on Virginia's 3-yard line. Johnson, seeking to punt, was almost thrown behind the line of scrimmage, but darted out 9 yards.

Near the end of the game Croom shot a short pass to Woollen, who caught it over the center of the line and ran 20 yards before Johnson ran him out of bounds, tackling at the sidelines.

Virginia registered eight first downs to four for Carolina, and gained 153 yards from scrimmage to 133 by the Tarheels.

Among Virginia supporters was Dr. William A. Lambeth, who saw the first Carolina-Virginia game in 1892, and who has not missed one since. He long acted as chairman of Virginia's athletic committee, was for many years a member of the national gridiron rules committee and started a movement for organization of the Southern Conference.

Colgate Awaiting Rose Bowl Chance

"Will Be Glad to Consider Invitation," Says Coach of Unbeaten Team.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Colgate "will be glad to consider an invitation" to meet a Western team in the annual New Year's classic at the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Head Coach Andy Kerr told the Associated Press today after his team's decisive victory over Brown.

Kerr, who learned his football under Glenn S. (Pop) Warner and teaches the Warner system to play, praised his team's performance, but also paid tribute to "Brown's great defense."

"We haven't given any real thought to the Rose Bowl until now," said Kerr. "This was our big climax and the only thought our boys had was to beat Brown. They got a big thrill out of keeping their goal line uncrossed and so did I.

"This team's record is the best of any I have ever coached. I can't recall a team that has finished its season unscored on, in major competition, since that great Pittsburgh outfit of 1910."

Los Angeles, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—By winning the Pacific Coast Conference championship today the University of Southern California virtually is assured of defending the honors of the Far West in the annual Rose Bowl tournament game at Pasadena, January 2.

Southern California has appeared in three Rose Bowl tournament games, winning all of them. Syracuse, Pittsburgh and Tulane were the victims. The Trojans beat Tulane this year.

Detroit Is Winner Over Oregon State

Turns Back Westerners by 14 to 6 Score Before 12,000 Fans.

Detroit, Nov. 24 (U.P.).—The University of Detroit evened accounts with Oregon State here this afternoon before a Thanksgiving Day crowd of 12,000, turning back the sturdy Western eleven, 14 to 6.

The victory was especially sweet to Detroit, for it was Oregon State that ended the Titans' long winning streak in 1929.

Passing brought the Detroit victory. Both touchdowns came on passes, with Young on the receiving end in both instances. Douglass Nott's 50-yard pass over the goal line scored the second touchdown. The first came on a short toss by Marsh, also over the goal line.

Eubank's Dropkick Wins for Wash. State

Olympic Stadium, Los Angeles, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—A California lad who wandered to Northern fields to gain his gridiron laurels, John Eubank, kicked a field goal from the 40-yard line in the last second of play to give Washington State a 3-to-0 victory over the University of California at Los Angeles here today.

Thirty-five thousand persons watched as the Bruins were rudely pushed from the Pacific Coast Conference race in the dramatic finish after the teams battled on even terms through three periods.

But Kellett still had his passing hand. He threw one to Ed Lewis, another to Hemeon, a third to Perina, for a total of 32 yards. Perina's plunge took the ball to the 2-yard mark and Kellett, shifting to an end, pulled the old end around play and went across the goal alone as the Cornell backs watched for a pass.

Kellett missed the kick for the point. He made the try after Penn's first touchdown. Jack Ferraro kicked Cornell's extra point.

off in the second half, but Howard recovered the ball on her 30-yard line and Ware passed to Hall for 19 yards of gain through a broken field with superior interference.

Hall then kicked to DesVerney, who was held on Lincoln's 14-yard line, and intercepted DesVerney's first southpaw pass, running the ball back to the enemy 15-yard line. The next play, which featured the game, was a lateral pass, Hall to Johnson to Hall to Ware, for the second touchdown. The kick for extra point was blocked.

A spectacular final quarter provided thrills when Ware intercepted a DesVerney pass and ran 40 yards through a broken field, only to fumble on the Lincoln 30-yard line, and when DesVerney skirted Howard's left end, apparently with a clear field ahead, but was brought down by Hall on a flying tackle through interference.

Howard attempted 19 passes, completing 4, while Lincoln attempted 12, completing 2. Hall punted 239 for an average of 29 yards, while Johnson punted 324 for an average of 30 yards. Howard gained 246 yards in scrimmage to Lincoln's 100, and lost 12 yards to Lincoln's 2.

CARDS HOSTS TO LOYOLA TOMORROW

Whelan Expected to Star in C. U. Final in Stadium.

THIRTY virile young men sat in a body watching yesterday's football game between George Washington and Oklahoma and made mental notes on what they were going to do tomorrow when, garbed in the dashing red uniforms of Catholic University, they meet Loyola College at Griffith Stadium in C. U.'s last game of the victorious year.

For seven of the young men yesterday's appearance as civilians in the stands was a taste of what they may be subjected to after tomorrow, for seven of them will be playing their last collegiate contest. All of them are regulars and have long since carved deep names for themselves in Catholic University's football history. They were Tommy Whelan, Capt. Buster Sheary and Francis Donaher, backs, and Vincent Fraatz, Max Billinger, Bingo Flynn and Jack Stapleton, linemen.

They made mental notes to go out of college football in a blaze of glory, while over in Baltimore Loyola spent Turkey Day tuning up as defensive game which, it believes, will stop the cascading C. U. backs and blockers.

Biggest Game of Year
For Loyola.

It is Loyola's biggest game of the year, and it expects to make the most of it. It has been practicing night and day, and will come to Griffith Stadium with full strength aboard for the first time this season.

Loyola got off to a bad start, meeting Boston College and Villanova in quick succession, and as a result of these two games the Irish regulars have been on the injured list off and on all season, but tomorrow finds them all in good shape and rarin' to go.

A new Tommy Whelan is promised for tomorrow's game—or at least a reissue of the Tommy Whelan who ghosted local gridirons last year and the year before. The zigzagging Cardinal back has been hampered all year by numerous duties—passing, kicking and blocking—which cut down his usual running attack. Tomorrow Dutch Bergman promises to let him run loose against the big, slow and methodical Loyolans—just the kind of a foil Whelan shows his genius against.

A flareback from yesterday's great crowd of 18,000 is likely to give C. U. its biggest gallery of the year.

N. C. State Surprises By Tying S. Carolina

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—With the governors of the respective States looking on, South Carolina and North Carolina State fought to a 7-to-7 draw in their annual Thanksgiving Day football game here today.

The visiting Gamecocks, easily superior during the first half, scored shortly after the second period opened. A 51-yard march down the field was climaxed by a dive over the goal line for a touchdown by Earl Clary, the galloping ghost from Gaffney.

The Wolfpack tied the score early in the final period. Ray Rex, heavy-hitting sophomore full back, drove close to the South Carolina goal, where he fumbled. Allen Nelms, a substitute end, fell on it in the end zone, however, for a touchdown. While the first half showed South Carolina stronger, the second half presented a different picture, as the Wolfpack was on the offensive during most of the final two periods.

came when Samuel, on a triple pass, circled left end for 11 yards. Rowe's try for the extra point again was blocked.

Colgate's third and final score came after it took the ball on downs on Brown's 38-yard line. A pass from Ask to Fritts, put the ball on the 27-yard line. From this point Conroy, a substitute, passed to Bodganski, another substitute, who took the ball squarely on the goal line. Lyon's try for the extra point split the middle. The end of the game saw Colgate, thanks to an intercepted pass, standing on the enemy's 13-yard line and ready to shoot for another tally.

Brown's only bid for a touchdown came in the second period. Standing on Colgate's 47-yard line Gilmartin threw a pass that Samuel knocked down. The officials ruled interference with the receiver, and Brown was given the ball on Colgate's 34-yard line. The following play went the same way, with the officials again ruling that Samuel interfered; this put the ball on Colgate's 10-yard line. Brown tried four shots at the line, and the fourth dive saw Chase miss going over by inches.

For a list of Colgate's stars in the game please read the starting line-up in its entirety. For Brown, put circles around the names of Chase, Buonanno, Meadow and Brothers Gilbane.

MARION PREPS WIN.

Playing before a large crowd at the Fairlawn Field, the Marion Preps yesterday defeated their old rivals, the Cobras, by a score of 7-6 in a bitterly contested game. The Cobras, who triumphed last year, waged a determined battle before being nosed out.

GRUBE TAKES BRIDE.

Easton, Pa., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Miss Jessie Goddard, of Kellyville, Okla., and Frank Grube, catcher of the Chicago White Sox, were married today by the Rev. Frederick O. Musser in the Trinity Episcopal Church.

Grube is a resident of Easton. The bride is the daughter of Dr. Joseph Goddard, of Kellyville.

EDGEWOOD FIVE LOSES.

Running wild in the second half, the Lustine-Nicholson 130-pound quintet defeated the Edgewood tossers, 44-19, in a game played at Hyattsville last night. Calhoun, with 11 points, and Quantrille, with 12, were leading scorers for the winners. Rea's work featured the Edgewood attack.

WHEAT AT WINNIPEG DOWN IN DULL SALES

United States Holiday Cuts Interspreading Deals; Trading Is Routine.

Winnipeg, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Apathy of overseas buyers and absence of interspreading operations due to the holiday on United States exchanges set the wheat market back into dull routine trading today. Values at the close were ⅛ to ¼ cent lower than Wednesday's finals.

November closed at 46⅛, December 45, May 48⅝ and July 50⅛.

In spite of the persistent dullness of trading during the entire session, some 600,000 bushels of export was worked from both Atlantic and Pacific ports. Offerings were quite moderate, with hedging reduced by the smaller county deliveries, which dropped to less than 1,000,000 bushels yesterday.

Broomhall stated Argentine wheat was not competitive, but was unable to confirm any real business in Canadian wheat. Buenos Aires opened strong, but at noon was fractionally lower.

Demand for cash wheat was dull throughout the session, and cash interest in coarse grains light.

Court Backs Case Of Copper Mines

Management Is Upheld in Row Stirred by Proxy Fight.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The management of Consolidated Copper Mines, Inc., of New York, is sustained in a report filed in chancery court Wednesday by Clarence A. Southerland, Wilmington attorney, who was appointed special master last June in the suit of Paul A. Gow against the corporation. The last annual stockholders' meeting of the corporation was held May 3, after a proxy campaign by two factions. One group was known as the Adee committee, which supported the management, and the other was the Higgins committee, which opposed the management.

The special master holds in his report that the annual meeting was legally held, and at this meeting Raymond W. Higgins, Carleton E. Merritt and Thomas Bardon were legally elected directors for three years.

Mr. Merritt had been nominated by the Adee committee and Higgins and Bardon represented the Higgins group. But the master holds than an amendment to the by-laws of the corporation submitted by the Higgins committee and adopted at the meeting increasing the number of directors from nine to fifteen was invalid, because it was contrary to the company's certificate of incorporation.

Pierce-Arrow's Plant to Be Moved

Truck Department to Go to Cleveland by January 1.

Cleveland, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The manufacturing, engineering and sales headquarters of Pierce-Arrow trucks will be moved from Buffalo, N. Y., to Cleveland before January 1, A. G. Bean, president of the White Motor Co., announced today.

The change was brought about by the recent merger of the Studebaker Corporation and the White Motor Co. Studebaker acquired Pierce-Arrow in 1931.

Mr. Bean said the Studebaker plant at South Bend, Ind., would continue to build Studebaker trucks and that the White plant here would add the Pierce-Arrow line to its production schedule. It will not employ additional workers at this time, he said, as its employes have been on the "stagger system."

General Motors Adds 3,863 More Workers

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The General Motors Corporation announced today an increase of 3,863 employes in October over September throughout the country. In September there was an increase of 2,053 over August.

The company reported that while this expansion did reflect a seasonal influence, it also indicated an improvement in employment.

Canada Denies Planning To Quit Gold Coverage

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett announced in the House of Commons today that the government does not intend abandoning gold coverage for its paper money.

Since 1929 Canada technically has not been on the gold standard, but has covered its notes with gold. There is a statutory 25 per cent coverage for the first $50,000,000 in Dominion notes and above that figure it is dollar for dollar. This coverage, Mr. Bennett said, will be maintained.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—After temporary weakness on Hoover's statements, prices of gilt-edged securities and mining shares recovered. Business in other sections was light and price movements were narrow awaiting developments. The close was undecided.

Paris—The bourse resisted yesterday's Wall street heaviness and the international conference issues improved slightly, but rentes were weak, due to new realizing. The closing was dull.

Berlin—Trading on the boerse was uncertain in character and prices moved irregularly on the break in sterling exchange. The American attitude regarding debt payments and internal political developments were also factors. The closing was dull.

NEXT STOCKS' RISE PUZZLES BROKERS

Few Will Hazard Guess on Coming Bull Market; New Leaders Loom.

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Brokers are a bit harried at times by the persistent queries of clients who want to know when the next major rise in stocks will occur and what groups will be the leaders of the movement.

Having made some pretty poor guesses on the market's course over the last two years, many of the brokers thus approached are likely to make a humble confession that the clients are as well qualified as they are to forecast the market's future.

As for the selection of the favored groups in the next major rise, almost any broker will insist that it is about as hazardous a business as picking the winning horse in an overcrowded field.

Groups in List.

The stock list now embraces more than thirty-five separate groups, representing directly or indirectly virtually every important industry in the country.

There is an undercurrent of belief in brokerage circles that a new set of leaders will set the pace in the next bull market, though no one seems to have a definite idea of what industry or industries the securities will cover.

One reason for the general unwillingness to indulge in expansive guessing is that most industries which contributed the leaders in the bull markets of the last fifteen years are feeling new competitive conditions which may stand as a barrier against the recovery of their former earning power, even under a sharp uplift in business.

Market of 1924-29.

The 1924-29 bull market will be remembered for its widely diversified and rotating leadership which gave a place of prominence to a various groups of issues for a greater or less period.

From their casual observations, however, brokers feel that many of the leaders which held the stage from 1924 to 1929, may play a subordinate role in the next period of rising prices.

Opinion is qualified to this extent: That certain companies in every group have been favored by their ability to make the necessary adjustments to the changed economic conditions without impairment of their resources.

Argentine Grains Continue to Lose

Harvests Under Way, With Varied Crop Prospects; Flax Disappoints.

Buenos Aires, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—The wheat and corn markets today continued the downward trend exhibited at yesterday's close. Wheat was quoted at 12 centavos per 100 kilograms and corn at 9 centavos.

The harvest in the north is proceeding actively, that in the west has begun, the yield in the central areas is irregular. In the south and southwest where harvesting has not started the quality and quantity are reported higher than last year.

Some flax regions report disappointing crops, probably considerably lower than in 1931. Some damage to corn by locusts is expected, but wheat and flax are beyond that danger. Oats reports are excellent.

New York Central Car Loadings Increased

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Car loadings of the New York Central Lines for the week ended November 19 made a sharp recovery following their dip in the preceding week, which included the election holiday.

Total loadings for last week were reported today at 90,697 cars, against 82,788 the week before and 101,285 in the corresponding 1931 week. Last week's traffic was 10.5 per cent below the corresponding 1931 level, against a decline of 20.5 per cent the week before.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Security and commodity markets and banks remained closed today in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday. Business in other leading financial centers of the country was also suspended. All markets will resume operations tomorrow.

The weekly condition report of the Federal Reserve System, which is usually issued on Thursday, will be released tomorrow because of the holiday. Figures on brokers' loans, also a regular Thursday release, will be given out on Saturday.

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. has received an order, valued at approximately $150,000, for the electrical metering and switching equipment in Cincinnati's new $41,000,000 railroad terminal.

Wall street believes inventories of most automobile manufacturers are extremely low. In the case of General Motors, stock of old models, on the eve of new car introductions, are said to be the smallest in years.

The New York Curb Exchange today admitted to unlisted trading privileges the new class C common stock of the National Cash Register Co., on a "when, as and if issued" basis.

A plan for the reorganization of I. Miller & Sons, retailers of women's shoes, formulated by the investment firm of George H. Wool Prices Firm.

London, Nov. 24 (A.P.).—An excellent selection of wool was offered at the auction today and totaled 9,978 bales, of which 8,928 were sold. Prices were firm and bidding was spirited. Fine greasy crossbreds and slipes were rather dearer and there were moderate withdrawals among greasy merinos.

Corn for Lumber Trade Is Proposed

Iowan Would Barter for Arkansas' Surplus of Timber at Mills.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 24 (A.P.).—Iowa corn is in the market for Arkansas lumber on a carlot basis. And E. D. White, assistant marketing economist of State Agricultural Extension Service, sees no reason why these parasitic surpluses shouldn't be put to work devouring each other. C. R. Bowers, county agent of Pocahontas, Iowa, has informed Mr. White that corn is being burned for fuel in the courthouse there because there is no wood, a large corn crop and a low price for that product.

Mr. Bowers suggests that since truckers have hauled grape juice into Iowa to be exchanged for oats, they might haul Arkansas lumber into Iowa and accept corn in exchange. Mr. White also cited offers from farmers in Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Colorado and New Mexico to exchange flour, wheat and feeder pigs for Arkansas sorghum and cane sirup.

Mr. White said the lumber companies of Arkansas, with large supplies, could make a profitable trade by obtaining Iowa corn to feed their teams. "It's one way out of a surplus," Mr. White added.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

ALTHOUGH there are nearly 500 species of humming birds found in America, the ruby-throated is the only one that is found east of the Mississippi in the United States. Humming birds are most numerous in South and Central America, 148 different species being found in Ecuador, and 105 in Colombia.

It took the Pilgrim fathers thirteen years to get to America after they left England in their quest for religious freedom. The Pilgrims, however, did not come directly to America, nor was this continent their destination when they left the mother country. They spent several years in Holland before deciding to continue to the New World.

The Colorums, a revolutionary religious sect in the Philippines, were convinced that the world was coming to an end in 1924, and that the only way to prevent disaster would be to purchase a large and lengthy rope with which to bind the sphere together. The land, according to the program proposed by the Colorum leaders, would slide off into the ocean, unless it was securely bound together.

A fund accordingly was established, to which the ignorant Colorums contributed. The rope, incidentally, was never purchased.

THE ONCE OVER

H. I. PHILLIPS

IF THE HOOVER-ROOSEVELT HUDDLE SETS A PRECEDENT.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Charlie Curtis, Vice President of the United States, has issued an invitation to John Nance Garner, Vice President-elect on the Democratic ticket, to have a nice, long cry over problems on which their opinion will not be sought or required.

"As many of the vital issues which have not bothered me for the last four years will not take much of the new Vice President's time either, it seems fitting that Mr. Garner and I get together and ignore them as an indication of good feeling and national harmony," said Mr. Curtis.

"Certainly, I intend to accept," said Mr. Garner by long distance from his Texas home. "At a time like this there must be many grave problems about which the retiring Vice President knows very little. It will get me off to a traditional start in the office if I meet him and we exchange our lack of views."

* * * *

New York.—Mayor Joseph V. McKee and Mayor-elect John P. (Chrysanthemum Scent) O'Brien held a conference at city hall today at Mr. McKee's request, the idea being to exchange opinions on what is best for the city. The session broke up in a riot. Both men are reported resting comfortably.

* * * *

Washington, D. C.—Everett Sanders, pilot of the G. O. P. national campaign, will receive Jim Farley, manager of the Democratic campaign, at lunch tomorrow, it was learned today. Mr. Sanders wants some advice on how to pay the campaign debts. So does Mr. Farley.

* * * *

Cambridge, Mass.—Eddie Casey, coach of the vanquished Harvard football squad, today sent a letter to Mal Stevens, coach of Yale, inviting him to a conference on Harvard's policy for 1933. Mr. Casey was quite surprised by the outcome of the game at New Haven. As for Mr. Stevens you could have knocked him over with a feather.

* * * *

Chicago.—Lou Fonseca, manager of the Chicago White Sox, will shortly invite Manager McCarthy, of the New York Yankees, to meet with him for the purpose of going over the baseball situation and forming a policy for the Chicago club in the campaign next summer. McCarthy will attend and take Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

OPINION.

I never hear three singers bold

But that I know that only God
Can ever make a trio.

Kermit Kahn.

ALL STRAIGHTENED OUT NOW.

After reading over Japan's defense of her conduct against the Chinese, the point she wishes to make becomes quite clear: China just can't stand a little coddling by a lovely neighbor.

ADD SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT.

Things have picked up quite a bit around the country in the last few months. A suburban friend says it is now possible to bait his mousetrap and not have neighbors sneak in and steal the cheese.

EXCELLENT BAIT.

The original report was that Jimmy Walker was going to India to hunt tigers with the Maharajah of Mysore. Had the hunt taken place, the conversation might have taken this turn:

"What do you use for bait?" asked Jimmy.

"A tethered goat does very well," said the Maharajah. "Would you suggest any other kind of tiger bait, sahib?"

"I know a couple of fellows who would do," said Jimmy under his breath.

Strange Dog Bites Playing 7-Year-Old

While playing with a strange dog on the Bloomingdale Playgrounds at Second and Bryant streets northwest, Richard Watkins, 7 years old, 2227 Flagler place northwest, was seriously bitten about the face yesterday morning.

Happy Again

Post's Story of Lost Dog Returns Spitz Pet to 4-Year-Old Master.

Fritzie is back home, and his little master, LeRoy Hager, is happy again. Freshly washed, with his white hair shining, the Spitz dog was returned yesterday by a woman who had seen the story in The Post about the lost dog and the inconsolable boy.

Bernard Hager, 733 Tenth street northeast, father of 4-year-old LeRoy, said last night the dog had evidently strayed and returned to the former home of the family at Twelfth place northeast.

Goes Free

Woman Refuses to Push Case Against Hungry Purse Snatcher.

Being hungry on any day is bad, but being hungry on Thanksgiving Day is terrible.

Therefore, when Miss Margaret Folley, 923 Twentieth street northwest, learned the man who snatched her purse yesterday was hungry and had committed the bold theft merely for the purpose of getting something to eat, she decided not to prosecute.

While walking at Scott Circle, the man grabbed her purse, containing $4. Miss Folley screamed. A couple heard her scream and saw the man running. They pursued him as he ran up Seventeenth street and saw him enter a restaurant near R street.

When they demanded the purse the man handed it over, saying he stole it merely because he was hungry. Convinced, they returned the purse to Miss Folley. When she was told what the man said, she would not prosecute.

BICENTENNIAL ENDS WITH SIMPLE RITES BESIDE MONUMENT

Celebration in Honor of Washington Lasted 9 Months 2 Days.

With a simple ceremony at the Monument, the George Washington Bicentennial closed yesterday after 9 months and 2 days of world-wide celebration.

The last act of the District Bicentennial Commission was performed yesterday morning at 10:15 o'clock when a wreath was placed at the foot of the tall white shaft which was raised by a grateful country to its first President.

Those present at the ceremony included Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, Dr. George C. Havenner, Thomas P. Littlepage, Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Clarence Aspinwall, Dr. George F. Bowerman, Isaac Gans, John H. Cowles, E. C. Graham, J. Leo Kolb, Edgar C. Snyder, Gen. Anton Stephan, Judge James A. Cobb, W. W. Everett, Mrs. Philip Sidney Smith and Gov. Thomas Campbell, all members of the commission. Others present included Mrs. Fulton R. Lewis, Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest and Mrs. Gans.

Longest in History.

The Bicentennial was the longest ceremony in history, outlasting the Chicago World's Fair by three months. The World's Fair ran for six months, the Bicentennial for nine. During this time more than 700,000 Bicentennial Commissions and committees were formed, and an average of more than 4,000 celebrations were held every day throughout the country and abroad.

Although no official invitation to participate was extended by our Government, 78 countries held Bicentennial celebrations of some sort. Streets, parks or squares have been named for George Washington in 26 foreign cities, and in Vienna a new municipal apartment house bears his name. The government of Poland issued a special postage stamp in honor of the celebration and four cities in Germany alone have named streets for Washington.

Bloom Headed Board.

Arrangements for the celebration were begun more than two and a half years ago by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, headed by Representative Sol Bloom, with President Hoover as chairman. Even now, when the last ceremony has been held, the work of the commission is not finished. An eight-volume history of the Bicentennial still remains to be compiled, and this is expected to take another six months.

In addition to this history, the "Definitive Writings of George Washington" are also being edited. This work, which will fill 25 volumes, is reported to be the most comprehensive work on Washington ever attempted.

A final report of the commission, which stands sponsor for the statistics, lists its work during the last nine months. Figures run into millions—30,000,000 Bicentennial trees have been planted, according to the report. More than 12,000,000 pieces of Bicentennial literature have been distributed. More than 1,000,000 programs have been held.

Wakefield Restored.

More than 2,000,000 school children have participated. More than 1,000,000 portraits of Washington have been distributed to schools. More than 1,000,000 copies of the official Bicentennial song, "Washington, Father of the Land We Love," have been given out.

In addition to all this, Wakefield, Washington's birthplace, has been restored and turned over to the Government. The Mount Vernon boulevard has been completed and dedicated. Permanent memorials in the form of bridges and other structures have been built in New Jersey, Indiana, Wyoming and three in New York State, including the George Washington Bridge across the Hudson.

A Bicentennial quarter dollar was minted and put into circulation, a Bicentennial medal was struck off to be presented to persons who did good work during the celebration, and twelve Washington stamps were issued by the Postoffice Department. These brought in to the Government a return of $500,000.

Blaze in Vacant House Is Laid to Combustion

Spontaneous combustion, which ignited oily rags and paints beneath the stairway, is believed to have caused the fire in a vacant house at 1620 Belmont street northwest yesteraday afternoon.

The stairway was burned, the damage being estimated at $150. The house is owned by Mrs. Nathan Scott, 2400 Sixteenth street northwest.

Woman Is Burned As Dress Blazes

Possible Tragedy Averted by Her Quick Action in Calling Aid.

Presence of mind probably saved Mrs. Emma Burrows, 30, from being severely burned and possible death yesterday afternoon when her dress caught on fire as she was tending the furnace in the basement of her home at 711 Tuckerman street northwest.

Immediately after the blaze started she rushed to the telephone and called for aid. Firemen arrived and extinguished the fire before it had made headway, though the women suffered painful burns about her body.

She was removed to Garfield Hospital by the rescue squad, where she was treated for first degree burns. Her condition was said to be serious.

Johnson Dinner Profits To Aid Community Chest

All profits from a testimonial dinner to be given for Walter Johnson, former manager of the Washington Baseball Club, at the Shoreham Hotel next Thursday will be turned over to the Community Chest, it was announced yesterday.

Among the notables who will be present at the dinner are Babe Ruth and Jimmy Foxx from baseball circles; Bobby Jones, of golf fame; Gene Tunney, of the prize ring, and Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the "boss" of baseball. "Radio Joe" Kaufman is in charge of the program and entertainment.

2 WOMEN ARE HURT IN POLICE CAR CRASH

Driver of Auto Which Hit Cruiser Is Arrested as Reckless.

Two women were injured yesterday afternoon when the car in which they were riding collided with a Traffic Bureau police cruiser, responding to a call at the White House, at the intersection of Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

According to the report submitted by Private J. O. Curtis, operator of the police cruiser, he had been ordered to the White House to aid in the trouble there yesterday afternoon, and while on his way to the scene, at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, he was waved through by Private H. E. Moore, directing traffic at that intersection, when a small coupe passed through Moore's signal and collided with the police car.

Louise Tucker, 32, of 1320 Harvard street northwest, operator of the coupe, and Mabel Thorpe, 35, of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, a passenger in the car, were removed to Emergency Hospital and treated for abrasions and bruises. Their conditions were said to be not serious.

Following treatment, Miss Tucker was charged at the Traffic Bureau with reckless driving, no District of Columbia permit, and failing to exhibit a registration card.

Husband Killed By Kitchen Gas

Financial Worries Believed to Be Cause of Ryan Death.

James J. Ryan, 53, of 523 Tennessee avenue northeast, was found dead in the kitchen of his home with gas flowing from two jets on the stove yesterday afternoon by his wife, Mrs. Lillian Ryan.

Mrs. Ryan told police she smelled gas and, tracing it to the kitchen, found her husband sitting in a chair with his head on the stove and the two burners wide open.

She summoned the Fire Rescue Squad and Casualty Hospital ambulance. The firemen worked for some time without effect. Dr. J. R. Passalacqua, of Casualty Hospital staff, pronounced Ryan dead.

No certificate had been issued last night, but police believe the case to be suicide. According to authorities, Ryan was worried over finances.

Five Persons Injured When Autos Collide

Five persons were injured early yesterday morning on the Lee highway cut-off and Chain Bridge road near Fairfax, when cars operated by Powell Drumheller, of Idylwood, Va., and John M. Day, colored, of Washington, collided.

J. H. Drumheller, father of the driver, and Glenn Drumheller, a brother, suffered cuts and bruises, and Day, driver of the other car, and two occupants of the Day car, Mrs. Matilda Jennings and Albert Fletcher, colored, of Washington, sustained cuts. All were treated locally and summoned to appear in county court this morning.

Visitor's Parked Car Looted.

Clothing valued at $150 was reported stolen from an automobile owned by J. Thurman Cobb, of Battle Creek, Mich., when it was parked near North Capitol and D streets yesterday afternoon.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

The holiday passed without a single traffic death. However there were several accidents which resulted in personal injuries and property damage.

The rising toll of fatal accidents must be checked. Police are asking complete cooperation of citizens in a drive to make the streets safe.

Jay walking is a frequent cause of accidents. The pedestrian must cooperate as well as the motorist. Cross streets at intersections and wait for the green light or the policeman's signal, when you are afoot.

Accident and death figures to date are:	1931.	1932.
Deaths	69	114
Injuries	3,206	3,442
Accidents	7,464	7,049

BART PLAY OPENS SEASON OF DRAMA

Bernard Barton Gets First Mention for Portrayal in "The Squall."

The Drama Guild of Washington opened its winter season at the Wardman Park Theater last night with presentation of "The Squall," a play by Jean Bart which proves that the eternal triangle is by no means an old Spanish custom.

"The Squall" sweeps over a little village near Granada, precipitating Nubi, a gypsy dancing girl—and another squall—played with fire and fury by A. Bethine Coe, into the tranquillity of the Mendez household. Nubi is given protection in the home and proceeds to demonstrate that she can perform as much damage as the elements at the expense of the father, mother, son and male servant of the house.

The play is richly embroidered with what has become known as sex appeal, but after the Hollywood products the most unsophisticated audience should find the criss-cross of amour as innocuous as the old tale of Cinderella and her elusive slipper.

The production is well staged, the storm scene being made particularly realistic, and the cast plunges bravely through a story whose ending is not as obscure as the author probably intended.

Next to the acting of Miss Coe, which in the first act is overdone, Bernard Barton deserves first mention for his sincere portrayal of Juan Mendez, the son. Hester Walker Beall, as the mother, performs her role with grace and charm, while Maurice Jarvis, as the father, offers a finely shaded characterization.

Thomas Cahill's appearance in the first act as Padre Molino is one of the high spots of the drama. Creditable contributions are given by Esther Cloyd, as Manuela, the tormented servant; Eldred Wilson, as Pedro, her sweetheart; Anne Ives, as Donna Paca, a gossipy neighbor, and Howard Whitfield, as her fatuous son; Helen A. Ryan, as the fiancee of Juan; Frank E. Jamison, as her father, and James Otis Porter as the ferocious gypsy who lays claim to Nubi.

The play will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 p. m.

Knights of Columbus Dance to Aid Poor

The annual Thanksgiving charity dance for the benefit of the sick and relief fund of the Knights of Columbus will be given by Carroll Council, K. of C., at the Auditorium at 918 Tenth street northwest tonight at 9 o'clock.

The ballroom has been completely redecorated and other improvements have been made to provide for the comfort of the guests. Music will be furnished by Lowd's Mississippians, and the advance ticket sale is proceeding favorably, those in charge report.

DATA ON OFFENSES WILL BE COMPILED FOR NATION'S USE

Police, Penal and Judicial Statistics to Become Aid to Comparison.

Adoption of a standard classification of offenses for police, penal and judicial statistics, as recommended by a committee of outstanding experts in criminal statistics, was announced yesterday by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigaton, Department of Justice.

As result of this move, the law enforcement agencies of the country will have within reach comprehensive reports on the fluctuations of crime waves in the country, and they will facilitate comparability of data from State to State, according to Mr. Hoover.

Uniform Classification Used.

While no Federal agency had yet attempted to collect judicial statistics on a national scale, the Bureau of Investigation has, for some time past, collected and published offenses known to police, using a uniform classification. The Census Bureau has been publishing penal statistics, based upon a classification not susceptible to ready comparison with that used by the Bureau of Investigation.

The new method would permit comparisons among the police, penal and judicial statistics. The new method was evolved by a special committee of police administrators, penologists and jurists, named at a conference called by Mr. Hoover last December.

Personnel of Committee.

The committee which recommended the adoption of the standard classification system was composed of: Prof. L. C. Marshall, of the Institute of Law of the Johns Hopkins University; Prof. Raymond Moley of the school of law, Columbia University; Bruce Smith, and Miss Audrey Davis, of the Institute of Public Administration; Prof. W. E. Mikell, of the University of Pennsylvania law school; Dean Justin Miller, of the school of law, Duke University; Dr. Thornsten Sellin, representing the Bureau of the Census, and James J. Waters, of the United States Bureau of Investigation.

Commissioners Decide Today on Bancroft Bid

The District Commissioners today will decide whether to reject all bids for construction of an eight-room addition to the Bancroft School or award the ontract to the Maas Construction Co., of Baltimore, low bidder, whose estimate of $93,600 exceeds the appropriation for the project.

District Auditor D. J. Donovan will make a recommendation to the Commissioners. Under the law the contract may be awarded if savings on other school contracts are sufficient to cover the difference between the appropriation and the bid.

PAN-AMERICAN MASS OBSERVED

The Pan-American mass held annually each Thanksgiving at St. Patrick's Church was attended by officials of Latin-American countries. The annual mass of Thanksgiving was presided over by the apostolic delegate, Mgr. Pietro Fumisoni-Biondi (center) assisted by the Rev. Francis X. Cavanagh (left) and the Rev. Michael Riordan.

DIPLOMATS ATTEND THANKSGIVING MASS

Excessive Nationalism Hit by Father Shehan at Pan American Rites.

Celebrating the twenty-fourth annual Pan-American Thanksgiving mass, high ranking diplomats, stationed in Washington as representatives of the various Latin-American countries, gathered yesterday in St. Patrick's Church, Tenth and G streets northwest, to hear the Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan plead for "new international ethics" and denounce the "evils of excessive nationalism."

The church auditorium presented a colorful picture, decorated throughout with the flags of all American nations. Presiding over the services was the Apostolic delegate, the Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi. He was attended by the Rev. James McVann, of the Paulist College; the Rev. Francis X. Cavanaugh, of the Church of the Assumption, and the Rev. Michael Riordan, pastor of St. Martin's Church.

Lack of Ideals Hit.

Speaking with Thanksgiving as the keynote of his talk, Father Shehan declared that "the great masses of our people find themselves without any great moral ideal."

"It would be wrong to place the sole blame of our present conditions upon those who have been entrusted with the political leadership," said Father Shehan. "The chief source of our present plight, it seems to me, lies in the fact that the great mass of citizens find themselves without any lofty moral ideals to guide them and to give them hope."

Father Shehan declared that George Washington's advice to avoid all entangling alliances had been overemphasized to bring about a period of isolation and selfishness.

Others Taking Part.

Others taking part in the mass were the Rev. Jerome Sebastian, of St. Elizabeth's Church, Baltimore; the Rev. Elmer Fisher and the Rev. George Shank, of St. Edward's Church, Baltimore, and the Rev. Francis Montgomery.

Those in attendance included: Ambassador Miguel Cruchaga of Chile, mentioned as the probable new minister of foreign affairs of Chile; Ambassador Felipe Espil of Argentina, Ambassador Manuel Freyre y Santander of Peru, Ambassador Oscar B. Cintas of Cuba and Senora de Cintas, Minister Adrian Recinos of Guatemala, minister Pedro Arvaya of Venezuela, Minister Gonzalo Zaldumbide of Ecuador, Charge d'Affaires Manuel Gonzalez of Costa Rica and Dr. Enrique Finot of Bolivia.

REKINDLING CIVIC IDEALS IS PLEADED

"Thankful—for What?" Is Answered by Guest Preacher.

"We mention Washington," said the Rev. Robert Shores, guest preacher at St. Thomas Church, in the course of his Thanksgiving sermon, "because today marks the close of the Bicentennial celebration which has been a step toward restoring the ideals of the American people and rekindling their enthusiasm for the civic and religious ideas, without which we can make little or no progress toward a better day." He pointed out that the founders of the Nation were religious men who, at the close of a long and devastating war, facing an uncertain future, found it in their hearts to give thanks.

Taking for his text, "Continue in prayer and watch in the same with Thanksgiving," the speaker undertook to answer a cartoonist's question, "Thankful—for what?"

"This question occurs to a certain number of people each Thanksgiving Day," he said, "regardless of conditions. No country is so prosperous, but that some suffer. No man is so prosperous that he is immune to suffering. Thankful for what? Each man will answer this in his own way."

The speaker related a story of a little boy who declared that he was most thankful for noodle soup and added, "Was he any wider of the mark than we are when we seek occasion for thanksgiving only in material benefits; when we put so great a value on little things, so little value on great things?"

COURT AND HOSPITAL ARE IN DISPUTE OVER HIT-AND-RUN VICTIM

Unemployed Barber Ordered Back to Gallinger When Carried to Trial.

A 45-year-old barber, of New Rochelle, N. Y., is the center of a heated controversy between officials of Gallinger Hospital and District Police Court.

Whether this man, Rocco Sacco, is still suffering from injuries received in a hit-and-run accident on October 23, as Judge Ralph Given believes, or whether he has fully recovered and is merely pretending, as Gallinger physicians intimate, is the question.

Sacco was brought into Judge Given's court yesterday, to answer charges of drunkenness. He was carried on the back of a policeman. He wore a blood-stained shirt and told the court attaches that he was unable to walk.

Ordered Back to Hospital.

Judge Given, after learning that Sacco suffered a fractured leg, a fractured collar bone and severe injuries to his head, refused to hear the case, and ordered the man recommitted to the hospital. He said an inquiry would immediately be launched.

Physicians at Gallinger last night were unable to furnish any information other than that Sacco had been returned to his ward for further treatment. A reporter, after more than half an hour in the institution, was unable to locate a physician who had either seen or treated the man.

Struck by Auto.

Although Dr. E. C. Bocock, superintendent of the hospital, declared Sacco "was not in need of further treatment," a doctor explained that he was readmitted "because the court ordered it."

Sacco is an unemployed barber. He was struck by a hit-and-run motorist while attempting to cross the street at John Marshal place and Pennsylvania avenut northwest, on October 23. After receiving first aid at Emergency Hospital he was transferred to Gallinger and a charge of being drunk was placed against him.

Judge Given appeared incensed that Sacco was sent to court "in an unfit condition."
